LOAN ORDERS SIGNED

By Mayor Meehan for Various Street Improvements

Milk Inspector Says the Milk Supply Is of Good Quality—Work Begun on the Reviewing Stand for the Hibernian Parade

The city of Lowell has made a temporary loan of $100,000 from William H. Reed & Co. of Boston, in anticipation of taxes. The loan will be due November 10 and the discount will be 4.19 per cent.

Fine Quality Milk

Asked today as to the quality of the milk being sold in Lowell, Milk Inspector Master said: "The milk is exceptionally good for this time of year. The necessary total solids, according to law, is 12.15. The milk in this city for June averaged 12.83 and 12.99 for month of July. We sent out a good many warnings during the months of June and July and I think that helped some. Whenever we found a sample that was working, but necessarily below the standard, but growing weak, we sent a warning and I should judge from the quality of the milk at the present time that the farmers must be getting their cows." Sometime ago the milk inspector was supplied with apparatus for making bacteriological examination of the milk and a few preliminary tests have been made, 32 in all, and he found that the milk in this direction was all right. He found that the bacteria was not greater than the law allows. Mr. Master, however, does not claim to have made what he would call satisfactory tests and he will not make any definite report until he has examined 200 samples or more.

The Reviewing Stand

Men are at work on the reviewing stand for the Hibernian parade to be held one week from today. The stand is being built in Worthen street between the city hall and the soldiers' monument. The work is being done by the lands and buildings department, A. E. Burnham in charge. The stand will have a 74 foot front. It will be 56 feet deep and will accommodate over 1000 people. Over 14,000 feet of lumber will be contained in the structure.

For Election Supplies

Bids on election supplies were opened at the office of the purchasing agent this forenoon. The contract for 100 copies of election officers for 1910 and 1911, and 1500 envelopes went to the Union Printing company. Prince & Son will supply the miscellaneous stuff, including pencils, penholders, mugs, rubber bands, ink, sealing wax, etc.

SPANISH AVIATOR

Made the Journey Across the English Channel

DEAL, England, Aug. 17.—In an aeroplane voyage from Paris to London, which since the crossing of the English channel by Blériot and others has been the great aim of the birdmen, Moissant, the young Spanish aviator, descended near here today, having accomplished the flight from Paris to Calais and the journey across the channel to Deal with an ease and brilliancy rarely surpassed. He is now preparing to continue the trip to London, the completion of which will bring him the cup and prize offered by a London newspaper for the course and the proceeds of the subscription raised in England for Graham E. White, which the unsuccessful competitor in the London-Manchester flight generously offered as a prize for the Paris to London competition.

Hubert Latham, who started from Issy, a suburb of Paris, to race Moissant to London, had a series of unfortunate accidents, the last at Amiens culminating in the total wrecking of his machine as he was preparing to resume the flight. Latham escaped unhurt but is out of the race.

The last stage of Moissant's flight, the trip across the channel, was accomplished in a strong channel breeze, the wind being so high that experienced aviators looked upon the start as foolhardy. It was such a wind that repeatedly deterred Latham, Blériot and other aviators from attempting the passage of the straits and correspondents, who had witnessed the earlier attempts to cross the channel, confidently expected that Moissant would not start before evening when the wind was expected to fall. Nevertheless as soon as he could arrange for a French torpedo boat to follow him across the channel Moissant launched his aeroplane from the cliffs near Calais at 10.45 this morning and started for the English shore. The breeze was still strong and the monoplane, which like other Blériot machines appears to spectators less steady in the air than the more stable and heavier biplanes, pitched and rolled so dangerously that spectators believed it in imminent danger. Moissant, however, who is the youngest of the aviators, managed his machine with the greatest skill and as the Blériot with its guide passed over the zone of greatest danger near the shore seemed to steady his machine, and as he passed out of sight of Calais was, according to reports, flying well at an altitude of about 500 feet. He was expected to land at Dover, but was driven a few miles north and made the coast near Deal, passing over Walmer castle and the marine barracks at 11.15. He was unable to continue the journey to London, so numbered was he by the cold during the crossing from Calais, and landed near Tilmanstone, a short distance from Deal. The trip from Calais to Tilmanstone occupied approximately 37 minutes.

John Moissant, who by his achievement today will take rank with Blériot, Farman, Latham and other celebrated flyers, is a young Spaniard, almost at the beginning of his career in aviation. After four trial flights August 7 he flew with his mechanic as a passenger from Calais to Issy, fifty miles, at an elevation of 3000 feet, arriving at the competitors in the cross country race were starting from Issy. Yesterday he reached Amiens and at 5.00 this morning he ascended and headed for Calais, still carrying his mechanic as a passenger, and descended at Calais at 7.15.

Latham rushed repairs this morning to outstrip Moissant and started, but the aeroplane touched a tree, wing collapsed and the machine turned turtle.

ENJOYING THEMSELVES

The O. M. I. Cadets Are Having a Great Time

This is the big day at the O. M. I. Cadets' camp.

The boys are enjoying themselves immensely and there is no sign of sickness or trouble at the campground. The early hours of last night were spent under the campfire and the young soldiers sang songs, told stories and had a general good time. A large number of parents of the campers paid a visit to the camp and were delighted with the arrangements there. This afternoon the camp was crowded and

This evening it is expected that several thousand people will go out to see the boys at Milligan's grove. A fine concert will be given and there will be chorus singing by the cadets. Chief Marshal Humphrey O'Sullivan of the A. O. H. parade visited the camp this afternoon and was given a great reception. The boys cheered him and their parents and other visitors to the camp joined in the welcome to him. Dr. Wm. Collins is looking after the boys who have any complaint to make, and "Mat" McCann is making expert swimmers and athletes of them. Lieut. McArdle takes care of them during their drills and dress parades, and Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., conducts the religious services in the morning and evening.

MURDER INQUEST

Judge Pickman Finds Gianakos Guilty of Homicide

Judge John J. Pickman, who presided over the inquest held to determine who was responsible for the death of Aristides Georgopoulos, who it is alleged was shot and fatally wounded by George Gianakos in Suffolk street, near Ford street, on the night of July 30, submitted his report today. Judge Pickman found that Gianakos shot Georgopoulos and that Gianakos had not such reasonable ground to apprehend a personal attack on him as to warrant the use of a revolver or any other weapon and that there was no lawful justification for such use by him, neither was there any excuse for the homicide committed by Gianakos.

The report is as follows:

On Saturday, July 30 last, past, about 2.30 o'clock in the evening Aristides Georgopoulos, with several companions, went into a bar room on Merrimack street, in the city of Lowell, where he drank two glasses of beer. Soon after, with one or two of his companions, he went to Suffolk street, and there he met George Gianakos walking with a friend, Peter Theodore. Georgopoulos asked Gianakos if he had not said something, repeating it, that reflected on the good name of his sister. Gianakos made a reply that led Georgopoulos to say, "I have a witness to it, and I will call him." He called to one Courajalis, who was standing on the other side of the street, to come over to him, and he did so. The testimony at the inquest as to what took place between Georgopoulos and Gianakos after the inquiry referred to was made to Gianakos is somewhat conflicting. It is certain that both were in temper, and that each had hold of the other, "holding each other by the coat" and were speaking in an animated way to each other. It is not clear the blows were struck, but they, or persons in the group, or both, were "moving their hands" toward each other in a hostile way. When Courajalis, who had been called as a witness, as stated, went near Georgopoulos, Gianakos pulled a revolver from his pocket and discharged it at Georgopoulos, the bullet entering his body; thereupon Gianakos ran away, dropping the revolver as he ran, or throwing it away, and Georgopoulos was taken to a drug

IN POLICE COURT

Minor Violations of Sunday Law

Three storekeepers were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on complaints charging them with violating the Lord's Day. A week ago Sunday several police officers in citizens' clothes made a tour of the city to ascertain if any of the storekeepers were violating the Sunday law and they succeeded in purchasing soap in two places while in the third place a package of soap was bought.

In court this morning all three entered pleas of guilty and fines of $5 each were imposed.

Lexington Man May Have Been Drugged

Charles J. Lunney, the man who it is alleged relieved a drunken man of his watch and chain and money on the South common yesterday morning, appeared in police court this morning and entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with the larceny of a watch valued at $20, chain valued at $1 and $25 in money, the property of James McQuade. Owing to the fact that McQuade was unable to appear in court this morning the government asked for a continuance till tomorrow which was granted.

It developed late yesterday afternoon that the unknown man who was robbed by Lunney was James McQuade of Lexington, Mass. The man was taken to the police station about 9 o'clock yesterday morning and remained in a comatose condition until about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, when it was deemed advisable to remove him to the city hospital.

After receiving treatment at the hospital he began to show signs of life and while he gave a brief history of what he had done since reaching Lowell his mind was rather hazy relative to what happened prior to his going to sleep on a seat in the common.

The police are of the opinion that the man was drugged.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Declines to Discuss the Defeat of Col. Roosevelt

BEVERLY, Aug. 17.—Beverly was completely upset last night when news came from New York of the defeat of Col. Roosevelt for temporary chairman of the New York republican state convention. The fact that Lloyd C. Griscom, chairman of the New York county committee, had been in conference with President Taft as late as Saturday night and Sunday added to the sensation that the dispatches created.

Secretary Norton carried the news to the president shortly before the dinner hour. Mr. Taft made no comment for publication. There is nothing here to indicate that he knew of Mr. Griscom's plan to force a vote on Mr. Roosevelt's name.

So far as can be learned Mr. Griscom's talk with the president had to do solely with the general situation in New York state, and Mr. Taft took ground that harmony ought to be brought about if possible before the Saratoga convention. The story that Mr. Griscom took a message to Col. Roosevelt which would affect the future relations between Mr. Roosevelt and the president is discredited in Beverly. Mr. Taft has assumed the attitude that any overtures, if they be necessary, must come "from the other side."

The statement issued by Col. Roosevelt last night, apparently placing himself squarely on the side of the "progressives," has created much comment here. What effect yesterday's developments in New York may have upon the reorganization plans that have been in progress here must, of course, for a time remain a matter of conjecture. So far as can be learned there is a disposition here to "stand pat" on the plans as announced.

The publicity that has been given to these plans may retard them for a while, but there is apparently plenty of confidence here that they ultimately will go through.

Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, the central figure in the reorganization plans, was here late yesterday afternoon and spent two hours with the president. The senator was reluctant as ever. He would not talk about his mission in the west, nor would he discuss in any way his visit to the president.

It is said that Senator Crane was selected for the work he has in hand because of his habit of reticence. The president warned him yesterday not "to be so garrulous with the reporters," and the senator, appreciating the joke, was a little more silent than ever.

Some of the senator's questions suggested to him last night that he might deny some of the stories that have been sent out of Beverly during the past week. This Mr. Crane modestly declined to do. He was interrogated from every possible angle, but warded off every question.

Secretary Norton, who, it is generally believed, has been working in close harmony with Senator Crane, was equally reticent last night. He said with a smile that he could "add nothing to what Senator Crane had said." It is known, however, that Senator Crane submitted a complete verbal report to the president of his observations in the west and what he had learned more recently in New Hampshire and Vermont. The senator had been on an auto trip through the two latter states and it was uncertain yesterday whether he would reach Beverly or not. If President Taft was in ignorance of what Senator Crane has been doing he undoubtedly learned of his activities yesterday.

In this connection, and with regard to the reports that the reorganization plans might go on the rocks because of the refusal of Secretary Ballinger to resign, it is stated that when Senator Crane was first called into the situation it was on a telegram asking if he could undertake a mission to the west "for the president." This mission to the west turned out to be a conference with Secretary Ballinger regarding a plan for his retirement from the cabinet. It is known that heavy pressure will be brought to bear upon Mr. Ballinger to resign without putting the president in the position of asking for that resignation.

The 15th of September will tell the story and no one apparently in the meantime can tell just what the outcome will be.

KING AND QUEEN OF ITALY GO TO SEE FATHER OF LATTER CROWNED AT MONTENEGRO

ROME, Aug. 17.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helene of Italy have started for the little principality of Montenegro, which is soon to become the kingdom of Zeta, with the father of Queen Helene, Prince Nicholas I., as king. Advice from the Swiss frontier that anarchists have gathered to assassinate the royal party have caused extraordinary police precautions to be taken, but the Swiss authorities declare that the gathering of anarchists has nothing to do with a plot to slay the king. When the king and queen of Italy arrive in Montenegro the actual change from dependency to kingdom will have taken place, but for several days following their arrival there will be elaborate festivities in court circles. It is said that King Nicholas plans to make his court as exclusive and stately as that at Vienna.

"Dr. Kelly," and reached a crisis when Swan Dahlberg, another member of the panel, said he had been "seen" by some agent. Dahlberg declared this agent told him, after questioning him as to his belief in the guilt or innocence of Browne, that he need not answer the subpoena. He acted on this advice, and in consequence was brought before the judge yesterday to explain why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court. Then he told his story.

Judge Kersten leaned over his desk and said solemnly: "The court wants to know if this is going to be a fair trial or a travesty on justice. The situation has reached a point where an investigation is necessary. I don't want to blame either the state or the defense, but someone is doing crooked work. When a juror is subpoenaed no one has a right to talk to him. As it is, probably every man on the jury has been approached."

At this point Attorney O'Donnell made his accusation against some "third party."

Then Mr. Wayman jumped to his feet and said: "I can prove that the defense has been systematically calling on all veniremen. Man after man has been excused from service on this jury and has been taken to my office, where they told me they had been approached directly or through members of their various households."

One venireman, whose name was not disclosed, caused further excitement after the panel had been taken to Mr. Wayman's office. An official said later that the venireman had been asked by "an agent" to stick it out for Browne "till hell freezes over."

A sixth panel, which was ordered to report today, will be questioned. If it is found that investigators have been talking to them, this panel will be dismissed also.

The first trial of Browne for the alleged bribing of White resulted in a disagreement. The work of selecting a new jury began three weeks ago, but progress has been slow because most of the veniremen had formed opinions.

MANY COMPLAIN

About Sending the Auto Patrol Out of Town

The fire department committee, Aldermen Adams and Byam, Councilmen Achin, Kilpatrick and Tracey, met last night. Alderman Byam was the only absentee.

Chief Hosmer was present at the meeting and the first business to be considered had to do with the sending of the auto fire patrol out of town.

Chairman Adams said he had received complaints from numerous business men and representative citizens during the past few weeks about the fire department sending the auto fire patrol out of town and the committee has a unit in declaring that it weakened the department. Chief Hosmer agreed with the committee and said if the committee would vote to instruct him not to send the patrol out of town that he would abide by the instructions of the committee. It was so voted.

Alderman Adams next called the attention of the committee and the chief to the alleged poor working of the tape system in announcing the box numbers at the Warren street house. It was claimed by the chairman and some of the other members, more especially Councilman Kilpatrick, that the tape system had, up to date, proved a failure and should be replaced by the indicator system, which was in use previous to the tape.

Chief Hosmer stated that the tape was the proper thing and should be continued. Councilman Kilpatrick did not agree with him.

No formal action was taken in the matter.

The lack of a fire box in the upper end of Princeton street and at the junction of Draught street and Fourth avenue, was discussed at some length.

The matter of placing combination auto trucks at the High street and Branch street houses and the purchase of an auto for the chief's use, was discussed. Chief Hosmer said that it would take something like $1,500 to buy the three pieces of apparatus proposed.

Councilman Kilpatrick stated that the people of the Oaklands district were desirous of having a new house built in their section, but he, as well as the other members of the committee, believed the placing of an auto truck at the High street house would afford sufficient fire protection for that section.

On motion of Councilman Tracey it was voted to take a view on next Thursday afternoon of the proposed new location of fire alarm boxes and incidentally look over the Oaklands section for a site for a fire house. Also to look over the central fire station to consider the need of a new boiler there.

AN UGLY CROWD

Made Attack on the Strikebreakers

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 17.—An ugly crowd of some hundred or more laborers on strike in this city threatened harm to a number of strikebreakers who went to work in the Sharpe mill this morning. Chief of Police Mason and a number of patrolmen were hurried to the scene of disorder and dispersed the strikers. Strikebreakers were stoned and dragged from their work by the strikers.

The strikers made an attack upon the donkey engine which had been fired up for the first time since the strike began and sent a veritable hail of rocks at the machine. They did but little damage and any attempt to draw the fire from under the boiler was frustrated by one husky Italian laborer who stood guard at the door with a coal shovel and a long poker and dared any striker to come near him.

The strikers before the arrival of the police detail in the auto took half a dozen men who were at work and by main strength pulled them off the job and, forming a cordon around them, kept them in the ranks of the strikers.

Chief of Police Mason personally directed the city's forces today, touring the city in a machine and visiting every place where danger threatened. He personally went into several scarpes himself and in addition to directing his officers did a bit of personal physical work when he thought occasion demanded. The city is so stretched out and the various jobs which have been struck so isolated that it makes the work of the police all the more difficult, and upon several occasions in addition to this they have found the strikers composed almost exclusively of hot-headed foreigners looking for fight and extremely slow about obeying any orders from the officers.

At the Sharpe mill the men who desired to work came this morning intending to remain the entire day, not leaving the mill for dinner and the police have promised plenty of protection for them when they leave for their homes this evening.

BRIBERY CASE

Alleged That the Veniremen Were "Approached"

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Declaring that nearly all the veniremen had been "approached" in connection with the retrial of Lee O'Neil Browne, Judge Kersten yesterday dismissed a panel of 72, who had been subpoenaed for the selection of a jury.

This action came after several days' endeavor to get a jury to try Browne, the democratic minority leader of the Illinois legislature, on a charge of giving Representative Charles A. White a bribe to vote for William Lorimer for U. S. senator.

Judge Kersten pronounced the situation "deplorable."

The veniremen were immediately taken to the office of State Attorney Wayman, where Judge Kersten asked each man by name if he had been called on by anyone in connection with his possible services as a juror. Nearly all answered in the affirmative. They were instructed to report in court today for further investigation.

Mr. Wayman made the assertion in court that he could prove by a detective employed by the defense that the latter had systematically sought out every prospective venireman, either personally or through members of his family.

P. H. O'Donnell of counsel for Browne, asserted that the veniremen had been "seen" by agents of a third interest, neither defense nor prosecution, but someone interested for political reasons in the downfall of Browne.

This phase of the case began to develop in the forenoon, when Emil Wennerberg, a venireman, stated that he had been called into the office of a

BOARD OF CHARITY

Changes Name of Almshouse to Chelmsford St. Hospital

More Discussion Relative to the Missing Trip Book—The Board Does Not Accept Mr. Mayberry's Statement

At a meeting of the board of charities held last night it was voted to change the name of the "city hospital and almshouse" to "Chelmsford street hospital." The city council had been asked to act in this matter but there was nothing doing and the board decided to take the initiative. Chairman McCarthy said that the change of name would not cost the city anything and it would help to remove the stigma of pauperism so much abhorred by the inmates. He said that the names of other institutions of a similar nature throughout the country had been changed for similar reasons.

The Mayberry trip book was discussed pro and con and the board members did not hesitate to say what they thought of Mr. Mayberry's answer to a letter sent him by the board and requesting information as to the whereabouts of the book. Mr. Mayberry was superintendent of the board of charities in 1909 and when he got through something was said about a trip book for which the city settled and which had been used but very little. The board instructed its clerk to communicate with Mr. Mayberry relative to the book. That was some weeks ago and Mr. Mayberry did not make answer until within a few days. In his reply he accused the board of "throwing insinuations in his direction. As in the trip book he said he left it in the drawer of the desk at city hall, and that he was not responsible for its subsequent disappearance.

If Mr. Mayberry left the trip book there, then it was up to somebody else and the board made a general inquiry. Clerk Gallagher was the man who most frequently used the book where Mr. Mayberry said he left the trip book and Mr. Gallagher said he didn't find the book. Supt. Conley didn't see it, and there was nobody in the office that had seen it.

The board after hearing from Supt. Conley and Clerk Gallagher voted it be entered in the records of the meeting that the board did not believe the statement of Mr. Mayberry to be correct.

The meeting was called to order at 8.30, with all members present. Clerk Gallagher outlined the history of a poor woman who wanted to have three of her children placed in St. Peter's orphanage, and the board decided to place them there.

The letter from Solomon S. Mayberry, former superintendent of the department relative to the missing trip book, was read.

Mr. Conley asked Supt. Conley if he had seen the trip book. Mr. Conley said he had not seen it.

Clerk Gallagher was asked what he knew about the book. He said he had occasion to go to the desk several times a day and that he had not seen the book. Mr. Gallagher said that after receiving his instructions from the board to communicate with Mr. Mayberry relative to the book he called Mr. Mayberry by telephone.

"Mr. Mayberry," said Mr. Gallagher, "told me that the mayor had the book." "I asked him what mayor the president or the past mayor. After hesitating a few moments he told me he did not know what had become of the book. "I asked him if I would make that report and he said he supposed I would have to.

"Later in the day he called me by telephone and told me he had left the trip book in the desk. I went immediately to the desk. The book was not there.

At this point Mr. Conley moved that Mr. Mayberry's letter be placed on file. "In justice to the clerks here," said Mr. Burns, "I think we ought to address a letter to Mr. Mayberry telling him that we do not believe his statement in regard to the trip book."

The chairman suggested that perhaps it would be as well to place the letter on file and enter on the records of the meeting the fact that the board did not believe Mr. Mayberry's statement to be correct. Mr. Burns made the chair's suggestion into a motion and it was unanimously voted.

Dr. McCarthy, chairman, said it seemed rather remarkable to him that a man carrying on the business that was represented in the position of superintendent of the charitable department should be so careless with valuable property as Mr. Mayberry had been and he hoped it would be a lesson for the present superintendent.

Mr. Howe, referring to the matter, said: "I don't believe the letter was written by Mr. Mayberry, but was written for him. The language and the mon S. Mayberry does not sound like Solomon S. Mayberry. I believe it to be the work of his camp followers who have been misrepresenting the affairs of this department and trying to embarrass this board. I would accept Mr. Mayberry's statement if he did not reflect on clerks and others in this office, but in view of such reflection I must do so."

The Chelmsford Street Hospital

Mr. Ricard took up the question of the change of the name of the city hospital to "The Chelmsford Street Hospital." As far back as April Mr. Howe had an ordinance introduced in the city council for the change of name. The matter was referred to the committee on ordinances and legislation and that was the last that was heard from it.

"I don't think," said Dr. McCarthy, "that anything startling will happen if we take it upon ourselves to change the name. The names of other institutions throughout the state have been changed, for men have come to realize that it is their duty to remove as far as possible the stigma of pauperism."

The name can be changed without coming to the city. It will do no harm and I am sure it will do some good. I would suggest that we instruct Supt. Conley to remove the present sign from the institution and have it repainted and relabeled and made to read "Chelmsford Street Hospital." We have done what we can to get the sanction of the city council in the matter and now let us take the step and see what will happen."

Mr. Howe—"I am heartily in sympathy with the suggestion of the chairman. I think the board should take the initiative. The city council does not seem inclined to favor any proposition from this board and where good can be done I think we ought to go ahead and do it."

Mr. Burns made a motion incorporating the suggestions of the chairman and it was voted unanimously to change the name to "Chelmsford Street Hospital."

Supt. Conley was asked relative to the crops at the farm and he said they were exceptionally good. He said that the purchasing agent was taking up some cows and a horse for the farm. Mr. Conley told of visits he had made to Boston and other places where persons from this city are being cared for and he gave quite an exhaustive report relative to their physical condition and how they were being cared for.

Relative to the price for care at the Chelmsford Street Hospital Mr. Howe said: "I understand it has been the custom in the past to charge $2.00 per week for certain persons residing at the Chelmsford Street Hospital. Now the per capita cost for the past year was but $2.12 per week, and I don't see why we should charge $2.00 a week as it proves a hardship upon some people. We are not maintaining a municipal hospital or a Hotel de Ville for the purpose of enriching the city treasury, and when we vote that certain ones shall enter the institution, I think the expense should be reduced to its actual cost."

It was voted that the superintendent be given jurisdiction in the matter.

HIT BIG BEAR

Animal Tossed on Hood of Auto

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 17.—After touring through the wilds of Maine for two weeks without seeing or hearing anything startling, a New York party had an experience early yesterday morning that fairly made their hair stand on end. It was a collision with a bear.

The party, composed of Edward L. Hopkins and wife of New York, John P. Fassett of New York and Miss Marion Gordon of Philadelphia, were returning in a touring car from northern Maine. Monday night they stayed at a farmhouse in Millo, and early this morning they resumed their journey toward Bangor. About 9 o'clock, while in the town of Lagrange, 28 miles north of Bangor, the car was going at the rate of 35 miles an hour down a steep hill, at the foot of which the road, thickly bordered with bushes, turns sharply to the right.

Just as the car reached the turn, Mr. Hopkins, who was driving, was startled to see a huge bear break out of the bushes a little way ahead and start directly across the highway. There was no time to slow down and Hopkins had his choice of two things—ditching the car with the risk of smashing it and injuring all hands or striking the bear. He decided to take a chance with the bear, and an instant later while the women shrieked in terror the big car hit him squarely amidships.

Mr. Hopkins had expected that the force of the impact would send the bear to one side, but something quite different happened. The bear, a 400-pounder, gave one loud grunt and flopped over onto the hood of the car, growling and scratching and in that manner was carried along for quite a distance until the car struck a jounce in the road and gave a jump that bounced the bear off. The animal fell under the right wheel, thus turning the car into the ditch.

The occupants were not at all injured and the car, only slightly damaged, was soon righted with a jack. Meanwhile the bear, which had been dazed by the blow, had got upon its feet.

The animal was traveling at such a high rate of speed when it passed through the square that no one attempted to check its progress. Near the corner of Central street, Sergt. Bari Ryan and Patrolman Thomas Coleman were standing and when they saw the animal approaching they ran into the street to stop it.

Just as the horse reached the corner of John street a big wagon turned into Merrimack street and the runaway though trying to steer clear of the larger vehicle was not successful, the "night" shaft of the wagon locking into one of the rear wheels of the big wagon, the latter being swung completely around. This stopped the runaway for about a minute and before the horse could get the shaft free from the wheel Sergeant Ryan and Patrolman Coleman grabbed the horse's head and succeeded in quieting it down until its owner arrived on the scene.

The only damage was a broken shaft.

The Abbe Managed to Keep the Lead

BUFAFO, Aug. 17.—

Contrary to expectations, the small fields at Fort Erie track supplied some thrilling finishes at the opening of Buffalo's grand circuit meeting yesterday.

Direct Tone upset calculations in the 2:17 trot and the tactics employed by Cox and Murphy in an effort to defeat the Abbe in the Maple Leaf $5000 2:15 pace laid the first two heats to whirlwind battles from the half mile pole home.

The Abbe was top horse in the small field at 100 to 40 and the field end was persistently played by the Murphy following, for they believed if left to a brush May Day could nip the Chimes horses at the wire. Going away Murphy tried to take May Day in behind Geers, but the man from Memphis was wise and forced May Day to set the pace.

Down to the half they loomed at 1.05%, where Murphy and Cox set sail and they had the Abbe to a drive at the wire in a nose and nose finish, stepping the last half in 1.01%.

Using the same methods in the second heat, they rushed home the final half in 1.02 and this time Branham Baughman beat May Day for the place by a head and neck.

May Day went to a break 50 yards from the wire in the final heat and with Branham Baughman at his wheel the Abbe marched a mile in 2.05%, landing May Day outside the banner.

The 2:17 trot had Velozza as favorite against the field in 30 to 50 for some time, when a strong play on Capt. Cate on his Cleveland showing made him the choice. Capt. Cate went to the front at the word and showed the race to the stretch, where Oriana at the rail and Direct Tone on the outside raced to his head and the Directum Kelly horse got the award in a very close three-horse finish.

Thereafter the good looking gelding by Directum Kelly was always in the lead and unbeatable, while the little old fashioned New Hampshire mare, Velozza, landed the place and second money in two smashing drives with Oriana and Pearl Pauline.

Walter Hal, a 3-to-1 choice, over his field in the 2:07 pace, won with something to spare, Big Boy being the only horse in the lot to give him any semblance of an argument. The summary:

Motorman Shouted Warning When He Found the Brake Out of Action — Three of Victims Were Taken to the Hospital

BOSTON, Aug. 17.—Because of a defective brake on box car 1144 of the Boston elevated railway company, South Boston division, marked Boylston street transfer station, which was inward bound from City Point to the Back Bay, at 5.10 yesterday afternoon, Motorman James W. Gibbons was powerless to hold it in contact on the steep grade of East Broadway near Dorchester street, South Boston, and it sped down the hill, striking the rear of an open Kendall square car, also inward bound, which was standing at the turn into West Broadway at the corner of Dorchester street. The force of the collision was so great that both cars were driven down Broadway more than 300 feet and stopped below the transfer station on West Broadway.

Motorman Gibbons of the Boylston street transfer station car, notwithstanding that he fully realized that he was in great danger and that a collision was imminent, bravely stuck to his post and, half stepping out of the front vestibule window, which was open, he yelled and told the people on the open Kendall square car to guard

A Valuable Discovery

For the Cure of Skin Diseases

No one who is subject to the painful irritation of eczema, the tormenting blotches of psoriasis, or the chronic leg sores which destroy the happiness of so many middle-aged and elderly people, no one, indeed, who is suffering from any form of skin eruption, can fail to be interested in the remarkable discovery of a rapid and lasting cure for such afflictions. This important new medical discovery confirms the fact that eczema and kindred eruptions are ailments of the skin and not of the blood. Many of the common outbreaks are started by irritating or poisonous substances getting into the pores of the skin and setting up inflammation, and it is now an established fact that skin diseases can be quickly and thoroughly cured by direct application to the external surface of the skin. Pervasive tests have proved that the extract obtained from a particular part of a well-known tree possesses to a marked degree the antiseptic and soothing qualities which destroy disease-producing germs and poisonous matter without injuring the most delicate skin. This method has been discovered of combining this vegetable extract with other valuable ingredients, forming the unique, curative compound Cadum, which stops the itching and irritation at once, quickly allays the inflammation, and commences healing with the first application. Eczema, acne, blackheads, itch, face pimples, ringworm, herpes, leg sores, all of the worst kind, inflamed rashes, scabies, lichen, ulcers, syphilis or barber's rash, hives, psoriasis, all skin outbreaks in fact, yield at once to the wonderful painless healing action of Cadum. Indeed many of the results are most remarkable. Numerous cases have been recorded of persons who had suffered for many years from skin eruptions of the worst kind having been speedily and permanently cured by the new healing salve, Cadum, even where hospital and medical treatment, burning with caustic, lancing and other operations had been unsuccessful. Others testify that troublesome rashes, after defying other remedies, have entirely disappeared after one night's use of Cadum. If you suffer from any form of skin trouble, Cadum will give immediate relief. Sold by druggists at 10c and 25c.

H. E. HIBBARD, Principal,
334 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

WORCESTER, Aug. 17.—The members of the board of aldermen, and a few spectators were treated yesterday afternoon to the unusual spectacle of two members of the board squabbling for the right to preside over a special session called to give a hearing to the Worcester consolidated street railway company on petition for permission to make changes in its track locations.

An opera bouffe contest between Alderman Geo. F. Brooks and Alderman Peter F. Sullivan for the title and rights of president pro tem, which has attracted attention since Mayor Logan started for his vacation in Friendship, Me., took a rather warm turn at the session.

The time for calling the meeting to order was 12.15 and as the hands of the aldermanic clock pointed to that hour both Alderman Brooks and Alderman Sullivan started for the president's chair. Alderman Sullivan walked up one flight of steps and Alderman Brooks walked up the other. They almost walked into each other on the far side of the desk as they sought the place in the president's chair. Then they stopped for a moment to talk it over.

The clerk called the roll and then Alderman Sullivan said he would entertain a motion to dispense with the reading of the records of the previous meeting.

"Mr. Sullivan, I object to you presiding at this meeting. I am president of the board of aldermen," said Alderman Brooks.

"Turning to the reporters' table Alderman Sullivan, in a stage whisper, said: "You see, boys, he calls me Mr. Sullivan."

Alderman Brunell jumped to his feet

with a suggestion, "Send for the law department and settle this thing."

So the page was ordered to find the law department. He brought back Assistant City Solicitor Anderson.

As Mr. Anderson took his place in the seat usually filled by City Solicitor Vaughan, Alderman Sullivan, still waving the gavel, said: "The alderman from ward 10 will please state his reasons for doubting my right to serve as president."

Alderman Brooks then went into a review of the case, telling how he was elected president pro tem when President Jeppson went away and that Mr. Sullivan was elected only to serve during a special meeting of the board and he claimed that Mr. Sullivan's right to serve as president ended when the meeting to transact that special business had adjourned.

In other words, he argued that Mr. Sullivan was only a president pro tempore pro tempore, while he had been elected president pro tempore.

Assistant City Solicitor Anderson ruled that there is no such thing as a president pro tempore pro tempore and that Mr. Sullivan was president pro tempore until the aldermen took action to deprive him of that title and the right to perform the duties of the office.

The aldermen seemed to be in no disposition to deprive the ward 3 man of his yellow jacket, and although Alderman Brooks said "I object," the meeting went right on just as though the real president was wielding the gavel, and President Francis H. Dewey of the Consolidated explained what his company wanted to do in the way of relocating certain of its tracks.

Connell telephoned for a carriage and Mrs. Roy and Mr. Tucker were hurried to their homes, where they received medical attendance.

Gibbons' condition was such on arriving at the Carney hospital that, further than a superficial examination, which showed that no bones were broken and no serious external injuries, he was put to bed immediately and watched for several hours, until he had recovered from the severe shock. Then it was found that he had received only bruises to his back, face and chest, not any of a serious nature.

At a late hour last night he was resting very comfortably, was conscious and conversed with the doctors. An examination of his right leg, of which he had complained, showed only slight bruises. He is not on the dangerous list and, unless something unexpected occurs, his recovery shortly is certain.

Crawford, who was also taken to the Carney hospital, suffered most from his jaw and teeth. He was on the second seat of the open car, and when the crash occurred he was thrown forward and his face struck the seat in front of him and he was thrown into the street. At the hospital the doctors attended to his jaw, his teeth and lip and he was resting quite comfortably last night.

Accident on Severe Grade

The accident occurred at a time when there was a large crowd of people riding on the cars, and for 20 minutes after the accident there was a blockade of cars all along West and East Broadway and Dorchester street. Inspectors Patrick Banks and John Diekle were early on the scene and did much hustling in creating order out of chaos.

The debris was taken from the cars by wrecking cars, and the open car was taken down West Broadway and around by Bay View way to the City Point station.

The box car, which had rushed down the hill, was surrounded by thousands of people who gazed in amazement at the place where Gibbons had so bravely stood by his post, and wondered how anyone could have escaped instant death in the midst of such a wreck.

There was nothing in front of the car, but a portion of the roof of the vestibule had been smashed, many windows broken and the trucks bucked up. A wrecking car was soon backed up to it and then it was taken to the City Point barge.

The box car that caused all the trouble has been in the car barns many weeks, and was taken out last night as an extra for a trip for the working people returning to their homes. After leaving the City Point barge, on account of a hill it encountered until this Broadway hill, where the accident happened.

Ascending from I street the top of the hill is reached near G street, and just after passing G street the down grade is met. At the foot of the hill, just before reaching the crossings at Dorchester street, there is a customary stop made by all cars in order to avoid collisions with cars turning into Dorchester street. After this stop the car goes ahead only on signal from the conductor.

Yesterday afternoon Motorman Gibbons, on reaching G street tried to put on the brakes. He quickly realized that the brakes were out of order, and this was emphasized when the car took on greater speed and dashed down the hill.

Gibbons Yells a Warning

Gibbons saw the Kendall square open car ahead of him and he knew that he could not avoid bumping. With his hands still on the brakes he leaned forward out of the open car window of the vestibule and yelled for the car ahead to keep on or there would be a collision.

The Kendall square car was at a standstill directly on the curve just before turning into West Broadway. There is a very complicated system of switches at this junction. The Kendall square car stopped in order to allow a Fields corner car to cross from the side track on West Broadway, over Broadway to reach the inward track on Dorchester street. This has been a very common occurrence and necessary to reach that part of Dorchester street leading to Dorchester.

It is said by witnesses that the Fields corner car was just about to leave the side track. It was thus impossible for the Kendall square car to go ahead but there should be a collision there.

The Back Bay box car, in charge of Motorman Gibbons, with the full force gained by the speed down Broadway hill, smashed into the rear of the Kendall square car and both cars sped 300 feet along West Broadway.

In the Kendall square open car were about twenty of the employees of the George F. Llewellyn yacht building concern. They were returning home from their day's work. Crawford was one of these men and he was in the second seat from the front of the car. Most of the other occupants of that car got out of the way after the accident and it is not known that any of them were seriously injured.

Defective Brakes the Cause

Charles B. Tolless was a witness of the accident. He says that the Kendall square car had just passed when the box car was seen speeding down the hill at terrific rate and the motorman was making every possible effort to stop the car. When the crash came William H. Kelly telephoned to the Carney hospital for an ambulance and Druggist Connell telephoned to police headquarters and to the hospitals.

Mrs. Roy and C. H. Tucker were in the forward part of the box car. They had partly risen to their feet as the car was speeding down the hill and when the collision occurred Mrs. Roy was dashed against the door. She says she would surely have been killed had not Mr. Tucker caught hold of her and lessened the force of the fall.

THE GYPSY MOTH

Report Says it Spread When the Fight Stopped

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—A special report on the field work carried out against the gypsy and brown-tail moths in New England has been issued by the bureau of entomology of the department of agriculture.

The report was prepared by Dexter M. Rogers and A. F. Burgess, experts of the bureau, who have charge of the field work and parasite breeding undertaken by the department in New England. The report is freely illustrated with photographs showing conditions in Massachusetts and other New England states. Dr. Howard, chief of the entomology bureau, says that the importation of European and Japanese parasites that prey upon the moths will be the subject of another report to be issued later on.

The report describes the moths and their habits, their introduction into the United States and the damage they did in Massachusetts between 1869 and 1890, when the first appropriation to destroy the pests was made by the Massachusetts legislature. Work by the state was continued until 1900. The methods employed in work against the gypsy moth included scouting to determine where the moth had established itself, spraying of infested trees, trying bands of burlap or sticky substances around the trunks of trees, pruning and cutting down and burning trees, and bushes containing the moths, caterpillars or egg masses. Special reference is made to the so-called "irritation from hairs on the brown-tail moth. Birds, toads and other insects destroyed many caterpillars.

The authors of the report deplore the fact that Massachusetts discontinued its fight against the moths in 1900, and show that between that year and 1905, when state appropriations to fight the moths were resumed, the pests had spread over a large area in Massachusetts and into Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Maine.

The first appropriation made by congress to combat the moths became available in 1906. This was used chiefly in clearing the territory on both sides of principal roads in eastern Massachusetts, with a view to preventing the moths alighting on passing vehicles and being carried comfortable distances, thus spreading the infestation.

This work has been continued every summer since, the anti-moth field army devoting its time and attention in the fall and winter to scouting through territory adjacent to that known to be infested, to determine where the moths have established new colonies. Steps along roads formerly cleared of the insects have been sprayed to keep the pest under control.

The report says that one great danger has been the known presence of the moths in large woodland areas in Massachusetts and New Hampshire. To destroy the pests in these localities would cost more than the property is worth. Consequently the effort has been to keep the moths from spread-

POLICEMEN WERE BLINDED BY WOMEN'S ATTACK

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—In a sharp labor battle yesterday near the Williamsburg plant of the American sugar-refining company two strikebreakers were badly beaten, three policemen were temporarily blinded by red pepper and four women and one man were arrested.

Two of the strikebreakers ventured into a delicatessen shop largely patronized by strikers and their sympathizers. Forty women mobbed them, and when the police came to their aid there was a volley of red pepper. It took the reserves and mounted police officers to restore order.

Feet Tired—So Tired?

TIZ Makes Sick Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and more proof.

It's the sure remedy you know for everything that gets the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for sweaty, bad-smelling feet, and for corns, callouses and bunions, too.

"For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet, suffered intense pain. I have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ, which worked a perfect cure. It has with a grain of salt, my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used." A. F. Drouin, Chicago.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous excretions which bring on corns and the feet are the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet jump again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

TIZ is sold at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

How about that census report? Isn't it almost time we heard how much beyond the hundred thousand mark Lowell has gone?

The moth pest is to be exterminated by means of a fungus growth which sickens the moths and produces a disease that is contagious and thus spreads pestilence among moths that have not eaten the fungus. The chief difficulty, we surmise, will be to induce the moths to partake of this fatal diet.

Our municipal concerts are very enjoyable and highly appreciated by the public. There are some people, however, who do not seem to have heard of them, and who make no effort to attend. These concerts are given for the benefit of the masses, and the larger the attendance the greater will be the benefits derived from this particular effort to amuse the people.

BALLINGER AND CANNON

Ballinger and Cannon are two public characters who should be sent into retirement. Ballinger is in bad odor and his retention in the cabinet under such conditions reflects upon himself, the cabinet as a body and the president in particular. Cannon on the other hand is a foul mouthed old braggart whose sole ambition is to support all that is most objectionable in the republican party. He is a spoilsman of the worst type. He is wholly indifferent to justice, honor and decency in the exercise of his power as speaker. By his arbitrary rulings he has eliminated the rights of the minority in congress and applied the gag to prevent free discussion. When it has come to pass that no measure unacceptable to Cannon and the republican party can be admitted, it is certainly time to get rid of Cannon and to put an end to Cannonism.

FLAGRANT POLICE INEFFICIENCY

The failure of the police of Quincy to apprehend Restelli who murdered his mother, and a prominent contractor, and wounded several others, is not creditable to the guardians of that city. When a man can commit wholesale murder in broad daylight and make his escape, the city is not properly protected by its police department.

The highwaymen who committed the double murder in Lynn some weeks ago were quickly rounded up, one of them being shot by the police while trying to make his escape. The value of a police department consists largely in its ability to act quickly in emergencies. This is where the Lynn department proved its worth, and where the Quincy department fell down.

Judge Mahoney of Lawrence the other day severely criticized the police of that city for allowing a man to escape who had made a murderous assault upon a citizen. The assailant finally gave himself up to the police, and it appeared that he had not made any great effort to avoid arrest. Judge Mahoney said the assault was so brutal that every available man on the force should have been put to work in order to arrest the defendant within an hour after the assault. If bold criminals be allowed to escape through stupidity or carelessness, crime will increase. Lowell can felicitate herself upon the fact that of late every crime committed in our city has been followed by arrest and punishment of the guilty parties.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

The minority of the United States senate committee appointed to investigate the causes of the high cost of living, has made its report, and the reasons which it presents are in the main directly opposed to those set forth by the majority report of the committee.

The tariff, trusts and monopolies, and the increased money supply are the three chief causes assigned for the advance in prices of commodities in the United States as compared with the rest of the world.

Senators Johnson of Alabama, Clark of Arkansas and Smith of South Carolina are the members of the select committee who signed this report. The report as a whole is logical and convincing. It attacks the fifteen reasons set forth by the majority report showing that they are not the real reasons and that most of them have no general effect upon the cost of living.

It is shown that the tariff produces the trusts, and that the trusts under the shelter of high protection stamp out domestic competition. The manufacturers are then enabled to add to the price of the manufactured product the amount of tariff duty imposed or to charge prices even much higher, which is actually done.

Specific instances are quoted in support of the claims made. The sugar trust, the meat trust and a few others are cited as examples of the combines that suppress competition and levy tribute upon the people.

This report has the merit of candor and honesty whereas the other has been condemned as arranged for political effect in defence of the tariff, and in the interests of the republican party. The committee has gone to the root of the matter with clear and convincing arguments and sound logic. It has not the specific data at hand to show to what extent each of the causes assigned is responsible for the high cost of living, but it has given abundant proof that the causes mentioned are the real causes by which fictitious prices have been established so that the people have to pay the most exorbitant rates for practically all the necessities of life.

The remedy, of course, would be a reduction in the tariff, the overthrow of the trusts that now exist under the sanction of law, the restoration of free domestic competition, and to a limited extent also competition with foreign nations in the domestic markets.

The majority report was a piece of political claptrap compiled by Senator Lodge to whitewash the new tariff law and thus save the republican party. The minority report voices public opinion throughout the country and cannot be successfully contradicted.

SEEN AND HEARD

LET US LOVE ONE ANOTHER

Let us love one another; not long may we stay
In this bleak world of mourning, so brief is life's day;
Some fade ere 'tis noon, and few linger till eve;
Oh! there breaks not a heart but leaves some one to grieve;
And the fondest, the purest, the truest that met,
Have still found the need to forgive and forget;
Then oh! though the hopes that we nourish decay,
Let us love one another as long as we stay.

There are hearts like the ivy, though all be decayed
Which it seems to clasp fondly in sunlight and shade;
Yet some sweet leaves, but still gayly they spread,
Undimmed midst the blighted, the lonely and dead;
And the mistletoe clings to the oak, not in part,
But with leaves closed around it, the root in its heart,
Exists but to twine it, and drink the same dew,
Or to fall with its loved oak and perish there, too.

Thus we'll love one another, 'midst sorrow the worst,
Unaltered and fond as we loved at the first,
Though the false wing of pleasure may change and forsake,
And the bright urn of wealth into particles break;
There are some sweet affections that earth cannot buy,
That cling but the closer when sorrow draws nigh,
And remain with us yet, though all else pass away;
Yes, we'll love one another as long as we stay.

—An Old Poem.

The reverence for the Sabbath in Scotland sometimes takes the form one would hardly have anticipated. An old Highland man once explained to an English tourist:

"They're a God-fearing set o' folks here, sir, 'deed they are, and I'll give ye an instance o'. Last Sabbath, just as the kirk, was skellin' there was a drover chap frae Dumfries along the road, whistlin' and lookin' as happy as if it was a o'la week. Weel, sir, four leads is a God-fearing set o' leads, and they just set upon him and almost killed him.

Freedom of the will is a doctrine which children can understand and appreciate. The little girl in this story was not willing to have all her naughty ingeniously ascribed to supernatural sources.

"It was Satan," said the mother to one of her children, "who put it into your head to pull Elsie's hair."
"Perhaps it was," replied the little girl, "but kicking her shins was my own idea."

At least one young man in Lowell is in doubt as to the sincerity of his lady love and an innocent little postal card is the cause of it all. On the side of the card where the motto "reigned supreme" were the words: "I am having the time of my life." On the opposite side of the card the unthinking lady wrote: "I'm awfully homesick without you, dear." The card was mailed at the beach where the young lady is spending her vacation.

Uncle Joe may have to give up his White House latch key.—New Bedford Times.

One morning about 8 o'clock a lodger came downstairs in his dressing gown with an empty glass in his hand, says the Chicago Journal. Upon seeing the landlady, he said:

"O, Mrs. Brown, you might be so good as to fill this glass with cold water for me."
"Certainly, sir, with pleasure."
About ten minutes afterward he came down again.
"Mrs. Brown, I am awfully sorry to trouble you, but would you kindly fill this glass again for me?"
"No trouble, sir, I assure you. It is a pleasure."
"Thanks, awfully!"
Again, after several minutes, he descended.
"You will think me a great nuisance this morning, Mrs. Brown, but I should like another glass of cold water."
"I am only too pleased to be able to get it for you, sir; but you are not well this morning, perhaps?"
"O, yes, thanks; but the fact of the matter is, my bedroom is on fire!"

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Despite the fact that Jean Homolle, the curator, has denied the report of the theft from the Louvre of the famous painting of "Monna Lisa" by Leonardo da Vinci, the Cri de Paris, this paper which first published the report of the alleged robbery, now prints an editorial article in which it demands the appointment of a committee of famous artists to examine the picture. Like all the Louvre masterpieces, the "Monna Lisa" is covered with glass, to protect it from the attacks of vandals. The Cri de Paris insists that it is this glass that prevents not only the public but the experts from detecting the substitution of a copy for the original work, which it repeats, has been stolen. According to the Cri de Paris, an English woman copyist made a copy of the picture for an art restorer in the Rue Bonaparte, and "imparted an appearance of antiquity to the copy." The Cri de Paris reiterates emphatically its assertion that the original picture by Leonardo da Vinci is now in New York, and adds that it is in a position to assert that "the successful substitution has so encouraged the New York dealers that they have formed a ring for the purpose of obtaining and smuggling into New York more of the Louvre's finest art treasures." Which of course makes New York art dealers both wistful and envious.

An international exhibition of fine arts will be held in Rome from March to October, 1911. The exhibition will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the proclamation of the united kingdom of Italy. It will comprise, in addition to a complete display of Italian art, both ancient and modern representative collections of pictures, sculpture, drawings and engravings from all the chief countries in Europe. The art of the various countries will be exhibited in separate buildings. The design of the British building or "British fine arts place," as it is to be called, has been made by E. L. Lutyens and includes Wren's Order in the facade of St. Paul's cathedral. The king of Italy will be the principal patron of the exhibition.

The youngest provincial parliament member in Canada, is S. Hart Green, who was recently elected to represent North Winnipeg. The new member is only 25 years old and is a resident of the Jewish quarter, where about 1000 votes are cast by citizens of that race. The district is said to be the most cosmopolitan in Canada, having colonies of Germans, Poles, Hungarians, Poles, Galleians, Russians and Syrians. The young member overthrew an opposition of 20 years standing with a handsome majority.

John J. L. Salmon, principal of the Hildreth street school in Marlboro, has been elected sub-master in one of the schools in Cambridge. The salary attached to the position is $1800 a year. Mr. Salmon came from Worcester to Marlboro the first of the year. He succeeded Ross Vardon, who had been chosen to a position in the Colburn school, Wakefield, at $1000 a year. Mr. Salmon had been elected principal of the Hildreth school at a salary of $900 per annum.

Miss Alice Danforth of Springfield has accepted the principalship of the Huntington high school to succeed Horace F. Bates, who resigned to accept a position as principal of the Hancock high school. Miss Danforth has been assistant teacher in the high school for several years.

James C. Tucker, formerly an instructor in the apprentice school of the General Electric company at Lynn, has been chosen sub-principal to teach manual training and mathematics in the Lynn English high school. Mr. Tucker is a graduate of the Bloomsburg Literary Institute and State Normal school of Bloomsburg, Pa., and has had seven years' experience in public school work.

Miss Edith W. Melcher of Lynn has been elected teacher of English in the Marblehead high school, in place of Miss Edith Lindsey, resigned.

The Kaiser's prize, most coveted of Berlin, has been won for the first time by a woman. The winner is a daughter of Herr Schwenke, chief director of the Royal Library. Her essay which won the coveted prize was on "The Policy of Frederick the Great." Fraulein Schwenke was one of the first of her sex to matriculate at the university. Women were admitted first in 1908.

Today the Lakeview stock company will give the last two presentations of "A Social Outlaw" which in so short a time has proven quite popular. It is a play that is singularly lifelike and of engrossing interest, and those who have seen it are its most enthusiastic admirers.

Commencing Thursday, that is tomorrow, and continuing until Saturday, we will have that famous book play "St. Elmo" on the boards again. When it was seen here two weeks ago, it played not only to the biggest houses of the season, but to one of the largest crowds in the history of the house, and will be acted by the same company and every detail will be precisely as before and judging from the call for advance seats "St. Elmo" will be as popular as it was previous to this engagement.

Next week theatrical interest will be stimulated by the coming of "Paid in Full," Eugene Walter's masterpiece of contemporary American drama, which comes to Lakeview direct from New York, this being its first engagement ever played at a summer park. It will be acted by a brilliant, splendid cast, so that every one of its tremendous entertaining qualities will be brought out to the full and to see this great play by a great cast is a treat that should not be missed by anyone.

THEATRE VOYONS

The story of "The Lady and the Burglar," the feature subject today at the Theatre Voyons is a most interesting and novel one and incidentally it teaches two excellent lessons. The heroine is a society woman married to a great lecturer whose whole enjoyment seems to be study and the result is neglect on his part. A young man tries his best to convince her that she should clope with him but at every step she remains true to her husband and discourages her admirer. At last the sultor plans one more appeal and goes to her home at night thinking her husband away. The same night a burglar breaks into the house and is in concealment when the admirer forces his way into the lady's presence. She tries to leave and her husband hearing voices comes to her but instead of finding the sultor he finds the burglar with his wife, the sultor having escaped through a window. Earlier in the story the woman has befriended the burglar's child and repays the kindness by preventing her husband from finding the young man with her. Two excellent comedies and a scenic subject add to the attractiveness of the bill.

AFTER 47 YEARS

Brockton Man Found His Sister

BROCKTON, Aug. 17.—When John Rooney answered the bell at his home, 35 Foster avenue, yesterday afternoon and found a woman at the door, little did he suspect who she was. The woman introduced herself as Mrs. William Flynn of Bridgeport, Conn. She made inquiries of him concerning Ireland and they conversed about Rooney's family. Mr. Rooney told the stranger that he had a sister in Ireland.

"No, you haven't," said Mrs. Flynn. "How is that?" asked Mr. Rooney. "Because she is right before you now."

Rooney had not seen his sister in 47 years. He left Ireland in 1863 and has lived in Brockton the greater part of that time. He lost track of his family. His sister came to this country a few years after he did and married and settled in Bridgeport. A short time ago she wrote to friends in Ireland and through them learned her brother's address. Rooney having written to the friends in an endeavor to locate some of his family, Mrs. Flynn is a widow and is going to make a long stay with her brother.

LITTLE DAUGHTER HAD SCALP HUMOR

Itched So that She Scratched Until Blood Came. Hair Fell Out. Scalp had Unpleasant Odor. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment Four Weeks. Scalp Perfectly Clear.

Hair Began to Grow Again and Now Has Beautiful, Long Hair.

"When my little daughter was about five years old, she was taken with the measles. A few weeks after the measles were gone, she began to scratch her scalp and scalp had an unpleasant odor. It itched so that she would scratch the whole day, until the blood came. We had a doctor and tried a good many remedies, but nothing helped. Her hair all fell out and the scalp itself had an unpleasant odor. After we had tried all the other remedies, my wife took me to try the Cuticura Remedies. We bought one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. We used the Cuticura Remedies according to directions and in about three or four weeks her scalp was perfectly clear of the terrible humor. Her hair began to grow again and now she has beautiful, long hair. Since that time I have recommended the Cuticura Remedies to other people and they also had success. Chas. Balzbrenner, Amana, Iowa, Nov. 8, 1909."

LEBLANC WON RACE BUT HELD UP Thousands Stayed up All Night to See Finish of Contest.

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Half of Paris forsook their beds last night and remained in the streets until morning to watch the conclusion of the great cross country aviation race which was won by Leblanc in a Bleriot monoplane. Also in a Bleriot, took second prize, finishing a short twenty miles behind the winner, although his total time in completing the course was somewhat longer.

Leblanc's flight from Amiens, some sixty miles, was made in the same superb style as the previous laps in the race. He left Amiens at 5:03 and descended at Issy in the suburbs of Paris one hour and 28 minutes later, making the total time for the 135 miles of the entire flight 11 hours, 25 minutes and 50 seconds, an average of nearly forty miles an hour as the crowd flies, without making any allowance for detours or for the time spent in battling with the storm in the flight from Mezières to Douai last Friday.

Aubrun, whose time from Amiens was one hour and 51 minutes, completed the circuit in 13 hours, 27 minutes and 14 seconds. None of the other competitors completed the entire course. Though Legagneux, who was forced to retire in the early stages of the race finished with Leblanc and Aubrun.

There was a moment of tumultuous cheering as Leblanc appeared above Issy in the early dawn and from the height of nearly a quarter of a mile plunged down toward the earth and swooped across the line like a giant hawk, alighting with the ease and grace of a big bird. The authorities in anticipation of the excitement of the enormous crowds had cordoned the alighting place at Issy with hundreds of police, backed by a regiment of stal-

FIGHT IS PROMISED

Roosevelt to Urge a Progressive Candidate and Platform

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—There was marked calm today over the troubled waters of the republican political seas following the storm yesterday when the "Old Guard" in the republican state committee voted down Theodore Roosevelt's name for temporary chairman of the coming state convention.

No one was prepared to say how things would shape themselves in the day's preliminary to the state convention where the delegates, after all, will finally determine who shall be the temporary presiding officer.

New York County Chairman Griscom, who presented Col. Roosevelt's name to the committee, says the fight will be carried to the primaries and to the convention. State Chairman Woodruff blames Griscom for all the present trouble. It is reported, saying that Griscom should not have brought Col. Roosevelt's name in the matter.

Meanwhile, the state committee today today what made the colored laugh so loudly when he talked with Mr. Griscom after the committee meeting yesterday.

That Col. Roosevelt intends as a delegate to the state convention from Nassau county to urge a progressive platform and candidate for governor is clearly indicated, politicians say this morning in that portion of the colonel's statement issued last night which says that a speech by him "would be of such character that it might help if the convention nominated the right kind of men on a clean cut, progressive platform, but that it would hurt if neither the right kind of man were nominated nor the right kind of a platform adopted."

MEN OF THE FLEET

Were Royally Entertained by Newport People Today

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—Through a line of American flags more than 2500 enlisted men of the Atlantic battleship fleet marched for a mile and a half today as the guests of the citizens of Newport and at the end of the march they were served with one of the clamcakes that have made Rhode Island famous. Launches, longboats, gigs and dinnies—all laden, almost to the water's edge with men—began putting off from the ships at 10:30 and half an hour later all of the men had been landed at the various wharves along the waterfront in the rear of Thames street and thence by way of Broadway to the circus grounds where the barge was served.

Nearly every building along the route was decorated in bunting and the marchers passed through an unbroken lane of American flags.

At the circus grounds the detail from each ship was assigned to a separate dining tent. As the head of the line reached the grounds the bands were massed and the men marched to their dining tents singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

The barge was one of the biggest barges ever attempted in this city, a corps of 250 cooks and waiters being required to serve it. Besides the clam and the "bixins" of dressing, fish, potatoes, green corn, lobsters and fritters, the men were provided with assorted fruits, ice cream, cigars, bottled beer, lemonade and some soda water. Each man was given a sovereign menu on which were found the words of a popular song among the sailors and during the dinner the songs of the men proved a feature that attracted thousands of residents to the vicinity of the barge. The sailors sang lustily, the volume and melody they produced testifying to the musical training at the various naval training stations in the country.

Among the guests were Rear-Admiral Schroeder, the commanding officer of the fleet, his aides, several of the officers, secretary of the navy, George Von L. Meyer, and several persons prominent in the official and industrial life of Newport.

Earlier in the day, Acting Mayor Shepley, accompanied by Senator Wolcott, Congressman Sheffield and the members of the reception committee, visited Admiral Schroeder on board the battleship Connecticut and extended to him, his officers and the enlisted men the freedom of the city. Later the same day, accompanied by his aides, came on shore and escorted by the members of the reception committee called upon Acting Mayor Shepley at city hall.

The fleet in port this week is the largest that ever came into Narragansett bay and includes in addition to the 14 battleships six auxiliary vessels and the despatch boat Dolphin.

EVERETT CHILD

Declared to be America's Prettiest

EVERETT, Aug. 17.—Millicent Agathe Gowen, the 8 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gowen of 145 Main street, is pronounced by artists and sculptors from various parts of the country to be "the prettiest child in America."

Her photograph won first prize at the recent photographic convention and attracted attention in art circles to her beauty and symmetrical physique.

She has been photographed and posed for artists hundreds of times since her first picture attracted the notice of a traveling salesman. He suggested to his firm that her picture be used with a baking powder ad, as an "eye-catcher." She was then 3 years old.

One of her striking characteristics is her ability to control her eyes and her facial expression when posing before the camera or for artists or sculptors. She has a particularly sunny disposition.

Millicent resembles her mother, who is of English birth, both in her clear blue eyes and fair hair and pinkish white complexion. She curled up on her mother's lap while her beauty of face and figure was being related, quite unconscious of the attention she has attracted, and munched a big red apple, smiling sweetly at the reporter between bites.

The child has a brother 5 years old, well has handsome brown eyes and a well shaped head and body. The girl is attending the public schools and is in the fourth grade, being exceptionally bright. As a reader she excels all children in the vicinity. She is a graceful dancer.

In unaffected manner the girl plays with her schoolmates like any other normal child of her age. Her family doctor and other medical men who have examined her pronounce her the ideal of beautiful and healthy child.

Artists tell her mother that the loveliness of Millicent rivals that of little Mildred Anne Deverest, who many say is the prettiest child in Europe. Millicent's photographs show all the moods from grave to gay, her eyes in some views having the witchery of a little flirt, in others all the sorrows of a child, and in others all the earnestness of a child.

She has posed as long as four hours at a time during the past year in studios for pictures in every sort of position. It is the intention of Mr. Gowen and his wife to give the little girl a good education in the hope that her good looks may be matched by her intellectual powers.

Her mother, Mrs. Rose Gowen, is an artist and many water color and paintings and hand painted china pieces have been done under her home. She has painted Millicent several times. Before marriage Mrs. Gowen taught painting in this city.

WAS MURDERED

Chinaman Got Bullets in Head

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The Ong Leong tong cut another notch in its tally stick last night, when Chu Him, a member of the Four Brothers society, ventured one pace into the hostile territory and fell dead across the steps that mark the boundary line, with four bullets in the back of his head. Chu was a prosperous restaurant keeper of Chinatown and since suburban word was brought to him some months ago that his name had been marked he had never stuck his head outside his own door without his body-guard of two white men. It was pressing business that lured him out last night unaccompanied, but whatever his errand he never finished it. Two arrests were made. Tom Yuen, 39 years old, and Lee Fat, 43 years old, both said to be Ong Leong tong members, both were locked up charged with homicide.

GREAT ADVANCE

In Conditions in Ireland Says Officer Conroy

Officer P. J. Conroy is back at work after a most enjoyable tour of Ireland and parts of England. He had been absent from Ireland for 17 years and he asserts that the improvements made in the condition of the people during that time are really marvelous. He traveled through Ireland from Queenstown to Dublin and Belfast, but spent most of his time in the west in the County Sligo. He had a most enjoyable visit at the residence of John Dillon at Dal-laghaderon. He noted with much satisfaction that many of the very large estates formerly used as pastures, land had been cut up and divided into small farms for the small farmers who formerly tried to eke out an existence by tilling unproductive lands on the mountain sides. He noticed also that the farmers now use the latest machinery for the cultivation of their farms. There is vast improvement also, he states, in the housing of the people. The old blighted houses are a thing of the past, the people have respectable houses with slated roofs, most of them two and a half stories in height, with rooms and modern conveniences that a generation ago were almost unknown. The people are better clad and better fed than formerly. The people are much more temperate than in past years. He declares that during his stay in Ireland he did not see a single man intoxicated on the public streets. The people are more thrifty and make better use of their money than formerly and the country is more prosperous than it has been for a generation past. He attributes this to the land reforms by which the people were enabled to purchase their homes and thus encouraged to make all the improvements possible. The people are living in homes that they will soon enjoy the right of making their own laws so that they will then be able to start up new industries and stop the tide of emigration that has caused a scarcity of labor in every part of the country. He says there is a sentiment against emigration, and it is bound to fall off during the coming years as the people find the means of employment at home and are able to earn a livelihood without turning their attention to foreign lands.

NIGHT EDITION

FOR NAVIGABLE RIVER

At Convention of Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association

Merrimack Valley Delegates Will Attend Monster Convention at Providence, R. I., to Advance Project to Deepen the Merrimack River

The following members of the local board of trade will represent that body as delegates to the convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association to be held in Providence, R. I., on Aug. 31, Sept. 1, 2, 3: President Harvey E. Greene, Jesse H. Shepard, James O'Sullivan, John A. Hunnewell, Fred C. Garrett and Sec. John H. Murphy.

The Deeper Waterways association is out to make a great showing in advancing their cause and among their guests will be President Taft, the governors of several states, Capt. Richard P. Hobson, Commander Peary, and many other celebrities.

The publicity committee announces that on the night of August 31, the opening day of the convention, it is intended to build huge bonfires on prominent eminences all the way along the Atlantic coast from Maine to Florida, while bon-fires will be built in honor of the occasion all over the state of Rhode Island.

The city of Haverhill which at present is attracting the attention of the association by its great fight for a deeper and a navigable Merrimack river will send a great delegation to the convention. The Haverhill board of trade has notified Sec. Murphy of the local board that it has prepared banners suitably inscribed which it will furnish to all delegates from the cities of the Merrimack valley. It is the intention of the delegates from Concord to the sea to boom the cause of Haverhill for a navigable Merrimack river. An idea of the magnitude of the affair may be obtained from the following communication, or official call for the convention.

Gentlemen:—In compliance with resolutions adopted at the Norfolk convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association, the third annual convention of the association is called to meet in the city of Providence, R. I., August 31, and September 1, 2, 3, 1910.

Invitations to attend this convention have been accepted by the president of the United States and the governors of states along the Atlantic seaboard.

The state of Rhode Island, the City of Providence and the board of trade of Providence have united in organizing a fine program of entertainment for the distinguished guests and delegates—a program which will include a banquet, a Rhode Island clam bake, a naval review at Newport and other diversions occupying the last two days of the convention.

The first two days will be devoted to business sessions and papers will be presented by some of the most eminent engineers and statesmen of the country. Headquarters will be at the Narragansett hotel.

The third annual convention will be held at a critical period in the history of the association. Within a year the United States Engineers will, in all probability, report to congress their recommendations respecting the inland waterways along the Atlantic coast and this report will furnish the basis for future action of the association. Every member should attend the third annual convention and do everything in his power to strengthen the association, preparatory to the final struggle for congressional endorsement of the project. We have succeeded, beyond our expectations, in getting an early survey of the entire route from Maine to Florida. We must follow up this advantage by prompt action in securing congressional approval of the project and appropriations to begin the work under continuing contracts.

The purpose in issuing this early call for the convention is to induce every member of the association to make reservation of the dates agreed upon, so that he may be able to attend. Narragansett bay is one of the most beautiful on the Atlantic coast, especially at the season of the year selected for this convention; we are promised a great naval display at Newport and it is desired that yacht and motor boat clubs all along the Atlantic coast, shall establish a rendezvous at Newport during the convention days and join in the association's demand for a protected inland waterway, serviceable alike for the boats of commerce, pleasure craft and the vessel of the United States navy.

Additional information respecting convention arrangements will be furnished in future circulars.

We should be glad to receive suggestions respecting the mobilizing of delegates for trips to Providence by Water and on other topics.

The main thing now is for every member to make up his mind that he will, if possible, attend, and send word to that effect to the secretary for registration. Firms are entitled to send two delegates; trade bodies, etc., may send as many delegates as they please, their voting power being limited to one vote for each five dollars paid as dues.

We want a big convention at Providence—a convention representative of the business interests along the Atlantic coast—and we want you to do your share toward making it entirely successful from every point of view.

J. Hampton Moore, President.

Another communication received by Secretary Murphy states that the Rhode Island clam bake to be served on Friday, Sept. 2, will be the largest ever served under one roof in America and the price will be $10 per plate.

MURDER INQUEST

Judge Pickman Finds Gianakos Guilty of Homicide

Judge John J. Pickman, who presided over the inquest held to determine who was responsible for the death of Aristides Georgopoulos, who it is alleged was shot and fatally wounded by George Gianakos in Suffolk street, near Ford street, on the night of July 30, submitted his report today. Judge Pickman finds that Gianakos shot Georgopoulos and that Gianakos had not such reasonable ground to apprehend a personal attack on him as to warrant the use of a revolver, or any other weapon and that there was no lawful justification for such use by him, neither was there any excuse for the homicide committed by Gianakos.

The report is as follows:

On Saturday, July 30 last, past, about 8:30 o'clock in the evening Aristides Georgopoulos, with several companions, went into a bar room on Merrimack street, in the city of Lowell, where he drank two glasses of beer. Soon after, with one or two of his companions, he went to Suffolk street, and there he met George Gianakos walking with a friend, Peter Thodorakis. Georgopoulos asked Thodorakis if he had not said something, repeating it, that reflected on the good name of his sister. Gianakos made a reply that led Georgopoulos to say, "I have a witness to it, and I will call him." He called to one Couranji, who was standing on the other side of the street, to come over to him, and he did so. The testimony at the inquest as to what took place between Georgopoulos and Gianakos after the inquiry referred to was made to Gianakos is somewhat conflicting. It is certain that both were in temper, and that each had hold of the other, "holding each other by the coat," and were speaking in an animated way to each other. It is not clear the blows were struck, but they, or persons in the group, or both, were "moving their hands" toward each other in a hostile way. When Couranji, who had been called as a witness, as stated, went near Georgopoulos, Gianakos pulled a revolver from his pocket and discharged it at Georgopoulos, the bullet entering his body; thereupon Gianakos ran away, dropping the revolver as he ran, or throwing it away, and Georgopoulos was taken to a drug store, and from thence to the Lowell hospital, where he died from the effects of his wound on the morning of July 31, the day after the shooting.

Said Gianakos was arrested in a house in Elm street, at which some of his countrymen lived. There was testimony tending to show that ill feeling existed between Gianakos and Georgopoulos, and their families for some weeks prior to the date of the shooting, and there was some testimony that Gianakos had made threats against Georgopoulos to which I do not attach much importance.

I find that the said Gianakos had not such reasonable ground to apprehend a personal attack upon him as to warrant the use of a revolver or any other weapon, and that there was no lawful justification for such use by him.

I find that on Saturday, July 30, last, past, that Aristides Georgopoulos was wounded in the body with a bullet that was discharged from a revolver held in the hand of George Gianakos, that was pointed and discharged by him at said Aristides Georgopoulos with the intent to kill him; that said Aristides Georgopoulos died from the effects of the injury received by him as aforesaid; that there is no lawful justification or excuse for the homicide committed by said George Gianakos.

John J. Pickman, Special Justice of the Police Court, and acting, Lowell, Mass., August 17, 1910.

JOHNSON'S VICTORY

California Republicans Are Against the Administration

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—That California is insurgent in its republican politics was proved yesterday beyond question when Hiram Johnson, leading exponent of anti-machine doctrines, swept the field in the direct primaries, winning his party's nomination for governor by a plurality that will border on 50,000 when all returns are in. For United States senator to succeed Frank Flint an advisory vote was recorded and while the returns are far from complete John D. Works running with the same backing as that accorded Johnson seems to have triumphed. The other state offices will also be filled by insurgent tendencies if completed counts follow out the lines of the first returns. The democrats entered the primaries with perfect harmony as to their nominees and Theodore Bell will make the fight against Johnson for election.

In the republican gubernatorial fight around which the whole contest centered Johnson had an easy victory over Charles F. Curry, running on the strength of his own political machine, and Allen Anderson, the regular, was hopelessly distanced.

The question now before the voters of the state is the election itself. Democratic leaders are declaring supreme confidence in Bell's ability to defeat Johnson. Bell and Johnson have made similar declarations of principles. The battle will be one of personality.

NOTED ATHLETE

Was Killed by Railroad Train

BOSTON, Aug. 17.—Daniel J. Chisholm, a student at St. Daniel's college, Antigonish, Nova Scotia, and a noted athlete of the Maritime provinces, was struck and instantly killed by an outward bound train of the southern division of the Boston & Maine railroad shortly after 6 o'clock last night at Prospect Hill, Somerville. Chisholm was 22 years of age, single, and lived with his brother, Collin Chisholm, at 5 Flint avenue. The young man's neck was broken, his left arm fractured and he received numerous bruises about the body.

The dead man had been employed by the Boston & Maine railroad as a switchman for the past four months, coming here at the close of the college year. It was his intention to return early next month and complete his college education.

He had just reported for work last night when he was struck by the train. A part of his duties was to see that every switch was properly lighted and he had completed this work when he crossed from one track to another and directly in the path of the train that left Boston at 5:58 o'clock. Eye witnesses say he made an attempt to get out of the way, but the distance was too short between himself and the locomotive.

Chisholm was born in Antigonish, where his parents reside. He was a runner, with a record of having won several ten mile races and held the record for the three mile cross country run of the Maritime provinces.

Kenneth Chisholm, a brother, is a member of the Metropolitan police force.

FORMER OFFICIALS

Of Illinois Road Mentioned in Fraud Cases

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—After a series of secret conferences in which the mass of evidence in the $6,000,000 Illinois Central fraud cases was prepared for immediate presentation to a court, eight "Informations," or warrants, were drawn up last night to be served, it is believed, today. The men named in these documents are former officials of the road who are credited with responsibility for the frauds. Assistant State Attorney John Burnes was in readiness to take up his work as prosecutor as soon as the first warrant is served. "Several things may happen now at most any time," said the prosecutor last evening. All that remains now is the whirling up of the details before the trap is sprung on the men named in the informations.

ASLEEP IN AUTO

The Machine Made Trip Down an Historic Hill

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—An automobile made the descent today on the hill made famous by the ride of Gen. Israel Putnam during the Revolutionary war. "Old Put" rode down it 131 years ago to escape the British. Yesterday James Humphreys, son of the millionaire patent medicine man, of this city, and a friend went down in a big touring car because they were both asleep.

The hill that has been famous since "Old Put" sent his horse down it is near Greenwich, Conn. It is known as Put's hill, and there is a good, broad auto road down it. It is not so steep as it was when the general took a chance. But it is still a good hill. The stone steps that lent a great charm to the Putnam story in the fourth reader have disappeared, but the hill is there, and the autoist takes it slowly.

Mr. Humphreys and a friend had motored from Boston and were near Greenwich yesterday. The friend had gone to sleep. The road stretched in front of Humphreys at the wheel. The machine swung along at a fair easygoing clip and for the instant the man at the wheel dozed away.

The little nap came to the brow of the hill at about the point where "Old Put" decided it was up to him to be captured or do the trick that helped to make him a hero.

"The men in the machine don't know just what happened. The head of the man at the wheel fell over upon the shoulder of the other. Persons looked and saw a big touring car on a down grade with men asleep in it. There was only time to look and the machine shot past.

It went down the hill as straight as though it were being steered, until it gathered speed near the bottom. Then it swerved just a bit to the side and crashed into a telegraph pole. The pole snapped off six feet from the ground and the top of it fell, narrowly missing the two men.

In spite of the heavy impact the two men were not thrown from the machine. Humphreys, while congratulating himself on his escape, admitted he was asleep. His friend, he said, went to sleep a long time before.

THE PLAYGROUNDS

Results of Ball Games and Athletic Sports

Outdoor exercise is good for all of us, but it is especially necessary that the growing child get a great deal of outdoor exercise; and Lowell's playgrounds offer splendid opportunity for the kind of exercise that is most beneficial.

If you have visited the playgrounds on the North and South commons, and if you are the least bit interested in the little ones you have witnessed scenes that turned the clock back a few years and made you a boy again for the time being. To a great many the playgrounds are the most interesting spots in the city at the present time. The playground is a very important place, too, because it is important that the mind of the child should be always occupied and the playground furnishes the proper place to get the proper thoughts, when the playground is provided with competent instructors as is the case in Lowell today.

We have already and repeatedly enumerated the different sports and games indulged in on the commons and at the Little Canada playground, and the piece of resistance, of course, is baseball. Old timers have been heard to say that there is more fun in watching a game or a series of games at the playgrounds than to watch the professionals play.

Yesterday was a great day for baseball at the South common. Just list to a few of the results.

Butlers vs. Bluejays (no record of innings) score 19 to 5 in favor of the Butlers. Daly vs. O'Donnell, for the Butlers; Maurice vs. Lynch, for the Bluejays.

Centrals vs. Young Clippers—Kane vs. Mulgure p. for the Centrals; Grover vs. Paludo p. for the Young Clippers. Score 23 to 2, in favor of the Centrals.

Gorham Stars vs. Gorham Athletic club—Martin vs. Bogarke p. for the Gorham Stars; Finnegan p. Gavel c. for the Gorham Athletic club. Score 22 to 9 in favor of the Gorham stars.

Wassett vs. Buffalo Juniors—Vincent Howers p. Muldoon c. for the Butlers; McNally p. Smith c. for the Buffalo Juniors. Score 27 to 24 in favor of the Wassetts.

Athletic Sports

Chief Instructor Wilton arranges the athletic sports in classes and according to age and the last meet on the South common resulted as follows: Sixty yard dash, class A—20 starters. Final heat—T. Carmody, first; J. Carmody, second; J. Bowers, third; T. Mooney, fourth. Time—10 seconds. The age limit for this race was 12 years.

High jump—C. Smith, first; W. Moore, second; J. McLean, third; W. Kire, fourth. Record, 3 feet 6 inches.

Running broad jump—J. Callahan, first; C. Smith, second; W. Moore, third; George Grover, fourth. Distance 11 feet.

Class B, 12-15 years. Seventy-five yard dash. Time 12 secs.—Jas. Kane, first; John Foster, second; John McGuire, third; F. Batchelder, fourth.

Running broad jump—J. Eugays, first; John Foster, second; F. Batchelder, third; Ed Mackham, fourth. Distance, 12 feet 3 inches.

High jump—J. Moore, first; Edgar Smith, second; John Cairnes, third. Height, 4 feet 1 inch.

Class C, 14-16 years. One hundred yard dash—H. Devno, first; McDonough, second; Sullivan, third; Roark, fourth. Time, 13 seconds.

High jump—Devno, first; McDonough, second; Batchelder, third; Roark, fourth. Distance, 4 feet, 3 inches.

Eight pounds shot put—Devno, first; Sullivan, second; McDonough, third; Roark, fourth. Distance, 24 feet.

Tuesday, August 24, will be the closing day of the playground exercises and the closing exercises will be held on the South common. This will take on the form of an inter-playground meet and prizes will be awarded for the various athletic events.

NEW QUARTERS

The Board of Trade Will Have New Rooms

The board of trade is soon to have new and commodious quarters on the morning Tyler Stevens, agent of the property, submitted plans to Secretary Murphy for the approval of the board the owners to make the changes to suit the board.

Since the board of trade began to grow both in numbers and importance the old rooms have been inadequate to the demands made upon them and at a meeting of the board or a hearing before the directors or any committee, the capacity of the place has been taxed. When the new rooms have been finished there will be ample room for all the purposes of the organization. The membership committee which has been doing great work for the past few months and which has been holding weekly Wednesday dinners at the Park Hotel is taking a vacation until September when it will resume its efforts to gather into the fold all the business men in Lowell.

Case Against American Tube Works Has Been Settled

BOSTON, Aug. 17.—Papers settling out of court the equity suit brought in 1904 by Otto von Arnim of New York and James G. Freeman of Boston, trustees under the will of Elizabeth Cotton von Arnim, against the American Tube works and others, were filed yesterday with the clerk of the supreme judicial court, ending one of the longest and most costly legal contests involving about $1,000,000 and interest.

The other defendants named in the original bill of complaint were Walter G. Cotton, president of the Tube works, and his brothers, William C. Cotton, treasurer, and Frank H. Cotton, assistant treasurer.

The bill was later amended so as to include Charles T. Gallagher, Harry W. Cotton and Joseph H. Cotton, executors under the will of George H. Cotton. After the six years' duration of this legal tangle, the only surviving defendant is William C. Cotton.

The case was first brought in the superior court and afterward removed to the supreme court, where it was sent to a master. The master's report was sustained by Judge Hays, who reported the case to the full bench, but the parties came to a secret agreement of settlement in consequence of which by agreement the bill was dismissed.

The cost of printing the papers for the report to the supreme court was $6500, the largest amount on record for printing papers in the history of the supreme court.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Declines to Discuss the Defeat of Col. Roosevelt.

BEVERLY, Aug. 17.—Beverly was completely upset last night when news came from New York of the defeat of Col. Roosevelt for temporary chairman of the New York republican state convention. The fact that Lloyd C. Griscom, chairman of the New York county committee, had been in conference with President Taft as late as Saturday night and Sunday added to the sensation that the dispatches created.

Secretary Norton carried the news to the president shortly before the dinner hour. Mr. Taft made no comment for publication. There is nothing here to indicate that he knew of Mr. Griscom's plan to force a vote on Mr. Roosevelt's name.

So far as can be learned Mr. Griscom's talk with the president had to do solely with the general situation in New York state, and Mr. Taft took the ground that harmony ought to be brought about if possible before the Saratoga convention. The story that Mr. Griscom took a message to Col. Roosevelt which would affect the future relations between Mr. Roosevelt and the president is discredited in Beverly. Mr. Taft has assumed the attitude that any overtures, if they be necessary, must come "from the other side."

The statement issued by Col. Roosevelt last night, apparently placing himself squarely on the side of the "progressives," has created much comment here. What effect yesterday's developments in New York may have upon the reorganization plans that have been in progress here must, of course, for a time remain a matter of conjecture. So far as can be learned there is a disposition here to "stand pat" on the plans as announced.

The publicity that has been given to these plans may retard them for a while, but there is apparently plenty of confidence here that they ultimately will go through.

Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, the central figure in the reorganization plans, was here late yesterday afternoon and spent two hours with the president. The senator was reticent as ever. He would not talk about his mission in the west, nor would he discuss in any way his visit to the president.

It is said that Senator Crane was selected for the work he has in hand because of his habit of reticence. The president warned him yesterday not "to be so garrulous with the reporters," and the senator, appreciating the joke, was a little more silent than ever.

Some of the senator's questioners suggested to him last night that he might deny some of the stories that have been sent out of Beverly during the past week. This Mr. Crane modestly declined to do. He was interrogated from every possible angle, but warded off every question.

Secretary Norton, who, it is generally believed, has been working in close harmony with Senator Crane, was equally reticent last night. He said with a smile that he could "add nothing to what Senator Crane had said."

It is known, however, that Senator Crane submitted a complete verbal report to the president of his observations in the west and what he had learned more recently in New Hampshire and Vermont. The senator has been on an auto trip through the two latter states and it was uncertain yesterday whether he would reach Beverly or not. If President Taft was in ignorance of what Senator Crane has been doing he undoubtedly learned of his activities yesterday.

In this connection, and with regard to the reports that the reorganization plans might go on the rocks because of the refusal of Secretary Ballinger to resign, it is stated that when Senator Crane was first called into the situation it was on a telegram asking if he could undertake a mission to the west "for the president." This mission to the west turned out to be a conference with Secretary Ballinger regarding a plan for his retirement from the cabinet. It is known that heavy pressure will be brought to bear upon Mr. Ballinger to resign without putting the president in the position of asking for that resignation.

The 15th of September will tell the story and no one apparently in the meantime can tell just what the outcome will be.

KING AND QUEEN OF ITALY GO TO SEE FATHER OF LATTER CROWNED AT MONTENEGRO

ROME, Aug. 17.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helene of Italy have started for the little principality of Montenegro, which is soon to become the kingdom of Zeta, with the father of Queen Helene, Prince Nicholas L., as king. Advisors from the Swiss frontier that anarchists have gathered to assassinate the royal party have caused extraordinary police precautions to be taken, but the Swiss authorities declare that the gathering of anarchists has nothing to do with a plot to slay the king. When the king and queen of Italy arrive in Montenegro the actual change from dependency to kingdom will have taken place, but for several days following their arrival there will be elaborate festivities in court circles. It is said that King Nicholas plans to make his court as exclusive and stately as that at Vienna.

Alleged That the Veniremen Were "Approached"

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Declaring that nearly all the veniremen had been "approached" in connection with the retrial of Lee O'Neil Browne, Judge Kersten yesterday dismissed a panel of 72 who had been subpoenaed for the selection of a jury.

This action came after several days' endeavor to get a jury to try Browne, the democratic minority leader of the Illinois legislature, on a charge of giving Representative Charles A. White a bribe to vote for William Lorimer for U. S. senator.

Judge Kersten pronounced the situation "deplorable."

The veniremen were immediately taken to the office of State Attorney Wayman, where Judge Kersten asked each man by name if he had been called on by anyone in connection with his possible services as a juror. Nearly all answered in the affirmative. They were instructed to report in court today for further investigation.

Mr. Wayman made the assertion in court that he could prove by a detective employed by the defense that the latter had systematically sought out every prospective venireman, either personally or through members of his family.

P. H. O'Donnell of counsel for Browne, asserted that the veniremen had been "seen" by agents of a third interest, neither defense nor prosecution, but someone interested for political reasons in the downfall of Browne.

This phase of the case began to develop in the forenoon, when Emil Wennerberg, a venireman, stated that he had been called into the office of a

"Dr. Kelly," and reached a crisis when Swan Dahlberg, another member of the panel, said he had been "seen" by some agent. Dahlberg declared this agent told him, after questioning him as to his belief in the guilt or innocence of Browne, that he need not answer the subpoena. He acted on this advice, and in consequence was brought before the judge yesterday to explain why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court. Then he told his story.

Judge Kersten leaned over his desk and said solemnly: "The court wants to know if this is going to be a fair trial or a travesty on justice. The situation has reached a point where an investigation is necessary. I don't want to blame either the state or the defense, but someone is doing crooked work. When a juror is subpoenaed no one has a right to talk to him. As it is, probably every man on the jury has been approached."

At this point Attorney O'Donnell made his accusation against some "third party."

Then Mr. Wayman jumped to his feet and said: "I can prove that the defense has been systematically calling on all veniremen. Man after man has been excused from service on this jury and has been taken to my office, where they told me they had been approached directly or through members of their various households."

One venireman, whose name was not disclosed, caused further excitement after the panel had been taken to Mr. Wayman's office. An official said later that the venireman had been asked by "an agent" to stick it out for Browne "till hell freezes over."

A sixth panel, which was ordered to report today, will be questioned. If it is found that investigators have been talking to them, this panel will be dismissed also.

The first trial of Browne for the alleged bribing of White resulted in a disagreement. The work of selecting a new jury began three weeks ago, but progress has been slow because most of the veniremen had formed opinions.

MANY COMPLAIN About Sending the Auto Patrol Out of Town

The fire department committee, Aldermen Adams and Byam; Councilmen Achin, Kilpatrick and Tracey, met last night. Alderman Byam was the only absentee.

Chief Hosmer was present at the meeting and the first business to be considered had to do with the sending of the auto fire patrol out of town.

Chairman Adams said he had received complaints from numerous business men and representative citizens during the past few weeks about the fire department sending the auto fire patrol out of town and the committee has a unit in deciding that. It weakened the department. Chief Hosmer agreed with the committee and said if the committee would vote to instruct him not to send the patrol out of town that he would abide by the instructions of the committee. It was so voted.

Alderman Adams next called the attention of the committee and the chief to the alleged poor working of the tape system in announcing the box numbers at the Warren street house. It was claimed by the chairman and some of the other members, more especially Councilman Kilpatrick, that the tape system had, up to date, proved a failure and should be replaced by the indicator system, which was in use previous to the tape.

Chief Hosmer stated that the tape was the proper thing and should be continued. Councilman Kilpatrick did not agree with him.

No formal action was taken in the matter.

The lack of a fire box in the upper end of Princeton street and at the junction of Dracut street and Fourth avenue, was discussed at some length.

The matter of placing combination auto trucks at the High street and Branch street houses and the purchase of an auto for the chief's use, was discussed. Chief Hosmer said that it would take something like $12,000 to buy the three pieces of apparatus proposed.

Councilman Kilpatrick stated that the people of the Oakland district were desirous of having a new house built in their section, but he, as well as the other members of the committee, believed the placing of an auto truck at the High street house would afford sufficient fire protection for that section.

On motion of Councilman Tracey it was voted to take a view on next Thursday afternoon of the proposed new location of fire alarm boxes and incidentally look over the Oakland section for a site for a fire house. Also to look over the central fire station to consider the need of a new boiler there.

AN UGLY CROWD Made Attack on the Strikebreakers

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 17.—An ugly crowd of some hundred or more laborers on strike in this city threatened harm to a number of strikebreakers who went to work in the Sharpe mill this morning. Chief of Police Mason and a number of patrolmen were hurried to the scene of disorder and dispersed the strikers. Strikebreakers were stoned and dragged from their work by the strikers.

The strikers made an attack upon the donkey engine which had been fired up for the first time since the strike began and sent a veritable hail of rocks at the machine. They did but little damage and any attempt to draw the fire from under the boiler was frustrated by one husky Italian laborer who stood guard at the door with a coal shovel and a long poker and dared any striker to come near him.

The strikers before the arrival of the police detail in the auto took half a dozen men who were at work and by main strength pulled them off the job and, forming a cordon around them, kept them in the ranks of the strikers. Chief of Police Mason personally directed the city's forces today, touring the city in a machine and visiting every place where danger threatened. He personally went into several scrapes himself and in addition to directing his officers did a lot of personal physical work when he thought occasion demanded. The city is so stretched out and the various jobs which have been struck so isolated that it makes the work of the police all the more difficult and upon several occasions in addition to this they have found the strikers composed almost exclusively of hot-headed foreigners looking for fight and ready to obey any order from the officers.

At the Sharpe mill the men who desired to work came this morning intending to remain the entire day, not leaving the mill for dinner and the police have promised plenty of protection for them when they leave for their homes this evening.

6 O'CLOCK SPANISH AVIATOR Made the Journey Across the English Channel

DEAL, England, Aug. 17.—In an aeroplane voyage from Paris to London, which since the crossing of the English channel by Bleriot and others has been the great aim of the biplanes, the young Spanish aviator, descended near here today, having accomplished the flight from Paris to Calais and the journey across the channel to Deal with an ease and brilliancy rarely surpassed. He is now preparing to continue the trip to London, the completion of which will bring him the cup and prize offered by a London newspaper for the course and the proceeds of the subscription raised in England for Graham E. White, which the unsuccessful competitor in the London-Manchester flight generously offered as a prize for the Paris to London competition.

Hubert Latham, who started from Issy, a suburb of Paris, to race Moissant to London, had a series of unfortunate accidents, the last at Amiens culminating in the total wrecking of his machine as he was preparing to resume the flight. Latham escaped unhurt but is out of the race.

The last stage of Moissant's flight, the trip across the channel, was accomplished in a strong channel breeze, the wind being so high that experienced aviators looked upon the start as foolhardy. It was such a wind that repeatedly deterred Latham, Bleriot and other aviators from attempting the passage of the straits and correspondents, who had witnessed the earlier attempts to cross the channel, confidently wired their papers that Moissant would not start before evening when the wind was expected to fall. Nevertheless as soon as he could arrange for a French torpedo boat to follow him across the channel Moissant launched his aeroplane from the cliffs near Calais at 6.45 this morning and started for the English shore. The breeze was still strong and the monoplane, which like other Bleriot machines, appears to spectators less steady in the air than the more stable and heavier biplanes, pitched and rolled so dangerously that spectators believed it in imminent danger. Moissant, however, who is the youngest of the aviators, managed his machine with the greatest skill and as the Bleriot with its guide passed out of the zone of greatest danger near the shore seemed to steady his machine, and as she passed out of sight of Calais was, according to reports, flying well at an altitude of about 500 feet. He was expected to land at Dover, but was driven a few miles north and made the coast near Deal, passing over Walmer castle and the marine barracks at 11.15. He was unable to continue the journey to London, so much was he by the cold during the crossing from Calais, and landed near Tilmanstone, a short distance from Deal. The trip from Calais to Tilmanstone occupied approximately 37 minutes.

John Moissant, who by his achievement today will take rank with Bleriot, Farman, Latham and other celebrated flyers, is a young Spaniard, almost at the beginning of his career in aviation. After four trial flights August 7 he flew with his mechanic as a passenger from Etampes to Issy, fifty miles, at an elevation of 3000 feet, arriving as the competitors in the cross country race were starting from Issy. Yesterday he reached Amiens and at 5.50 this morning he ascended and headed for Calais, still carrying his mechanic as a passenger, and descended at Calais at 7.15.

Latham rushed repairs this morning to outstrip Moissant and started but the aeroplane touched a tree, one wing collapsed and the machine turned turtle.

PRESIDENT MONTT The Head of the Chilean Government is Dead

BREMEN, Aug. 17.—President Pedro Montt, of Chile, who arrived from New York on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse yesterday morning, died suddenly here at 11.55 last night. Death was due to a recurrence of heart failure following the recent attack of angina pectoris from which he suffered.

Mrs. Montt, his private physician, who had accompanied him, and a personal attendant, were at his bedside.

President Montt sailed from New York last Thursday, and was a fellow passenger on the same steamship with Mayor Gaynor, of New York. He had met and talked with the mayor but a few minutes before the latter was shot and removed from the ship. He was deeply shocked by the attempt at assassination, and expressed great pleasure when wireless bulletins gave hope that Mayor Gaynor would recover.

The Chilean chief executive came aboard in the hope that he would completely recover his health. He sailed from Valparaiso on the cruiser Esmeralda to Panama, and from there took a Royal Mail steamship for New York. He arrived in the latter city in improved health and paid a visit to President Taft at Beverly, where friendliest greetings were exchanged between the chief executive of the North and South American Republics.

On his arrival at Bremen this morning President Montt appeared to have gained strength on the journey, but decided to rest here for a day or two before resuming his journey. Late last night there was a sudden recurrence of heart failure, and he died shortly before midnight. The body will be returned to Chile, probably on a German mail of-war.

Pedro Montt became president of Chile on September 18, 1906, and his term of office extended to 1911. He succeeded German Riesco as chief executive. He was elected by an enormous majority, and was supported by a really national party.

Pedro Montt was a member of one of the best known families in Chile, for his father, Manuel Montt, was president of the Chilean republic from 1851 to 1861, to whom, chiefly because of his strong will, national history gives high credit for a firm and productive administration. Pedro Montt was elected to the lower house soon after his admission to the bar in 1863. He held his seat for many years, and was then returned senator for one of the southern provinces, and later for the province of Santiago. During those years he had often been a member of the cabinet, and was more than once premier.

At various times he was speaker of the chamber of deputies and a councillor of state, and during a brief trying period was minister plenipotentiary at Washington. In all the offices he held Senor Montt was distinguished for his conciliatory and well-defined policy. His avowed ambition as president was to return the country to its former high position in the financial world, to govern the nation with the greatest economy compatible with efficient public service, and live at peace with all its neighbors. He was the champion of a sound financial system, and waged unceasing war against the policy of prodigal expenditure.

Early last June the president suffered a serious attack of angina pectoris and on his partial recovery the trip to Europe was planned.

NAVY SUPPLIES

Chance for Local Dealers to Make Bids

The board of trade has received another notice of purchases for the navy department from the bureau of supplies and accounts in which the following items may be of interest to local dealers:

Miscellaneous quantity of wire-woven fencing for the Charlestown navy yard.

Sixty-six thousand pounds of iron chain for the Charlestown navy yard.

Miscellaneous quantity of mull work and miscellaneous quantity of spruce for the Charlestown navy yard.

Twenty-five hundred pounds of cotton twine, 6 ply, for the Charlestown navy yard.

Miscellaneous quantity of copper pipe for the Portsmouth navy yard.

AN AEROPLANE

NEW-YORK, Aug. 17.—An aeroplane operated by wireless from the shore or the deck of a vessel is the latest invention of John Francis R. O'Rourke, the well-known constructing engineer. He believes that its use will revolutionize naval warfare.

The aeroplane was built by Mr. O'Rourke and eight French experts on aviation and combines all the best features of the leading types of aircraft. It is controlled by the waves sent out by a wireless instrument, the propulsive power being a powerful engine which will develop one horse power for every two pounds of its weight.

The aeroplane is also designed to carry passengers, and when thus used could be steered by an aviator, the control being centralized in a single lever. The problem of balance, solved by the Wright brothers in their warping device, has been overcome by Mr. O'Rourke in some specially designed ailerons, which are moved by a lever, their position altering the balance of the aeroplane.

The use of this new invention during a war, as described by Mr. O'Rourke, would result in terrible damage to a foe. The aeroplane could be sent to a height of a mile, the engine stopped by wireless, and the plane, gradually gliding toward the earth, would drop explosives at the will of the wireless operator.

Sent from a war vessel it could create havoc in the fortifications of an attacked town, while a flock of them could put to flight a large fleet of attacking ships. Mr. O'Rourke has filed patent applications on every feature of his invention, and has received several offers from the concern desirous of manufacturing the new implement of warfare.

IN POLICE COURT Minor Violations of Sunday Law

Three storekeepers were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on complaints charging them with violating the Lord's Day. A week ago Sunday several police officers in citizens' clothes made a tour of the city to ascertain if any of the storekeepers were violating the Sunday law and they succeeded in purchasing soap in two places while in the third place a package of soap was bought.

In court this morning all three entered pleas of guilty and fines of $5 each were imposed.

Fined for Oversteering

Thomas F. Waldron was charged with operating his automobile in Andover street at a rate of speed greater than was reasonable and proper. Two officers were stationed in Andover street a week ago Sunday and Mr. Waldron sent his machine through the trap at a rate of 27 miles an hour. In court this morning he pleaded guilty and a fine of $10 was imposed.

Placed on Probation

Edward Gagnon was charged with failing to provide for his wife. He appeared penitent and after promising to do better in the future was placed in the hands of the probation officer.

Expensive Cloth

Samuel Barry, an employee of the Massachusetts mills, stole two yards of cloth valued at 24 cents from the mill where he was working and when arraigned in court this morning on a complaint of larceny entered a plea of guilty and a fine of $15 was imposed.

Drunken Offenders

Peter Drolette, a man who lost the lower part of his legs as a result of being run over by a train several years ago, was in court charged with being drunk. Inasmuch as he had appeared before the court on several previous occasions Judge Hadley deemed it advisable to send the man to the state farm.

Thomas H. Shea was sentenced to three months in jail, John W. Gray was fined $2 and two first offenders were fined $2 each.

HAD LONG SLEEP Lexington Man May Have Been Drugged

Charles J. Lunney, the man who it is alleged relieved a drunken man of his watch and chain and money on the South common yesterday morning, appeared in police court this morning and entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with the larceny of a watch valued at $20, chain valued at $1 and $25 in money, the property of James McQuade. Owing to the fact that McQuade was unable to appear in court this morning the government asked for a continuance till tomorrow which was granted.

It developed late yesterday afternoon that the unknown man who was shown by Lunney was James McQuade of Lexington, Mass. The man was taken to the police station about 9 o'clock yesterday morning and remained in a comatose condition until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when it was deemed advisable to remove him to the city hospital.

After receiving treatment at the hospital he began to show signs of life and while he gave a brief history of what he had done since reaching Lowell his mind was rather hazy relative to what happened prior to his going to sleep on a seat in the common.

The police are of the opinion that the man was drugged.

FUNERALS

MOLYNEUX—The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Ellen Molyneux took place yesterday afternoon from her late residence, 314 Mammoth road, and was largely attended. Rev. F. E. # THE STATE TO PAY $2500 FOR A COMPETENT MAN

While Lowell's smoke inspector is endeavoring to choke the vile stuff at nothing per work the state is looking for good smoke subduers at a salary of $2500.

Secretary Murphy, of the board of trade is in receipt of a communication from Secretary Dudley of the Massachusetts civil service commission notifying him of a coming examination for the position of smoke inspector under the gas and light commissioners.

The communication reads as follows: A competitive examination for the position of smoke inspector under chapter 551 of the acts of 1910 in the employment of the board of gas and electric light commissioners of the commonwealth will be held Friday, Sept. 2, 1910.

The salary named said board in its requisition is $2500, subject, however, to the approval of the governor and council.

The examination will contain the following subjects: (1) training and experience; (2) writing of report or letter; (3) arithmetic; (4) knowledge of fuel and handling the same, combustion, causes of smoke nuisance and methods of abatement; (5) knowledge of law relating to smoke nuisance.

Possession of a license and thorough training as fireman or engineer, while not required, will be given especial consideration on the subject of training and experience.

Applicants will be given a physical examination and a specially rigid test of eyesight will be made.

Only citizens of the United States, who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year, have a right to apply.

Men desiring to take this examination may secure application blanks by applying in person or by letter at the office of the civil service commission, Room 15, state house, Boston, Mass.

Applications may be filed at any time, but in order to entitle a man to appear at this examination, the application blank must be filled out and placed on file in the office of this commission on or before Aug. 30, 1910.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—The grand stand was crowded by tennis enthusiasts who flocked to the Casino today to see the three times national doubles championship winners, H. H. Jackett and F. B. Alexander of New York, defend their title against the Chicago winners, L. C. Bundy and Trowbridge Hendrick of California. Bundy and Hendrick became the challengers by surviving in the tournament at Chicago Aug. 1, 2 and 3, between the players of the south, west and middle west.

The weather was almost perfect today for good tennis, a cool wind blowing across the championship court that had been made firm by the rain of yesterday.

There were six matches remaining in the second round of the all-corners singles tournament when play was started today and when these were decided the third round was started.

CHIEF OF POLICE Of Newport, R. I., Signed Warrant for His Own Arrest

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—After signing a warrant authorizing his own arrest, Chief of Police James Crowley pleaded not guilty in the District court to a charge of "dangerous assault" on former Mayor Frederick P. Garretson and furnished bail of $100 for his appearance at a continued hearing on August 23. Mr. Garretson applied at the district court for the warrant early today.

Mr. Garretson has been active in raising the subscription of $10,000 for the entertainment of the officers and enlisted men of the Atlantic fleet, now in port. Yesterday he called the attention of the police chief to the fact that on one of the streets a gambling device consisting of a revolving wheel of the roulette pattern with an American flag bearing numbers and serving as a "layout" was in operation. The former mayor demanded that the chief have the device removed, on the dual grounds that it was a desecration of the flag and that it was also illegal inasmuch as it was operated for gambling purposes.

Chief Crowley ordered the flag removed but, according to Mr. Garretson, did not stop the operation of the wheel. Warm words were exchanged between Messrs. Crowley and Garretson and, it is alleged, the chief placed his shoulder against Mr. Garretson and pushed him out of the way. This push is said to be the ground for the charge of "dangerous assault."

LOAN ORDERS SIGNED By Mayor Meehan for Various Street Improvements

The city of Lowell has made a temporary loan of $100,000 from William H. Reed & Co., of Boston, in anticipation of taxes. The loan will be due November 10 and the discount will be 4.10 per cent.

Fine Quality Milk

Asked today as to the quality of the milk being sold in Lowell, Milk Inspector Master said: "This milk is exceptionally good for this time of year. The necessary total solids, according to law, is 12.15. The milk in this city for June averaged 12.92 and 12.99 for month of July. We sent out a good many warnings during the months of June and July and I think that helped some. Whenever we found a sample that was weakening, but growing weak, we sent a warning and I should judge from the quality of the milk at the present time that the farmers must be grainning their cows." Sometime ago the milk inspector was supplied with apparatus for making bacteriological examination of the milk and a few preliminary tests have been made, 32 in all, and he found that the milk in this direction was all right. He found that the bacteria was not greater than the law allows. Mr. Master, however, does not claim to have made what he would call satisfactory tests and he will not make any definite report until he has examined 200 samples or more.

The Reviewing Stand

Men are at work on the reviewing stand for the Hibernian parade to be held one week from today. The stand is being built in Worthen street between the city hall and the soldiers' monument. The work is being done by the lands and buildings department. A. E. Burnham in charge. The stand will have a 74 foot front. It will be 36 feet deep and will accommodate over 1000 people. Over 14,000 feet of lumber will be contained in the structure.

For Election Supplies

Bids on election supplies were opened at the office of the purchasing agent this forenoon. The contract for 100 copies of election officers for 1910 and 1911, and 1500 envelopes went to the Union Printing company. Prince & Son will supply the miscellaneous stuff, including pencils, penholders, muslinage, rubber bands, ink, sealing wax, etc.

Marriage Intentions

REAR-END CRASH Traffic on Pennsylvania Railway Was Blocked for Hours

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—A rear end collision of freight trains on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad at Ardmore, eight miles west of here, early today spilled wreckage over all four tracks of the road and completely blocked traffic for hours. One trainman sustained a broken arm.

The wreckage was piled high and almost immediately took fire, making it difficult for the wrecking crews to quickly open the road for traffic.

FAILED TO HIT

Lowell Batted After the Game Was Lost

The Whalers came back hard at Lowell yesterday by banging Yount at will, while until the ninth inning the home team could do nothing with the delivery of McIntyre, a young man who once pitched for Al Winn for a brief period and who has since improved wonderfully.

McIntyre held the home team down to three hits up to the ninth, and the surprise of the day was the fact that up to the ninth the only man who could do anything with McIntyre was Yount, who made two hits.

In the ninth they got to him and made three runs, Fitz getting a homer and Fluharty a three-bagger. Lowell made a few costly errors to help the visitors out.

Umpire Lanigan ran the game and did a good job.

Game in detail:

First Inning
Neither side scored in the first inning. Walsh hit to Cooney and was out at first and McCrone followed with a foul fly to Boutles. Rising drew a base on balls and was nailed while trying to steal second.

In the latter half of the inning Blakely hit to Cunningham and was out at first. Fitzpatrick popped a fly which McCrone gathered in. Cooney singled, the ball getting by Bauman. Magee closed the inning with a fly to Wilson.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 0.

Second Inning
A little hard luck on Lowell's part in the second inning allowed the Whalers to score two runs. Cunningham opened with a single and McCormick sent the ball to the left field fence for two bases, Cunningham going to third. Bauman hit to Cooney, who held Cunningham on third and threw the runner out at first. Wilson sent a sacrifice fly to Magee and the latter threw home to get Cunningham, but the ball hit in front of the plate and bounding over Huston's head allowed Cunningham and McCormick to score. Pratt filed to Tenney.

In Lowell's half Tenney hit to McIntyre and was out at first. Fluharty filed to McCormick and Boutles filed to Walsh.

Score, Lowell 0, New Bedford 2.

Third Inning
In the third inning McIntyre was retired on strikes. Walsh singled and McCrone filed to Blakely. Blakely threw to first to get Walsh but Tenney fumbled the ball and Walsh went to second, but he died there for Rising hit to Fitz and was out at first.

The local team went out in quick order. Huston foul filed to Pratt. Yount hit to Cunningham and was out at first, while Blakely was third out on a fly to Walsh.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 2.

Fourth Inning
The visitors scored two more runs in the fourth inning. Cunningham started off with a single and went to second on McCormick's sacrifice. Bauman hit to Boutles, who held the ball too long and then threw wide to first, allowing Bauman to reach first. Wilson hit to Cooney, forcing Bauman at second. Cunningham going to third. Wilson then stole second. Pratt hit to the right field fence for two bases, and Cunningham and Wilson scored. McIntyre got a base on balls and on the fourth ball Pratt attempted to steal third and was thrown out by Huston.

There were just six balls pitched in the latter half of the inning. Fitz filed to Bauman, Cooney sent a grounder to Wilson and was out at first and Magee filed to McCormick.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 4.

Fifth Inning
In the fifth inning Walsh hit to Fitz and was out at first. McCrone filed to Fluharty and Cunningham hit to Yount, and was out at first.

In Lowell's half Tenney filed to Rising. Fluharty filed to Walsh and Boutles hit to third base, but failed to reach first, for Wilson made a pretty stop of the ball and threw the runner out.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 4.

Sixth Inning
Walsh filed to Tenney and McCrone hit to Fitz and was out at first. Rising hit to Boutles, but Boutles in throwing to first threw the ball over to the right field fence and Rising went to third, but he stayed there for Cunningham hit to Boutles and was out at first.

Cooney filed to Rising and Magee filed to Bauman. Tenney drew a base on balls, it being the first base on balls that McIntyre gave during the game. Fluharty hit to Wilson forcing Tenney at second.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 6.

Seventh Inning
Walsh filed to Tenney and McCrone hit to Fitz and was out at first. Rising hit to Boutles, but Boutles in throwing to first threw the ball over to the right field fence and Rising went to third, but he stayed there for Cunningham hit to Boutles and was out at first.

Cooney filed to Rising and Magee filed to Bauman. Tenney drew a base on balls, it being the first base on balls that McIntyre gave during the game. Fluharty hit to Wilson forcing Tenney at second.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 6.

Eighth Inning
McCormick hit to Tenney and was out at first. Bauman hit to the right field fence and tried to make three bases. Fluharty threw to Boutles and Bauman was caught between second and third. He attempted to get back to second, but was tagged out. Wilson filed to Magee.

Riley went to bat for Boutles in the eighth and struck out. Huston filed to McCormick. Yount then electrified the fans by making his second hit during the game, he making two of the three hits made by Lowell. Blakely hit to Bauman, forcing Yount at second.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 6.

Ninth Inning
In the ninth inning Pratt hit to Riley at third and was out at first. McIntyre hit to Fitz and also died at first. Walsh hit to Tenney and was out at first. Yount covering the bag.

Fitzpatrick started the latter half of the ninth inning by knocking the ball over the left field fence for a home run. Cooney hit to McIntyre, who died at first. Magee filed to Cunningham. Tenney got a single by third base. Fluharty hit to the center field fence for three bases, scoring Tenney. Riley hit to Bauman, who threw bad to first and Fluharty scored, while Riley went to third. Sullivan went to bat for Huston and struck out.

The score:

NEW BEDFORD
Walsh, rf ..... 5 0 1 3 6 0
McCrone, 1b ..... 3 0 1 2 0 0

DIAMOND NOTES

At Haverhill today.

Burkett returned to the game yesterday and made a little pinch hit in the second game.

What do you know about Yount as a batter? Two singles in one game. Those batters are saying "off gang away," but what they land there's something doing.

Fitz's homer hit the top of the fence and bounded the right way. This makes 10 pounds of Bull Durham that Fitz will have smoked up this season.

The games go faster with Lanigan at the helm.

Yount appears to have a weakness for passionate hostility. It's hardly safe to wear those socks in the same den with a huge bull for they were loud enough to make even a painted wooden bull go batty.

Philadelphia As were pretty good picking yesterday. Eighteen runs and the largest big league score of the season.

The Red Sox are getting theirs from the critics, likewise John IT.

Only three games away from Division 1.

If Tom Dowd can only get back soon we'll take New Bedford for the pennant.

"Pop" Rising says that New Bedford will save McTigue for Worcester.

Joe Boyle occupied a seat in the bleachers. New Bedford has catchers galore at the present time.

"Who's the ump?" cried a kid when Mr. Lanigan made his usual remarks. "Hank O'Day" promptly returned little Chawwie.

"Send Gray to the bat!" yelled a disgusted fan during the game as McIntyre continued to mow them down. Time was when Jimmie could hit them out when he and Andy were the battery of the old Pawtucket Blues and used to have a scrap with each other over signals about every inning.

Haverhill plays here tomorrow; Fall River, Friday and then for another crack at New Bedford Saturday.

The Lowell-Haverhill game next Wednesday will be played at Spaulding park and will start immediately after the big A. O. H. parade.

William L. McCollum of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., president of the Susquehanna League, yesterday received charges that Floyd Krol of the Chicago Nationals had pitched for Danville of the Susquehanna league against Bloomburg Saturday afternoon. He assumed, it is charged, the name of McNamee and posed as a pitcher by that name from Colby college, who was being given a trial by Danville. He won his game easily, 5 to 1.

It is charged that the Danville management secured Krol in Philadelphia, where he was suspended for misbehavior. President McCollum has given the management 24 hours to prove that the strange pitcher was not Krol.

SIX WERE INJURED WHO IS PRESIDENT?

The Lives of 26 Persons Were Two Worcester Aldermen Fought in Jeopardy Out the Issue

Motorman Shouted Warning When He Found the Brake Out of Action — Three of Victims Were Taken to the Hospital

BOSTON, Aug. 17.—Because of a defective brake on box car 1144 of the Boston elevated railway company, South Boston division, marked Boylston street transfer station, which was inward bound from City Point to the Esplanade, at 6:10 yesterday afternoon, Motorman James W. Gibbons was powerless to hold it in control on the steep grade of East Broadway, near Dorchester street, South Boston, and it sped down the hill, striking the rear of an open Kendall square car, also inward bound, which was standing at the turn into West Broadway at the corner of Dorchester street.

The force of the collision was so great that both cars were driven down Broadway more than 300 feet and stopped below the transfer station on West Broadway.

Motorman Gibbons of the Boylston street transfer station, car, notwithstanding that he fully realized that he was in great danger, and that a collision was imminent, bravely stuck to his post and, half stepping out of the front vestibule window, which was open, he yelled and told the people on the open Kendall square car to guard themselves, as he had lost control of the brakes, and nothing could prevent a collision of the cars. Instantly there was a crash. The vestibule of the box car was torn completely away, nothing being left but a portion of the roof and that portion of the window frame on which Gibbons was leaning.

The six passengers in the box car were thrown to the floor, those in the forward part being dashed against the door and then in a heap on the floor. Mrs. Frank Roy of 2 School street, Dorchester, quite a heavy woman, was most severely injured, striking her head against the door and being saved from going through by C. H. Tucker, also of Dorchester, with whom she was traveling.

Twenty Men on Open Car

There were 20 men on the open car which was ahead, and only two of them are known to have been injured, Frank Crawford, 18 years old, of 2 Goldsmith place, Roxbury, and Henry A. Mathony, 31, of 31 Telegraph street, South Boston.

Motorman Gibbons, on the Boylston street transfer station, car, was Conductor Rich H. Nagle of 99 H street, South Boston. He was on the rear end and was thrown forward and struck his head and received contusions to the back and head.

Motorman John Axon of the Kendall square car was uninjured. His conductor, John Morrison, living on P street, South Boston, was on the running board of his car, when the collision occurred, and thus avoided the serious consequences that might have resulted had he been on the rear end of his own car, where the severity of the collision was greatest.

Motorman Gibbons, as a consequence of his remaining at his post, when he could have jumped and saved himself, was wedged between the two cars, in a position bending over that portion of the window frame and rail of his own car which struck the car ahead. The flooring under him was torn away, everything, including the motor box and brake, being thrown some distance to one side of West Broadway.

When the two cars stopped in front of the transfer station, willing hands rushed to the rescue of the imprisoned motorman. He was conscious, but was suffering severely from the pressure on his body. He asked if any one was hurt and then assisted his rescuers in removing the obstructions that pinned him in.

When the fragments of the vestibule of the box car had been pulled away Gibbons was extricated and was immediately carried into Bishop's pharmacy, where Proprietor Connell made him comfortable while awaiting the arrival of a physician and also the ambulance which had been telephoned for.

Taken to the Hospitals

Mrs. Roy and Mathony and Tucker were also placed in care of Mr. Connell and everything possible was done for the injured, and in a few minutes there were three ambulances on the scene. Gibbons was taken to the Carney hospital, a few blocks away, and Crawford just as he was removed from the second seat of the open car, was placed in another ambulance and also taken to the Carney hospital. Conductor Nagle of the runaway car was taken to the city hospital in a police ambulance, and after his injuries to his back were attended to, he was sent home.

Henry Mathony was taken into Mr. Connell's store and then went to the office of Dr. Redmund at 512 East Broadway, where five stitches were taken in a cut on his right hand. Mr.

Worcester, Aug. 17.—The members of the board of aldermen and a few spectators were treated yesterday afternoon to the unusual spectacle of two members of the board squabbling for the right to preside over a special session called to give a hearing to the Worcester consolidated street railway company on a petition for permission to make changes in its track locations.

An opera bouffe contest between Alderman Geo. F. Brooks and Alderman Peter F. Sullivan for the title and rights of president pro tem, which has attracted attention since Mayor Logan started for his vacation in Friendship, Me., took a rather warm turn at the session.

The time for calling the meeting to order was 12:15 and as the hands of the aldermanic clock pointed to that hour both Aldermen Brooks and Alderman Sullivan started for the president's chair. Alderman Sullivan walked up one flight of steps and Alderman Brooks walked up the other. They almost walked into each other on the far side of the desk as they sought the place in the president's chair. Then they stopped for a moment to talk it over.

The clerk called the roll and then Alderman Sullivan said he would entertain a motion to dispense with the reading of the records of the previous meeting.

"Mr. Sullivan, I object to you presiding at this meeting. I am president of the board of aldermen," said Alderman Brooks.

"Turning to the reporters' table Alderman Sullivan, in a stage whisper, said: "You see, boys, he calls me Mr. Sullivan."

Alderman Emmell jumped to his feet

with a suggestion, "Send for the law department and settle this thing."

So the page was ordered to find the law department. He brought back Assistant City Solicitor Anderson.

As Mr. Anderson took his place in the seat usually filled by City Solicitor Vaughan, Alderman Sullivan, still waving the gavel, said: "The alderman from ward 10 will please state his reasons for doubting my right to serve as president."

Alderman Brooks then went into a review of the case, telling how he was elected president pro tem when President Jeppson went away and that Mr. Sullivan was elected only to serve during a special meeting of the board and he claimed that Mr. Sullivan's right to serve as president ended when the meeting to transact that special business had adjourned.

In other words, he argued that Mr. Sullivan was only a president pro tem, not a permanent president, while he had been elected president pro tempore.

Assistant City Solicitor Anderson ruled that there is no such thing as a president pro tempore pro tempore and that Mr. Sullivan was president pro tempore until the aldermen took action to deprive him of that title and the right to perform the duties of the office.

The aldermen seemed to be in no disposition to deprive the ward 3 man of his yellow jacket, and although Alderman Brooks said "I object," the meeting went right on just as though the real president was wielding the gavel.

President Francis H. Dewey of the Consolidated explained what his company wanted to do in the way of relocating certain of its tracks.

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

How about that census report? Isn't it almost time we heard how much beyond the hundred thousand mark Lowell has gone?

The moth pest is to be exterminated by means of a fungus growth which sickens the moths and produces a disease that is contagious and thus spreads pestilence among moths that have not eaten the fungus. The chief difficulty, we surmise, will be to induce the moths to partake of this fatal diet.

Our municipal concerts are very enjoyable and highly appreciated by the public. There are some people, however, who do not seem to have heard of them, and who make no effort to attend. These concerts are given for the benefit of the masses, and the larger the attendance the greater will be the benefits derived from this particular effort to amuse the people.

BALLINGER AND CANNON

Ballinger and Cannon are two public characters who should be sent into retirement. Ballinger is in bad odor and his retention in the cabinet under such conditions reflects upon himself, the cabinet as a body and the president in particular. Cannon on the other hand is a foul mouthed old braggart whose sole ambition is to support all that is most objectionable in the republican party. He is a spoilsman of the worst type. He is wholly indifferent to justice, honor and decency in the exercise of his power as speaker. By his arbitrary rulings he has eliminated the rights of the minority in congress and applied the gag to prevent free discussion. When it has come to pass that no measure unacceptable to Cannon and the republican party can be admitted, it is certainly time to get rid of Cannon and to put an end to Cannonism.

FLAGRANT POLICE INEFFICIENCY

The failure of the police of Quincy to apprehend Restelli who murdered his mother, and a prominent contractor, and wounded several others, is not creditable to the guardians of that city. When a man can commit wholesale murder in broad daylight and make his escape, the city is not properly protected by its police department.

The highwaymen who committed the double murder in Lynn some weeks ago were quickly rounded up, one of them being shot by the police while trying to make his escape. The value of a police department consists largely in its ability to act quickly in emergencies. This is where the Lynn department proved its worth, and where the Quincy department fell down.

Judge Mahoney of Lawrence the other day severely criticized the police of that city for allowing a man to escape who had made a murderous assault upon a citizen. The assailant finally gave himself up to the police, and it appeared that he had not made any great effort to avoid arrest. Judge Mahoney said the assault was so brutal that every available man on the force should have been put to work in order to arrest the defendant within an hour after the assault. If hold criminals be allowed to escape through stupidity or carelessness, crime will increase. Lowell can felicitate herself upon the fact that of late every crime committed in our city has been followed by arrest and punishment of the guilty parties.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

The minority of the United States senate committee appointed to investigate the causes of the high cost of living, has made its report, and the reasons which it presents are in the main directly opposed to those set forth by the majority report of the committee.

The tariff, trusts and monopolies, and the increased money supply are the three chief causes assigned for the advance in prices of commodities in the United States as compared with the rest of the world.

Senators Johnson of Alabama, Clark of Arkansas and Smith of South Carolina are the members of the select committee who signed this report. The report as a whole is logical and convincing. It attacks the fifteen reasons set forth by the majority report showing that they are not the real reasons and that most of them have no general effect upon the cost of living.

It is shown that the tariff produces the trusts, and that the trusts under the shelter of high protection stamp out domestic competition. The manufacturers are then enabled to add to the price of the manufactured product the amount of tariff duty imposed or to charge prices even much higher, which is actually done.

Specific instances are quoted in support of the claims made. The sugar trust, the meat trust and a few others are cited as examples of the combines that suppress competition and levy tribute upon the people.

This report has the merit of candor and honesty whereas the other has been condemned as arranged for political effect in defence of the tariff, and in the interests of the republican party. The committee has gone to the root of the matter with clear and convincing arguments and sound logic. It has not the specific data at hand to show to what extent each of the causes assigned is responsible for the high cost of living, but it has given abundant proof that the causes mentioned are the real causes by which fictitious prices have been established so that the people have to pay the most exorbitant rates for practically all the necessities of life.

The remedy, of course, would be a reduction in the tariff, the overthrow of the trusts that now exist under the sanction of law, the restoration of free domestic competition, and to a limited extent also competition with foreign nations in the domestic markets.

The majority report was a piece of political claptrap compiled by Senator Lodge to whitewash the new tariff law and thus save the republican party. The minority report voices public opinion throughout the country and cannot be successfully contradicted.

SEEN AND HEARD

LET US LOVE ONE ANOTHER

Let us love one another; not long may we stay
In this bleak world of mourning, so brief is life's day;
Some fade ere 'tis noon, and few linger till eve;
Oh! there breaks not a heart but leaves some one to grieve;
And the fondlest, the purest, the truest that met,
Have still found the need to forgive and forget;
Then oh! though the hopes that we nourish decay,
Let us love one another as long as we may.

There are hearts like the ivy, though all be decayed
Which it seems to clasp fondly in sunlight and shade;
Yet drop not its leaves, but still gayly they spread,
Undimmed 'midst the blighted, the lonely and dead;
And the mistletoe clings to the oak, not in part,
But with leaves closed around it, the root in its heart,
Exists but to twine it, and drink the same dew,
Or to fall with its loved oak and perish there, too.

Thus we'll love one another, 'midst sorrow the worst,
Unaltered and fond as we loved at the first,
Though the false wing of pleasure may change and forsake,
And the bright urn of wealth into particles break;
There are some sweet affections that earth cannot buy,
That cling but the closer when sorrow draws nigh,
And remain with us yet, though all else pass away;
Yes, we'll love one another as long as we may.

Freedom of the will is a doctrine which children can understand and appreciate. The little girl in this story was not willing to have all her naughty ingeniously ascribed to supernatural sources.

"It was Satan," said the mother to one of her children, "who put it into your head to pull Eisle's hair."

"Perhaps it was," replied the little girl, "but kicking her shins was my own idea."

At least one young man in Lowell is in doubt as to the sincerity of his lady love and an innocent little postal card is the cause of it all.

One morning about 8 o'clock a lodger came downstairs in his dressing gown with an empty glass in his hand, says the Chicago Journal. Upon seeing the landlady, he said:

"O, Mrs. Brown, you might be so good as to fill this glass with cold water for me."

"Certainly, sir, with pleasure," About ten minutes afterward he came down again.

"Mrs. Brown, I am awfully sorry to trouble you, but would you kindly fill this glass again for me?"

"No trouble, sir, I assure you. It is a pleasure."

"Thanks, awfully!" Again, after several minutes, he descended.

"You will think me a great nuisance this morning, Mrs. Brown, but I should like another glass of cold water."

"I am only too pleased to be able to get it for you, sir; but you are not well this morning, perhaps?"

"O, yes, thanks; but the fact of the matter is, my bedroom is on fire!"

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Despite the fact that Jean Homolle, the curator, has denied the report of the theft from the Louvre of the famous painting of "Monna Lisa," by Leonardo da Vinci, the Cri de Paris, the paper which first published the report of the alleged robbery, now prints an editorial article in which it demands the appointment of a committee of famous artists to examine the picture. Like all the Louvre masterpieces, the "Monna Lisa" is covered with glass, to protect it from the attacks of vandals. The Cri de Paris insists that it is this glass that prevents not only the public but the experts from detecting the substitution of a copy for the original work, which it repeats, has been stolen. According to the Cri de Paris, an English woman copyist made a copy of the picture for an art restorer in the Rue Bonaparte, and "imparted an appearance of antiquity to the copy." The Cri de Paris reiterates emphatically its statement that the original picture by Leonardo da Vinci is now in New York, and adds that it is in a position to assert that "the successful substitution has so encouraged the New York dealers that they have formed a ring for the purpose of obtaining and smuggling into New York more of the Louvre's finest art treasures." Which of course makes New York art dealers both wifely and envious.

LITTLE DAUGHTER HAD SCALP HUMOR

Itched So that She Scratched Until Blood Came, Hair Fell Out. Scalp had Unpleasant Odor. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment Four Weeks. Scalp Perfectly Clear.

Hair Began to Grow Again and Now Has Beautiful, Long Hair.

"When my little daughter was about five years old, she was taken with the measles. A few weeks after the measles were gone, she began to have a severe scalp humor. It itched so that she would scratch the whole day, until the blood came. We had a doctor and tried a good many other remedies, but nothing helped. Her hair all fell out and the scalp itself had an unpleasant odor. After we had tried all the other remedies, my wife told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. We bought one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. We used the Cuticura Remedies according to directions and in about three or four weeks her scalp was perfectly clear of the terrible humor. Her hair began to grow again and now she has beautiful long hair. Since that time I have recommended the Cuticura Remedies to other people and they also had success. Chas. Brockton Man Found His Sister

BROCKTON, Aug. 17.—When John Rooney answered the bell at his home, 35 Foster avenue, yesterday afternoon and found a woman at the door, little did he suspect who she was. The woman introduced herself as Mrs. William Flynn of Bridgeport, Conn. She made inquiries of him concerning Ireland and they conversed about Rooney's family. Mr. Rooney told the stranger that he had a sister in Ireland.

"No, you haven't," said Mrs. Flynn. "How is that?" asked Mr. Rooney. "Because she is right before you now."

Rooney had not seen his sister in 47 years. He left Ireland in 1865 and has lived in Brockton the greater part of that time. He lost track of his family. His sister came to this country a few years after he did and married and settled in Bridgeport. A short time ago she wrote to friends in Ireland and through them learned her brother's address. Rooney having written to the friends in an endeavor to locate some of his family, Mrs. Flynn is a widow and is going to make a long stay with her brother.

complete display of Italian art, both ancient and modern, representing collections of pictures, sculptures, drawings and engravings from all the chief countries in Europe. The art of the various countries will be exhibited in separate buildings. The design of the British building or "British fine art palace," as it is to be called, has been made by E. L. Lutyens and includes Wren's Order. The facade of St. Paul's cathedral. The king of Italy will be the principal patron of the exhibition.

The youngest provincial parliament member in Canada is S. Hart Green, who was recently elected to represent North Winnipeg. The new member is only 25 years old and is a resident of the Jewish quarter, where about 1000 votes are cast by citizens of that race. The district is said to be the most cosmopolitan in Canada, having colonies of Germans, French, Hungarians, Poles, Galicians, Russians and Syrians. The young member overthrew an opposition of 20 years standing with a handsome majority.

John J. L. Salmon, principal of the Hildreth street school in Marlboro, has been elected sub-master in one of the schools in Cambridge. The salary attached to the position is $1800 a year. Mr. Salmon came from Worcester to Marlboro the first of the year to succeed Ross Vardon, who had been chosen to a position in the Colburn school, Wakefield, at $1000 a year. Mr. Salmon had been elected principal of the Hildreth school at a salary of $800 per annum.

Miss Alice Danforth of Springfield has accepted the principalship of the Huntington high school to succeed Horace F. Bates, who resigned to accept a position as principal of the Hanover high school. Miss Danforth has been assistant teacher in the high school for several years.

James C. Tucker, formerly an instructor in the apprentice school of the General Electric company at Lynn, has been chosen sub-principal to teach manual training and mathematics in the Lynn English high school. Mr. Tucker is a graduate of the Bloomsburg Literary Institute and State Normal school of Bloomsburg, Pa., and has had seven years' experience in public school work.

Miss Edith W. Melcher of Lynn has been elected teacher of English in the Marblehead high school. In place of Miss Edith Lindsey, resigned.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Today the Lakeview stock company will give the last two presentations of "A Social Outlaw" which in so short a time has proven quite popular. It is a play that is singularly lifelike and of engrossing interest, and those who have seen it are its most enthusiastic admirers.

Commencing Thursday, that is tomorrow, and continuing until Saturday, we will have that famous book play "St. Jim" on the boards again. When it was seen here two weeks ago, it played not only to the biggest houses of the season, but to one of the largest crowds in the history of the house and will be acted by the same company and every detail will be precisely as before and judging from the call for advance seats "St. Jim" will be as popular as it was previous to this engagement.

Next week theatrical interest will be stimulated by the coming of "Paid in Full," Eugene Walter's masterpiece of contemporaneous American drama, which comes to Lakeview direct from New York, this being its first engagement ever played at a summer park. It will be acted by a brilliant, splendid cast, so that every one of its tremendous entertaining qualities will be brought out to the full and to see this great play by a great cast is a treat that should not be missed by anyone.

THEATRE VOYONS

The story of "The Lady and the Burglar," the feature subject today at the Theatre Voyons is a most interesting and novel one and incidentally teaches two excellent lessons. The heroine is a society woman married to a great lecturer whose whole enjoyment seems to be study and the result is neglect on his part. A young man tries his best to convince her that she should elope with him but every step she remains true to her husband and discourages her admirer. At last the suitor plans one more appeal and goes to her home at night thinking her husband away. The same night a burglar breaks into the house and is in concealment when the admirer forces his way into the lady's presence. She tells him to leave and her husband hearing voices comes to her but instead of finding the suitor he finds the burglar with his wife, the suitor having escaped through a window. Earlier in the story the woman has befriended the burglar's child and he repays the kindness by preventing her husband from finding the young man with her. Two excellent comedies and a scenic subject add to the attractiveness of the bill.

PASSING OF THE SUMMER JESTERS

ABSENT TREATMENT.

Fibble—Hello, Jack! You're looking fine. What are you taking?
Fibble—Wife's taking it—her vacation, you know. Ha, ha!

FALLS FOR THE BIRD MEN.

Reporter (to aviator)—What is the best state in which to fly?
"Texas. She has 237 counties in which to fall."

NOT ALL ALIKE.

The Man—You have the sweetest blue eyes in the world, darling!
The Angel—Don't talk nonsense! You say that to every girl.
The Man—No, indeed, my pet! The last one had black eyes.

NOW'S THE TIME TO SUB—

"Here's a magazine article telling how to fall from a horse that stumbles."
"That's the sort of stuff that makes a monthly publication indispensable."

SOME PEOPLE'S VACATIONS.

Who are these men who have cooped themselves up in this stuffy little room on this hot summer evening?
Reader, they are overworked toilers from the great city, who have come down for a "breath of fresh country air."

SAVED HIS STRING.

Farmer—Hey, there, don't you see that sign, "No Fishing?"
City Chap—Yep, but look at the basket of beauties I caught. The man who put up that sign must be a chump.

SHE HAD THE IDEA.

Bridget—If you please, ma'am, the cat's had chickens.
Mistress—Nonsense, Bridget! You mean kittens. Cats don't have chickens.
Bridget—Was them chickens or kittens that master brought home last night?
Mistress—Chickens, of course!
Bridget—Well, ma'am, them's what the cat had.

ROPED IN.

Jack Overstroke (who is unwillingly giving Miss Olecrop a swimming lesson): "Now, don't be afraid. Just trust yourself to me and let me support you."
Miss Olecrop: "It's rather an unfair advantage to take in the water, but you may ask p-p-papa."

FILLING FOR THE VACUUM.

Mother (to policeman)—Shure, Dennis isn't a bad boy at all at all, but he's throubled now an' thin wid a rush of mind to the brain.

HOW MADAM SCORED.

They had had another quarrel. "I won't say marriage is a failure," he began, "for some"—he sneered cynically—"some are more fortunate in what they get than others."
"You are right, dear," she said. "You, for instance, got me, but I—got only you."

A BORN SOLDIER.

Client—You ought to have gone into the army, not the law.
Solicitor—Why?
Client—By the way you charge there would be little left of the enemy.

SURE THINGS.

Longshot—Do you consider horse-shoes an emblem of luck?
Placer—Yes, when they are on the winning horse.

TWO POINTS OF VIEW.

Wife—How people gaze at my new hat! I suppose they think I have been shopping in Paris.
Husband—More likely they wonder if I've been robbing a bank.

A PLAY VOYAGE TO EUROPE.

The country boy invites his sister to the creek on a promise to take her to the "other side." The "other side" was where the farmers were making hay.

A MEMENTO.

Sears: "Mountain sheep horns, Percy?"
Brimmer: "No, not exactly. It's a mustache I raised and wore when I was ranching in Nebraska a year or two ago."

A SHORE CHANGE.

Mr. Puttson Call: "My dear, before you go out let me introduce Mr. Margin to you—our head man downtown."
Miss Call: "I'm very much pleased to make your acquaintance, Mr. Margin. Papa has spoken so often of you. Let's go up on the beach."

Mr. Margin: "Why, certainly."

HAD THE FACTS.

Teacher—On which ends of the earth are the poles?
Jimmy—North and south.
"Correct. On which side are the most people?"
"On the outside."

ACCORDING TO ORDERS.

Stage Manager (to chorus girl)—You'll get snub nosed if you push that wash rag that way. Why don't you wash down?
"Didn't you tell us to wash up?"

WHERE IT FAILS.

"A strawberry queen down south is one who got a husband by writing her name on the box shipped by her pa."
"It wouldn't work if she wrote her name on the average shortcake."

DAMAGED IN TRANSIT.

"John, take this bouquet to Miss Winks and tell her to accept it as a feeble token of my affection."
John (delivering the gift)—Mr. Fluke sends this as a token of his feeble regards.

UNDERTOW AT SALVATION CREEK.

Parson Dipper: "Kindly remove dese oberashes, Mrs. Kink. I hez no objections agin yo' wearin' 'em, but I's 'feared dat de rotary resistance agin dis strong current would discomoboblate de carrymony!"

KEEPING COOL IN A DREAM.

Mr. Mogus (talking in his sleep): "Day ain't no res' fo' d' ole man. Heah I's gott'er go 'n' chap d' ice off'n d' sidewalk 'n' shuddle snow out'n d' basemen' steps."

A SUMMER RHAPSODY.

Looks warm, doesn't he?
He does, reader. He is warm. He is that graceful poet, Alarie Stillwater Mallows, writing a sizzling song for the Christmas number of a popular publication. At this moment he is trying to find a suitable rhyme for "icicle."

LEBLANC WON RACE

Thousands Stayed up All Night to See Finish of Contest

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Half of Paris forsook their beds last night and remained in the streets until morning to watch the conclusion of the great cross country aviation race which was won by Leblanc in a Blériot monoplane. Aubrun, also in a Blériot, took second prize, finishing a short twenty minutes behind the winner, although his total time in completing the course was somewhat longer.

Leblanc's flight from Amiens, some sixty miles, was made in the same superb style as the previous laps in the race. He left Amiens at 5:03 and descended at Issy in the suburbs of Paris one hour and 28 minutes later, making the total time for the 485 miles of the entire flight 11 hours, 55 minutes and 59 seconds, an average of nearly forty miles an hour as the crowd flies, without making any allowance for detours or for the time spent in battling with the storm in the night from Mezières to Douai last Friday.

Aubrun, whose time from Amiens was one hour and 51 minutes, completed the circuit in 13 hours, 27 minutes and 14 seconds. None of the other competitors completed the entire course though Legagneux, who was forced to retire in the early stages of the race finished with Leblanc and Aubrun.

There was a moment of tumultuous cheering as Leblanc appeared above Issy in the early dawn and from the height of nearly a quarter of a mile planned down toward the earth and swooped across the line like a giant hawk alighting with the ease and grace of a big bird. The authorities in anticipation of the excitement of the enormous crowds had cordoned the nighting place at Issy with hundreds of police, backed by a regiment of stal-

FIGHT IS PROMISED

Roosevelt to Urge a Progressive Candidate and Platform

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—There was marked calm today over the troubled waters of the republican political seas following the storm yesterday when the "Old Guard" in the republican state committee voted down Theodore Roosevelt's name for temporary chairman of the coming state convention. No one was prepared to say how things would shape themselves in the day's preliminary to the state convention where the delegates, after all, will finally determine who shall be the temporary presiding officer.

New York County Chairman Griscom, who presented Col. Roosevelt's name to the committee, says the fight will be carried to the primaries and to the convention. State Chairman Woodruff blamed Griscom for all the present trouble. It is reported, saying that Griscom should not have brought Col. Roosevelt's name in the matter.

Meanwhile, the state committeemen who voted for Col. Roosevelt are asking today what made the colonel laugh so loudly when he talked with Mr. Griscom after the committee meeting yesterday.

That Col. Roosevelt intends as a delegate to the state convention from Nassau county to urge a progressive platform and candidate for governor is clearly indicated, politicians say this morning in that portion of the colonel's statement issued last night which says that a speech by him "would be of such character that it might help if the convention nominated the right kind of men on a clean cut, progressive platform, but that it would hurt if neither the right kind of man were nominated nor the right kind of a platform adopted."

MEN OF THE FLEET

Were Royally Entertained by Newport People Today

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—Through a lane of American flags more than 2000 enlisted men of the Atlantic battleship fleet marched for a mile and a half today as the guests of the citizens of Newport and at the end of the march they were served with one of the clamorous, launches, longboats, gigs and dinnies—all laden, almost to the water's edge with men—began pulling off from the ships at 10:30 and half an hour later all of the men had been landed at the various wharves along the waterfront in the rear of Thames street and thence by way of Broadway to the circus grounds where the barge was served.

Nearly every building along the route was decorated in bunting and the marchers passed through an unbroken line of American flags.

At the circus grounds the detail from each ship was assigned to a separate dining tent. As the head of the line reached the grounds the bands were missed and the men marched to their dining tents singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

The barge was one of the biggest barges ever employed in this city, a corps of 250 enlisted men and waiters being required to serve it. Besides the champagne and the "fishy" of dressing, fish, potatoes, green corn, lobsters and fritters, the men were provided with assorted fruits, tea, cream, cigars and water. Each man was given a souvenir menu on which were found the words of a popular among the sailors and during the dinner the songs of the men proved a feature that attracted thousands of residents to the vicin-

BOUT HELD UP

Kaufman and Lang Did Not Meet

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Three thousand fight fans who had assembled at the Fairmont C. here to see Al Kaufman and Bill Lang, the big Australian, box 10 rounds last night, were disappointed, as the club management announced that the bout was off.

John Purroy Mitchell, the young president of the board of aldermen, who is acting as mayor during Mayor Gaynor's illness, had notified the club that he would not permit the bout to be held. The police had surrounded the place, and although four preliminaries were held unopposed, the orders from the acting mayor were so strict that the main contest was abandoned.

Kaufman was already, stripped for battle and was in the ring when the announcement was made. Lang stood near him, garbed in a bathrobe. Notwithstanding this disappointment, the big crowd was good-natured, and while there were a few hoots, every one fled out in an orderly manner. Announcement was made that all money paid for seats would be refunded.

Spectators had come from Philadelphia, Boston and Baltimore to see the bout, and in the crowd were seen the faces of Jim Corbett, Kid McCoy, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and Charley White.

Hugh McIntosh, the Australian promoter, who was on hand, said that in all probability Lang and Kaufman would be matched to fight six rounds at the American-league park in Philadelphia two weeks hence.

Acting Mayor Mitchell did not notify the police of his intention in advance, but instead paid $1 for a room opposite the club entrance and ensconced himself there to observe developments. Inspector Hussey learned of his presence called on him, and promptly summoned the reserve three hundred.

After they appeared nobody was allowed to enter the club, and word was sent in that the bout must be called off.

LOWELL HUSTLER

Ralph Wilson Wins Success in Montana

Ralph Wilson, son of Wesley A. Wilson of the police department, is visiting his parents after an absence of three years in the mining district of Montana. Ralph is a graduate of the Lowell high school, and after graduating took a course in mining engineering at the Lowell Textile school. He then went to Montana and entered the employ of the Consolidated Coal and Coke Mining Co. Starting at the bottom of the ladder, and by giving close attention to the business of the company he advanced rapidly and now occupies the position of assistant superintendent of the mines.

He has been given a leave of absence for a few weeks, and will return to Montana in October. Mr. Wilson states that the western country is a great place for the young man who is willing to hustle and is not afraid of work. Judging from some of the stories he tells, Montana must be an interesting place to live. We should also judge that it would be the last place in the world for a dude or a loafer. The hustler has many chances to make money in the mines.

EVERETT CHILD

Declared to be America's Prettiest

EVERETT, Aug. 17.—Millicent Agathe Gowen, the 8 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gowen of 148 Main street, is pronounced by artists and sculptors from various parts of the country to be "the prettiest child in America."

Her photograph won first prize at the recent photographic convention and attracted attention in art circles for her beauty and symmetrical physique.

She has been photographed and posed for artists hundreds of times since her first picture attracted the notice of a traveling salesman. He suggested to his firm that her picture be used with a baking powder ad, as an "eye-catcher." She was then 3 years old.

One of her striking characteristics is her ability to control her eyes and her facial expression when posing before the camera or for artists or sculptors. She has a particularly sunny disposition.

Millicent resembles her mother, who is of English birth, both in her clear blue eyes and fair hair and pinkish white complexion, while her beauty of face and figure was being related, quite unconsciously of the attention she has attracted, and munched a big red apple, smiling sweetly at the reporter between bites.

The child has a brother 5 years old, who has handsome brown eyes and a well shaped head and body. The girl is attending the public schools and is in the fourth grade, being exceptionally bright. As a reader she excels all children in the vicinity. She is a graceful dancer.

In unaffected manner the girl plays with her schoolmates like any other normal child of her age. Her family doctor and other medical men who have examined her pronounce her the ideal of a beautiful and healthy child.

Artists tell her mother that the love-liness of Millicent rivals that of little Millicent Anne Dwyer, who many say is the prettiest child in Europe. Millicent's photographs show all the moods from grave to gay, her eyes in some views having the witchery of a little flirt; in others all the sorrows of a Madonna are expressed; in still others the carefree expression of childhood.

She has passed as long as four hours at a time during the past year in studios for pictures in every sort of position. The intention of Mr. Gowen and his wife to give the little girl a good education in the hope that her good looks may be matched by her intellectual powers.

Her mother, Mrs. Rosa Gowen, is an artist and many water colors, oil paintings and hand painted china pieces she has done adorn her home. She has painted Millicent several times. Before marriage Mrs. Gowen taught painting in this city.

Work on Massachusetts Storehouse Progressing Rapidly

Have you stopped to make even a quick eye survey of the mammoth concrete warehouse that is being erected in Bridge-street by the Massachusetts mill?

It is well worth one's while to look it over. A great deal is obstructed from view by the high board fence that fronts it in Bridge-street, but enough is exposed to make one almost marvel at the undertaking. There are so many parts and with the maze of steel rods, girders and scumpling of various dimensions one wonders how the builders can find head or tail to what they are doing. But it's a case of a place for every man, every man in his proper place, and knowing what to do.

The Aberthaw Construction Co. of Boston is building the warehouse and in reply to a question by a reporter for The Sun, one of the bosses this afternoon said: "We are getting it pretty well underway."

The building will rest on concrete

CHAUFFEUR ARRESTED

Who Killed Two Men While Intoxicated

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 17.—Napoleon Abel of Woonsocket was held responsible for the death of James Mullarkey, who with James O'Rourke was run down and killed by Abel and a companion in an auto July 18 by Coroner Lincoln in his report filed with the superior court today. The decision is the result of an inquest of seven days. Coroner Lincoln states that Mullarkey came to his death by being struck and knocked down by a swiftly moving automobile on the night of July 18 driven by Abel while under the influence of liquor. Both men were found lying by the roadside the following morning. O'Rourke dead and Mullarkey fatally injured.

After the fact that Abel's auto was the one which ran the men down was known, Abel went to Canada but returned a short time ago and was arrested. Harry Flynn, who was with Abel in the auto at the time, was also arrested and is awaiting trial.

Alleged Swindle Covered Period of Ten Years

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Hovering between life and death, in the throes of typhoid fever, Adolph Gabriel lay last night in his luxuriously furnished apartment at 3 West 122nd street unconscious of the fact that his life secret, an alleged swindle covering a period of ten years, had been detected.

The firm for which he had been a trusted confidential employe for nearly a decade had discovered that through a system of writing checks for larger sums than the check book stubs indicated he had taken at least $36,700 of their money, according to the charges made, and his former employers had attached his bank accounts, his private safe, the contents of which no one but the unconscious man knows, and a check for $7462, which Gabriel had entrusted to a lifelong friend in the first days of his present illness.

Last night two trained nurses were battling against terrible odds to save him, and a typhoid specialist was in almost constant attendance. His mother-in-law, who has managed his establishment since the death of his wife, a year ago, wandered tearfully through the large apartment with at least the comforting thought that her son-in-law's accusers had been too merciful to ask for a warrant for the possibly dying man.

MURDER INQUEST

Judge Pickman Finds Gianakos Guilty of Homicide

Judge John J. Pickman, who presided over the inquest held to determine who was responsible for the death of Aristides Georgopoulos, who it is alleged was shot and fatally wounded by George Gianakos in Suffolk street, near Ford street, on the night of July 30, submitted his report today. Judge Pickman finds that Gianakos shot Georgopoulos and that Gianakos had not such reasonable ground to apprehend a personal attack on him as to warrant the use of a revolver or any other weapon and that there was no lawful justification for such use by him, neither was there any excuse for the homicide committed by Gianakos.

The report is as follows:

On Saturday, July 30 last, past, about 8.30 o'clock in the evening Aristides Georgopoulos, with several companions, went into a bar room on Merrimack street, in the city of Lowell, where he drank two glasses of beer. Soon after, with one or two of his companions, he went to Suffolk street, and there he met George Gianakos walking with a friend, Peter Theodorakis. Georgopoulos asked Gianakos if he had not said something, repeating it, that reflected on the good name of his sister. Gianakos made a reply that led Georgopoulos to say, "I have a witness to it and I will call him." He called to one Couranji, who was standing on the other side of the street, to come over to him, and he did so. The testimony at the inquest as to what took place between Georgopoulos and Gianakos after the inquiry referred to was made to Gianakos is somewhat conflicting. It is certain that both were in temper, and that each had hold of the other, "holding each other by the coat," and were speaking in an animated way to each other. It is not clear the blows were struck, but they, or persons in the group, or both, were "moving their hands" toward each other in a hostile way. When Couranji, who had been called as a witness, as stated, went near Georgopoulos, Gianakos pulled a revolver from his pocket and discharged it at Georgopoulos, the bullet entering his body, thereupon Gianakos ran away, dropping the revolver as he ran, or throwing it away, and Georgopoulos was taken to a drug store, and from thence to the Lowell hospital, where he died from the effects of his wound on the morning of July 31, the day after the shooting.

Said Gianakos was arrested in a house in Elm street, at which some of his countrymen lived. There was testimony tending to show that ill feeling existed between Gianakos and Georgopoulos, and their families for some weeks prior to the date of the shooting, and there was some testimony that Gianakos had made threats against Georgopoulos to which I do not attach much importance.

I find that the said Gianakos had not such reasonable ground to apprehend a personal attack upon him as to warrant the use of a revolver or any other weapon, and that there was no lawful justification for such use by him.

I find that on Saturday, July 30, last, that Aristides Georgopoulos was wounded in the body with a bullet that was discharged from a revolver held in the hand of George Gianakos, that said Aristides Georgopoulos with the intent to kill him; that said Aristides Georgopoulos died from the effects of the injury received by him as aforesaid; that there is no lawful justification or excuse for the homicide committed by said George Gianakos.

John J. Pickman, Special Justice of the Police Court and acting.

The Machine Made Trip Down an Historic Hill

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—An automobile made the descent today on the hill made famous by the ride of Gen. Israel Putnam during the Revolutionary war. "Old Put" rode down it 131 years ago to escape the British. Yesterday James Humphreys, son of the millionaire patent medicine man of this city, and a friend went down in a big touring car because they were both asleep.

The hill that has been famous since "Old Put" sent his horse down it is near Greenwich, Conn. It is known as Put's hill, and there is a good, broad auto road down it. It is not so steep as it was when the general took a chance. But it is still a good hill. The stone steps that lent a great charm to the Putnam story in the fourth reader have disappeared, but the hill is there, and the autoist takes it slowly.

Mr. Humphreys and a friend had motored from Boston and were near Greenwich yesterday. The friend had gone to sleep. The road stretched in front of Humphreys at the wheel. The machine sung along at a fair easygoing clip and for the instant the man at the wheel dozed away.

The little nap came to the brow of the hill at about the point where "Old Put" decided it was up to him to be captured or do the trick that helped to make him a hero.

The men in the machine don't know just what happened. The head of the man at the wheel fell over upon the shoulder of the other. Persons looked and saw a big touring car on a down grade with men asleep in it. There was only time to look and the machine shot past.

It went down the hill as straight as though it were being steered, until it gathered speed near the bottom. Then it swerved just a bit to the side and crashed into a telegraph pole. The pole snapped off six feet from the ground and the top of it fell, narrowly missing the two men.

In spite of the heavy impact the two men were not thrown from the machine. Humphreys, while congratulating himself on his escape, admitted he was asleep. His friend, he said, went to sleep a long time before.

LOCAL ARCHITECT
Engaged by B. and E. Interurban Railroad

The directors of the recently organized Boston & Eastern Interurban hold a meeting in Boston Monday, and Harry Prescott Graves, the local architect, who has been appointed consulting architect, was present at the meeting and discussed plans for the stations and buildings which are to be erected along the line between Boston and Beverly.

The Boston & Eastern which recently acquired a franchise will start immediately to carry out the plans which are now nearly formulated. One of the terminals will be at Boston and the other at Beverly and the trains are to be run at the rate of 60 miles per hour, stopping at Chelsea, Revere beach, Lynn, Salem and Beverly and it is also understood that there is to be a branch going to Danvers.

Before the road begins operations it will be necessary to tunnel under Boston harbor.

JOHN GOLDEN
PRESIDENT OF UNITED TEXTILE WORKERS AT LAWRENCE

Members of labor unions and others in this city will be interested to know that John Golden, former president of the National Mule Spinners' association, but now general president of the United Textile Workers, is expected to arrive in Lawrence today. He will be met at the station by the Mule Spinners' committee and others of his friends of long ago.

There will be a series of meetings of the Women's Trade Union league for the purpose of awakening more interest among the women textile workers. Mr. Golden will speak at these meetings on subjects of interest to all textile workers.

Mr. Golden will be quartered at the Franklin House during his stay in Lawrence.

PASSED AWAY
JAMES McMAHON, A POPULAR MOTORMAN IS DEAD

James L. McMahon, a well known and popular employe of the Boston & Northern, died this afternoon at his home, 1461 Middlesex street, after one week's illness. He was 34 years of age and had been in the employ of the road for 16 years. He was formerly a motorman, but recently was employed at the power house. He is survived by a wife and eight children, a father, one brother and three sisters.

SIXTH PANEL
OF CHICAGO JURORS ADMITS BEING APPROACHED

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—When the sixth panel of jurors called in the case of Leo O'Neil Browne reported today, nearly all of them, as was the case with the fifth panel yesterday, admitted that they had been approached with reference to their possible service as jurors. Judge Kuntze called counsel for Browne into his chambers for consultation.

WOMEN ANNOYED

Newton Terrorizer given Five Months

NEWTON, Aug. 17.—With the arrest of Albert E. Conant of 61 Union street, Watertown, who was yesterday morning sentenced by Judge Kennedy of the Newton police court to five months in the house of correction for assault and battery and fined $20 for disorderly conduct, the police are of the opinion that they have put an end to the annoying of women in the Mt. Ida section of this city.

Conant was arrested for following women in that district. For several weeks complaints have been made by women, mainly servant girls, that a man had been following them about the streets after dark.

The man was so bold that he walked up to several of the women and spoke to them and took them by the arm. He became so persistent in his actions that the girls and women of the Mt. Ida section were in a state of constant fear when they were on the street after dusk.

Miss Hilda Peterson, who is a domestic at a residence on Bellevue street, was stopped on a dark portion of the street by the man. He seized her arms and attempted to throw her to the ground. The girl struggled with all her strength and screamed. Her assailant became alarmed and took to his heels.

Plain clothes men were stationed in the vicinity and Conant was captured as he was descending a woman. At station 3 he was placed in a line of men and Miss Peterson was called in to identify him. She picked him out at once as the man she claims assaulted her.

Conant, who is 28 years of age and married, pleaded guilty to the charge of disorderly conduct, but denied his guilt on the assault and battery charge. He appealed both sentences and was held in $400 bonds on each charge.

STRIKE AT SALEM

Situation Unchanged Today With 500 Out

SALEM, Aug. 17.—So far as Salem is concerned the situation in the shoe strike declared yesterday was unchanged at noon today. About 500 men and women were out and at strike headquarters the union officials expressed perfect satisfaction with the progress of the strike. The factories are still operating. There has been no violence. One of the important developments today was the visit of a committee representing organized labor from several of the shoe factories in the adjoining city of Beverly. The committee consisted of Charles H. Stanton, representing the United Shoe Workers of America, and Michael Meagher, representing the Knights of Labor. It had been anticipated that a strike would be declared in Beverly because of the alleged hostility on the part of the Beverly manufacturers to the unions.

The first Beverly shop visited was that of J. P. Baker & Co. and it was announced that there would be no strike there.

The committee after visiting four or five other factories in Beverly said that no strike would be called in that city before tonight's meeting of the unions. A special meeting of the striking Salem operatives has been called for three o'clock this afternoon at which time action was to be taken on the proposal to make a demonstration in front of the six local factories against which the strike has been declared.

NEW SCENIC THEATRE

Beautiful Building May Open on Labor Day

The new Scenic theatre in Paige street which is now under the course of construction bids fair to be one of the best and most up to date theatres of its size in this section of the country. The work is being pushed ahead as rapidly as is possible and the lessees, Messrs. Jennings and Bradstreet, are in hopes that they will be able to open on Labor day, but it is rather doubtful if the theatre will be ready for occupancy at that time.

George D. White, who owns the property bounded by Bridge, Paige, French and George streets, is sparing no expense to make the theatre an ideal one and he is profiting by the experience of other theatre builders and Harry Prescott Graves, the local architect, who is considered one of the best theatre architects in this section of the country.

The theatre when completed will be as near fireproof as possible; there are plenty of wide exits from the orchestra and balcony, while the pitch of the orchestra and balcony floors is such that the stage can be easily seen from every seat in the house.

At the present time the plasterers are putting the finishing touches on the interior of the building and the carpenters are busily engaged in finishing the stage, the balcony and placing the flooring in the orchestra.

The main entrance is in Paige street which leads into a spacious foyer. The orchestra seats are on the street floor, while a wide stairway leads from the foyer to the balcony. After mounting the stairway there are two inclines and two short flights of stairs which lead to either side of the balcony.

The ground floor is built saucer shape as is the balcony and a clear, unobstructed view can be seen from any seat in the house. The capacity of the house will be about 1600 seats.

Numerous Exits
One of the features of the new theatre is the numerous exits and the architect in conversation with a representative of The Sun this afternoon stated that the theatre could be emptied in one and one-half minutes if necessary. Besides the main entrance, which can be used as an exit, there are two large exits on either side of the orchestra floor. In the gallery there is the main entrance, which can also be used as an exit, and two from the balcony which lead into French street. The exits from the gallery into the street are a new departure in theatre construction and with these numerous avenues of escape it will not be necessary to equip the building with unsightly fire escapes.

The front of the stage between the supports of the proscenium is 33 feet wide, while from the floor to the proscenium is 35 feet. The stage itself is 56 feet wide, 30 feet deep and the grid-iron where the scenes are shifted is over 60 feet above the stage.

All of the dressing rooms are under the stage, while the ladies' room is in the rear of the orchestra and the men's smoking room in the basement.

There are four boxes in the theatre, two on the orchestra floor and two in the balcony with a seating capacity of 100 persons.

Picture Booth Outside Theatre
Another innovation is the placing of the moving picture booth on the outside of the theatre, the pictures being thrown on the curtain through an opening in the rear wall of the theatre. This will obliterate the noise which can be heard when a moving picture machine is in operation in a theatre and also gives the people seated in the balcony a clear and unobstructed view of the pictures. It also minimizes the danger in case of the machine exploding or catching fire.

Messrs. Jennings and Bradstreet, the lessees, are the owners of a chain of theatres throughout New England. Their biggest house being the Scenic theatre in Boston. The policy of the management is to give moving pictures, vaudeville and one-act theatrical productions by a permanent stock company. The performance will be continuous from one o'clock in the afternoon till 10.30 at night.

F. J. Carroll, who is well known in the theatrical world, is to be the resident manager and if Mr. Carroll's past experience and success is to be taken as a criterion the new Scenic theatre will be a success under Mr. Carroll's supervision.

He has had charge of theatres in Bangor, Me., Albany, N. Y., Newark and Elizabeth, N. J., the latter place being his home.

Harry Prescott Graves is the architect and has general supervision of the construction. C. G. and J. B. Varum are the general contractors, the electrical work is being done by L. A. Derby & Co., heating by the "H. R. Barker Co., cornice work and ventilators by Carroll Bros.

The interior of the theatre is to be decorated in an artistic manner by Peter Holdensen, the well known theatrical decorator whose handiwork is in evidence in many playhouses in this part of the country.

SHERMAN AT BEVERLY

Vice-President a Visitor at the Summer Capital

BEVERLY, Aug. 17.—Vice President Sherman arrived in Beverly this morning and proceeded at once to the executive offices where he had a long conference with Secretary Norton prior to going to Burgess Point to spend the afternoon with the president. The selection of Mr. Sherman as temporary chairman of the New York republican committee and the defeat of Col. Theodore Roosevelt lent an added interest to the vice president's visit today. Mr. Sherman, however, would not discuss the New York situation in any way. He indicated that there might be something to talk about after his interview with President Taft, but he doubted it. Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio will be present at the conference between the president and vice president this afternoon. It is rather significant that Mr. Longworth has been called into a number of conferences lately, both with the president and Secretary Norton.

It has been announced in connection with Mr. Sherman's visit that he was coming to talk over plans for the coming congressional campaign. The events in New York yesterday may put a different aspect on the conference. It is known that President Taft has been hoping against hope that harmony could be brought about in New York prior to convention time. The action of the state committee in voting down Col. Roosevelt and the statement issued by the colonel, indicating that it might be just as well for some members of the party that he was not to make the speech he had in mind, indicate that there is every prospect of a widened breach rather than an adjustment of party differences.

Rep. Loudenslager of New Jersey was to have come to Beverly today but was held in New York by illness. Rep. Moorehead of North Carolina arrived shortly after Mr. Sherman had motored down from Boston.

News from the California primaries of yesterday was awaited with great interest in Beverly today. No comment was forthcoming, however, when word was received that Hiram Johnson, insurgent, had carried the state for the republican nomination for governor by approximately fifty thousand plurality.

Colonel Nelson of Kansas City, who in an interview here a few days ago asserted that if Colonel Roosevelt would run for president again he would sweep the country, motored through town today.

ROOSEVELT IS SILENT
OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Ex-President Roosevelt refused this morning to add anything to his statement of yesterday relative to the refusal of the republican state committee to recommend him for the temporary chairmanship at the Saratoga state convention. He was not willing to say whether he would take any steps to lead the progressives, with whom he virtually enrolled himself yesterday, in their fight to obtain control of the state convention.

The impression here is that Colonel Roosevelt will make a more vigorous fight than ever for a platform which will meet his views.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Declines to Discuss the Defeat of Col. Roosevelt

BEVERLY, Aug. 17.—Beverly was completely upset last night when news came from New York of the defeat of Col. Roosevelt for temporary chairman of the New York republican state convention. The fact that Lloyd C. Griscom, chairman of the New York county committee, had been in conference with President Taft as late as Saturday night and Sunday added to the sensation that the dispatches created.

Secretary Norton carried the news to the president shortly before the dinner hour. Mr. Taft made no comment for publication. There is nothing here to indicate that he knew of Mr. Griscom's plan to force a vote on Mr. Roosevelt's name.

So far as can be learned Mr. Griscom's talk with the president had to do solely with the general situation in New York state, and Mr. Taft took the ground that harmony ought to be brought about if possible before the Saratoga convention. The story that Mr. Griscom took a message to Col. Roosevelt which would affect the future relations between Mr. Roosevelt and the president is discredited in Beverly. Mr. Taft has assumed the attitude that any overtures, if they be necessary, must come "from the other side."

The statement issued by Col. Roosevelt last night, apparently placing himself squarely on the side of the "progressives" has created much comment here. What effect yesterday's developments in New York may have upon the reorganization plans that have been in progress here must, of course, for a time remain a matter of conjecture. So far as can be learned there is a disposition here to "stand pat" on the plans as announced.

The publicity that has been given to these plans may retard them for a while, but there is apparently plenty of confidence here that they ultimately will go through.

Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, the central figure in the reorganization plans, was here late yesterday afternoon and spent two hours with the president. The senator was the recipient as ever. He would not talk about his mission in the west, nor would he discuss in any way his visit to the president.

It is said that Senator Crane was selected for the work he has in hand because of his habit of reticence. The president warned him yesterday not "to be so glib with the reporters," and the senator, appreciating the joke, was a little more silent than ever. Some of the senator's questioners suggested to him last night that he might deny some of the stories that have been sent out of Beverly during the past week. This Mr. Crane modestly declined to do. He was interrogated from every possible angle, but warded off every question.

Secretary Norton, who, it is generally believed, has been working in close harmony with Senator Crane, was equally reticent last night. He said with a smile that he could "add nothing to what Senator Crane had said."

It is known, however, that Senator Crane submitted a complete verbal report to the president of his observations in the west and what he had learned more recently in New Hampshire and Vermont. The senator has been on an auto trip through the two latter states and it was uncertain yesterday whether he would reach Beverly or not. If President Taft was in ignorance of what Senator Crane has been doing he undoubtedly learned of his activities yesterday.

In this connection, and with regard to no reports that the reorganization plans might go on the rocks because of the refusal of Secretary Ballinger to resign, it is stated that when Senator Crane was first called into the situation it was on a telegram asking if he could undertake a mission to the west "for the president." This mission to the west turned out to be a conference with Secretary Ballinger regarding a plan for his retirement from the cabinet. It is known that heavy pressure will be brought to bear upon Mr. Ballinger to resign without putting the president in the position of asking for that resignation.

The 15th of September will tell the story and no one apparently in the meantime can tell just what the outcome will be.

KING AND QUEEN OF ITALY GO TO SEE FATHER OF LATTER CROWNED AT MONTENEGRO

ROME, Aug. 17.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helene of Italy have started for the little principality of Montenegro, which is soon to become the kingdom of Zeta, with the father of Queen Helene, Prince Nicholas I., as king. Advice from the Swiss frontier that anarchists have gathered to assassinate the royal party, have caused extraordinary police precautions to be taken, but the Swiss authorities declare that the gathering of anarchists has nothing to do with a plot to slay the king. When the king and queen of Italy arrive in Montenegro the actual change from dependency to kingdom will have taken place, but for several days following their arrival there will be elaborate festivities in court circles. It is said that King Nicholas plans to make his court as exclusive and stately as that at Vienna.

"Dr. Kelly," and reached a crisis when Swan Dahlberg, another member of the panel, said he had been "seen" by some agent. Dahlberg declared this agent told him, after questioning him as to his belief in the guilt or innocence of Browne, that he need not answer the subpoena. He acted on this advice, and in consequence was brought before the judge yesterday to explain why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court. Then he told his story.

Judge Kersten leaned over his desk and said solemnly: "The court wants to know if this is going to be a fair trial or a travesty on justice. The situation has reached a point where an investigation is necessary. I don't want to blame either the state or the defense, but someone is doing crooked work. When a juror is subpoenaed no one has a right to talk to him. As it is, probably every man on the jury has been approached."

At this point Attorney O'Donnell made his accusation against some "third party." Then Mr. Wayman jumped to his feet and said: "I can prove that the defense has been systematically pulling on all ventiremen. Man after man has been excused from service on this jury and has been taken to my office, where they told me they had been approached directly or through members of their various households."

One ventireman, whose name was not disclosed, caused further excitement after the panel had been taken to Mr. Wayman's office. An official said later that the ventireman had been asked by "an agent" to stick it out for Browne "till hell freezes over."

A sixth panel, which was ordered to report today, will be questioned if it is found that investigators have been talking to them. This panel will be dismissed also.

The first trial of Browne for the alleged bribing of White resulted in a disagreement. The work of selecting a new jury began three weeks ago, but progress has been slow because most of the ventiremen had formed opinions.

Chief Hosmer was present at the meeting and the first business to be considered had to do with the sending of the auto fire patrol out of town.

Chairman Adams said he had received complaints from numerous business men and representative citizens during the past few weeks about the fire department sending the auto fire patrol out of town and the committee has a unit in declaring that it weakened the department. Chief Hosmer agreed with the committee and said if the committee would vote to instruct him not to send the patrol out of town that he would abide by the instructions of the committee. It was so voted.

Alderman Adams next called the attention of the committee and the chief to the alleged poor working of the tape system in announcing the box numbers at the Warren street house. It was claimed by the chairman and some of the other members, more especially Councilman Killpatrick, that the tape system had, up to date, proved a failure and should be replaced by the indicator system, which was in use previous to the tape.

Chief Hosmer stated that the tape was the proper thing and should be continued. Councilman Killpatrick did not agree with him.

No formal action was taken in the matter. The lack of a fire box in the upper end of Princeton street and at the junction of Dracut street and Fourth avenue, was discussed at some length. The matter of placing combination auto trucks at the High street and Branch street houses and the purchase of an auto for the chief's use, was discussed. Chief Hosmer said that it would take something like $13,000 to buy the three pieces of apparatus proposed.

Councilman Killpatrick stated that the people of the Oakland district were desirous of having a new house built in their section, but he, as well as the other members of the committee, believed the placing of an auto truck at the High street house would afford sufficient fire protection for that section.

On motion of Councilman Tracey it was voted to take a view on next Thursday afternoon of the proposed new location of fire alarm boxes and incidentally look over the Oakland section for a site for a fire house. Also to look over the central fire station to consider the need of a new boiler there.

BRIBERY CASE

Alleged That the Veniremen Were "Approached"

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Declaring that nearly all the veniremen had been "approached" in connection with the retrial of Lee O'Neil Browne, Judge Kersten yesterday dismissed a panel of 72, who had been subpoenaed for the section of a jury.

This action came after several days' endeavor to get a jury to try Browne, the democratic minority leader of the Illinois legislature, on a charge of giving Representative Charles A. White a bribe to vote for William Lorimer for U. S. senator.

Judge Kersten pronounced the situation "deplorable."

The veniremen were immediately taken to the office of State Attorney Wayman, where Judge Kersten asked each man by name if he had been called on by anyone in connection with his possible services as a juror. Nearly all answered in the affirmative. They were instructed to report in court today for further investigation.

Mr. Wayman made the assertion in court that he could prove by a detective employed by the defense that the latter had systematically sought out every prospective venireman, either personally or through members of his family.

P. H. O'Donnell of counsel for Browne, asserted that the veniremen had been "seen" by agents of a third interest, neither defense nor prosecution, but someone interested for political reasons in the downfall of Browne. This phase of the case began to develop in the forenoon, when Emile Wonneberg, a venireman, stated that he had been called into the office of a

Made Attack on the Strikebreakers

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 17.—An ugly crowd of some hundred or more laborers on strike in this city threatened harm to a number of strikebreakers who went to work in the Sharpe mill this morning. Chief of Police Mason and a number of patrolmen were hurried to the scene of disorder and dispersed the strikers. Strikebreakers were stoned and dragged from their work by the strikers.

The strikers made an attack upon the donkey engine which had been fired up for the first time since the strike began and sent a veritable hail of rocks at the machine. They did but little damage and any attempt to draw the fire from under the boiler was frustrated by one husky Italian laborer who stood guard at the door with a coal shovel and a long poker and dared any striker to come near him.

The strikers before the arrival of the police detail in the auto took half a dozen men who were at work and by main strength pulled them off the job and, forming a cordon around them, kept them in the ranks of the strikers. Chief of Police Mason personally directed the city's forces today, lowering the city in a machine and visiting every place where danger threatened. He personally went into several scrap himself and in addition to directing his officers did a bit of personal physical work when he thought occasion demanded. The city is so stretched out and the various jobs which have been struck so isolated that it makes the work of the police all the more difficult and upon several occasions in addition to this they have found the strikers composed almost exclusively of head-headed foreigners looking for fight and extremely slow about obeying any orders from the officers.

At the Sharpe mill the men who de-began and sent a veritable hail of rocks at the machine. They did but little damage and any attempt to draw the fire from under the boiler was frustrated by one husky Italian laborer who stood guard at the door with a DEAL, England, Aug. 17.—In an aeroplane voyage from Paris to London, which since the crossing of the English channel by Bleriot and others has been the great aim of the birdmen, Moissant, the young Spanish aviator, descended near here today, having accomplished the flight from Paris to Calais and the journey across the channel to Deal with an ease and brilliancy rarely surpassed. He is now preparing to continue the trip to London, the completion of which will bring him the cup and prize offered by a London newspaper for the course and the proceeds of the subscription raised in England for Graham E. White, which the unsuccessful competitor in the London-Manchester flight generously offered as a prize for the Paris to London competition.

Hubert Latham, who started from Issy, a suburb of Paris, to race Moissant to London, had a series of unfortunate accidents, the last at Amiens, culminating in the total wrecking of his machine as he was preparing to resume the flight. Latham escaped unhurt but is out of the contest.

The last stage of Moissant's flight, the trip across the channel, was accomplished in a strong channel breeze, the wind being so high that experienced aviators looked upon the start as foolhardy. It was such a wind that repeatedly deterred Latham, Bleriot and other aviators from attempting the passage of the straits and correspondents, who had witnessed the earlier attempts to cross the channel, confidently wired their papers that Moissant would not start before evening when the wind was expected to fall. Nevertheless as soon as he could arrange for a French torpedo boat to follow him across the channel Moissant launched his aeroplane from the cliffs near Calais at 10.45 this morning and started for the English shore. The breeze was still strong and the monoplane, which like other Bleriot machines appears to spectators less steady in the air than the more stable and heavier biplanes, pitched and rolled so dangerously that spectators believed it in imminent danger. Moissant, however, who is the youngest of the aviators, managed his machine with the greatest skill and as the Bleriot with its guide passed out of the zone of greatest danger near the shore seemed to steady his machine, and as she passed out of sight, of Calais was, according to reports, flying well at an altitude of about 500 feet. He was expected to land at Dover, but was driven a few miles north and made the coast near Deal, passing over Walmer castle and the marine barracks at 11.15. He was unable to continue the journey to London, so numbered was he by the cold during the crossing from Calais, and landed near Tilmanstone, a short distance from Deal. The trip from Calais to Tilmanstone occupied approximately 37 minutes.

John Moissant, who by his achievement today will take rank with Bleriot, Farman, Latham and other celebrated flyers, is a young Spaniard, almost at the beginning of his career in aviation. After four trial flights August 7 he flew with his mechanician as a passenger from Bimpepe to Issy, fifty miles, at an elevation of 3000 feet, arriving at the competitors in the cross country race were starting from Issy. Yesterday he reached Amiens and at 5.08 this morning he ascended and headed for Calais, still carrying his mechanician as a passenger, and descended at Calais at 7.15.

Latham rushed repairs this morning to outstrip Moissant and started but the aeroplane touched a tree, one wing collapsed and the machine turned turtle.

PRESIDENT MONTT

The Head of the Chilean Government is Dead

BREMEN, Aug. 17.—President Pedro Montt, of Chile, who arrived from New York on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse yesterday morning, died suddenly here at 11.50 last night. Death was due to a recurrence of heart failure following the recent attack of angina pectoris from which he suffered.

Mrs. Montt, his private physician, who had accompanied him, and a personal attendant, were at his bedside. President Montt sailed from New York last Tuesday, and was a fellow passenger on the same steamship with Mayor Gaynor, of New York. He had met and talked with the mayor but a few minutes before the latter was shot and removed from the ship. He was deeply shocked by the attempt at assassination, and expressed great pleasure when wireless bulletins gave hope that Mayor Gaynor would recover.

The Chilean chief executive came aboard in the hope that he would completely recover his health. He sailed from Valparaiso on the cruiser Esmeralda to Panama, and from there took a Royal Mail steamship for New York. He arrived in the latter city in improved health and paid a visit to President Taft at Beverly, where friendly greetings were exchanged between the chief executive of the North and South American Republics.

On his arrival at Bremen this morning President Montt appeared to have gained strength on the journey, but decided to rest here for a day or two before resuming his journey. Late last night there was a sudden recurrence of heart failure, and he failed to rally under stimulants and died shortly before midnight. The body will be returned to Chile, probably on a German man-of-war.

Pedro Montt became president of Chile on September 18, 1906, and his term of office extended to 1911. He succeeded German Riesco as chief executive. He was elected by an enormous majority, and was supported by a really national party.

Pedro Montt was a member of one of the best known families in Chile, for his father, Manuel Montt, was president of the Chilean republic from 1851 to 1861, whom, chiefly because of his strong will, national history gives high credit for a firm and productive administration. Pedro Montt was elected to the lower house soon after his admission to the bar in 1883. He held his seat for many years, and was then returned senator for one of the southern provinces, and later for the province of Santiago. During the years he had often been a member of the cabinet, and was more than once premier.

At various times he was speaker of the chamber of deputies and a councillor of state, and during a brief but trying period was minister plenipotentiary at Washington. In all the offices he held Senator Montt was distinguished for his conciliatory and well-defined policy. His avowed ambition as president was to return the country to its former high position in the financial world, to govern the nation with the greatest economy compatible with efficient public service, and live at peace with all its neighbors. He was the champion of a sound financial system, and waged unceasing war against the policy of prodigal expenditure.

Early last June the president suffered a serious attack of angina pectoris and on his partial recovery the trip to Europe was planned.

NAVY SUPPLIES

Chance for Local Dealers to Make Bids

The board of trade has received another notice of purchases for the navy department from the bureau of supplies and accounts in which the following items may be of interest to local dealers:

Sixty-six thousand pounds of iron chain for the Charlestown navy yard.

Twenty-five hundred pounds of cotton twine, 6 ply, for the Charlestown navy yard.

AN AEROPLANE

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—An aeroplane operated by wireless from the shore or the deck of a vessel is the latest invention of John Francis R. O'Rourke, the well-known constructing engineer. He believes that its use will revolutionize naval warfare.

The aeroplane was built by Mr. O'Rourke and eight French experts on aviation and combines all the best features of the leading types of aircraft. It is controlled by the waves sent out by a wireless instrument, the propulsive power being a powerful engine which will develop one horse power for every two pounds of its weight.

The aeroplane is also designed to carry passengers, and when thus used can be steered by an aviator, the control being centralized in a single lever. The problem of balance, solved by the Wright brothers in their warping device, has been overcome by Mr. O'Rourke in some specially designed aéroplanes, which are moved by a lever, their position altering the balance of the aeroplane.

The use of this new invention during a war, as described by Mr. O'Rourke, would result in terrible damage to a foe. The aeroplane could be sent to a height of a mile, the engine stepped by wireless, and the plane, gradually gliding toward the earth, would drop explosives at the will of the wireless operator.

Sent from a war vessel it could create havoc in the fortifications of an attacked town, while a flock of them could put to flight a large fleet of attacking ships. Mr. O'Rourke has filed patent applications on every feature of his invention, and has received several offers from concerned desirous of manufacturing the new implement of warfare.

IN POLICE COURT

Minor Violations of Sunday Law

Three storekeepers were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on complaints charging them with violating the Lord's Day. A week ago Sunday several police officers in citizens' clothes made a tour of the city to ascertain if any of the storekeepers were violating the Sunday law and they succeeded in purchasing soap in two places while in the third place a package of soap was bought.

In court this morning all three entered pleas of guilty and fines of $5 each were imposed.

Fined for Oversteering

Thomas F. Valiron was charged with operating his automobile in Andover street at a rate of speed greater than was reasonable and proper. Two officers were stationed in Andover street a week ago Sunday and Mr. Valiron sent his machine through the trap at a rate of 27 miles an hour. In court this morning he pleaded guilty and a fine of $10 was imposed.

Placed on Probation

Edward Gagnon was charged with failing to provide for his wife. He appeared penitent and after promising to do better in the future was placed in the hands of the probation officer.

Expensive Cloth

Samuel Berry, an employee of the Massachusetts mills, stole two yards of cloth valued at 24 cents from the mill where he was working and when arrested in court this morning entered a plea of guilty and a fine of $15 was imposed.

Drunken Offenders

Peter Drolette, a man who lost the lower part of his legs as a result of being run over by a train several years ago, was in court charged with being drunk. Inasmuch as he had appeared before the court on several previous occasions Judge Hadley deemed it advisable to send the man to the state farm.

Thomas H. Shea, sentenced to three months in jail, John W. Gray was fined $3 and two first offenders were fined $2 each.

HAD LONG SLEEP

Lexington Man May Have Been Drugged

Charles J. Lunney, the man who it is alleged relieved a drunken man of his watch and chain and money on the South common yesterday morning, appeared in police court this morning and entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with the larceny of a watch valued at $20, chain valued at $1 and $25 in money, the property of one McQuade. Owing to the fact that McQuade was unable to appear in court this morning the government asked for a continuance till tomorrow which was granted.

It developed late yesterday afternoon that the unknown man who was robbed by Lunney was James McQuade of Lexington, Mass. The man was taken to the police station about 9 o'clock yesterday morning and remained in a comatose condition until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when it was deemed advisable to remove him to the city hospital.

After receiving treatment at the hospital he began to show signs of life and while he gave a brief history of what had happened reaching Lowell his mind was rather heavy relative to what happened prior to his going to sleep on a seat in the common.

The police are of the opinion that the man was drugged.

FUNERALS

MOLYNEUX.—The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Ellen Molyneux took place yesterday afternoon from her late residence, 314 Mammoth road, and was largely attended. Rev. F. B. TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—The grand stand was crowded by tennis enthusiasts who flocked to the Casino to see the three times national doubles championship winners, H. H. Hackett and F. B. Alexander of New York, defend their title against the Chicago winners, I. C. Bundy and Trowbridge Hendrick of California. Bundy and Hendrick became the challengers by surviving in the tournament at Chicago Aug. 1, 2 and 3, between the players of the south, west and middle west.

The weather was almost perfect today for good tennis, a cool wind blowing across the championship court that had been made firm by the rain of yesterday.

There were six matches remaining in the second round of the all-comers singles tournament when play was started today and when these were decided the third round was started.

SMOKE INSPECTOR

The State to Pay $2500 for a Competent Man

While Lowell's smoke inspector is endeavoring to choke the vile stuff at nothing per week, the state is looking for good smoke subduers at a salary of $2500.

Secretary Murphy of the board of trade is in receipt of a communication from Secretary Dudley of the Massachusetts civil service commission for the position of smoke inspector under the gas and light commissioners.

The communication reads as follows: A competitive examination for the position of smoke inspector under chapter 651 of the acts of 1910 in the employment of the board of gas and electric light commissioners of the commonwealth will be held Friday, Sept. 2, 1910.

The salary named said board in its requisition is $2500, subject, however, to the approval of the governor and council.

The examination will contain the following subjects: (1) training and experience; (2) writing of report or letter; (3) arithmetic; (4) knowledge of fuel and handling the same, combustion, causes of smoke nuisance and methods of abatement; (5) knowledge of law relating to smoke nuisance.

Possession of a license and thorough training as fireman or engineer, while not required, will be given special consideration on the subject of training and experience.

Applicants will be given a physical examination and a specially rigid test of eyesight will be made.

Only citizens of the United States, who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year, have a right to apply.

Men desiring to take this examination may secure application blanks by applying in person or by letter at the office of the civil service commission, Room 152, state house, Boston, Mass.

Applications may be filed at any time, but in order to entitle a man to appear at this examination, the application blank must be filled out and placed on file in the office of this commission on or before Aug. 30, 1910.

BOTH BOATS LOST

Crews of Them Were Saved

KIEL, Aug. 17.—The German torpedo boat, S 76, in a collision last night in Kiel bay rammed the torpedo boat S 32. Both sank. The crews were saved.

THE O.M.I. CADETS

Now in Camp at Milligan's Grove

This is the big day at the O. M. I. Cadets camp.

The boys are enjoying themselves immensely and there is no sign of sickness or trouble at the campground. The early hours of last night were spent around the campfire, and the young soldiers sang songs, told stories and had a general good time. A large number of parents of the campers paid a visit to the camp and were delighted with the arrangements there. This afternoon the camp was crowded and the boys observed him and their parents and other visitors to the camp joined in the welcome to him. Dr. Wm. Collins is looking after the boys who have any complaint to make, and "Mat" McCann is making expert swimmers and athletes of them. Lieut. McArdie takes care of them during their drills and dress parades, and Rev. Dr. Sullivan, M. I., conducts the religious services in the morning and evening.

Asked today as to the quality of the milk being sold in Lowell, Milk Inspector Master said: "The milk is exceptionally good for this time of year. The necessary total solids, according to law, is 12.15. The milk in this city for June averaged 12.93 and 12.59 for month of July. We sent out a good many warnings during the months of June and July and I think that helped some. Whenever we found a sample that was weakening, not necessarily below the standard, but growing weak, we sent a warning and should judge from the quality of the milk at the present time that the farmers must be graining their cows. Sometime ago the milk inspector was supplied with apparatus for making bacteriological examination of the milk and a few preliminary tests have been made, 32 in all, and he found that the milk in this direction was all right. He found that the bacteria was not greater than the law allows. Mr. Master, however, does not claim to have made what he would call satisfactory tests and he will not make any definite report until he has examined 200 samples or more.

The reviewing stand.

Alen are at work on the reviewing stand for the Liberator parade to be held one week from today. The stand is being built in Worthen street between the city hall and the soldiers' monument. The work is being done by the lands and buildings department, A. E. Burnham in charge. The stand will have a 74 foot front. It will be 56 feet deep and will accommodate over 1000 people. Over 14,000 feet of lumber will be contained in the structure.

Marriage Intentions

August 16.—Enghem J. Verga, 25, machinist, 185 Warren street, and Emily Robinson, 22, at home, Farnham, Canada.

Thomas L. Sullivan, 31, operative, 23 Chestnut street, and Alice Bourke, 24, operative, 51 Pleasant street.

Frederick D. Gath, 23, shoemaker, 42 Hudson street, and Lizzie Leonard, 21, at home, Carlton place.

Henry G. Burke, 34, foreman, 436 Merrimack street, and Miss Martha E. Morse, 23, operative, 205 Middlesex street.

Ludwik Dalozdor, 23, weaver, 53 Lakeview avenue, and Mary A. Libera, 21, operative, 33 Lakeview avenue.

For Election Supplies

Bids on election supplies were opened at the office of the purchasing agent this forenoon. The contract for 100 copies of election officers for 1910 and 1911, and 1500 envelopes went to the Union Printing company, France & Son will supply the miscellaneous stuff, including pencils, penholders, mugs, rubber bands, ink, sealing wax, etc.

CHICAGO'S POPULATION

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—With a new directory having in it the names of 903,105 Chicagoans and accounting for a total of 2,329,913 by the usual methods of computing population of cities, publishers of what is said to be the largest directory in the world announced yesterday their belief that Chicago had 2,500,000 people claiming it as home.

POSTAL RECEIPTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The gross postal receipts at 50 of the largest postoffices of the country during July showed an increase of $199,465 or 2.74 per cent compared with the same month of last year, according to a statement issued by the postoffice department yesterday.

The increase in New York city was $77,437 or 5.52 per cent; in Chicago $20,078 or 1.37 per cent; in Philadelphia $11,995 or 2.71 per cent; in Brooklyn $11,018 or 6.35 per cent; in San Francisco $13,123 or 7.30 per cent; in Kansas City $10,412 or 7.04 per cent; in Minneapolis $11,081 or 8.01 per cent; in Detroit $10,104 or 7.01 per cent, and in Milwaukee $10,531 or 9.35 per cent.

In the 50 largest cities, 37 postoffices showed increases while there were decreases in 13. In Boston the decrease amounted to $2123, in Cleveland it was $6257, in Buffalo $12,081, in Rochester, N. Y., $7662 or 10.27 per cent, and in Seattle $15,431, or 17.70 per cent.

HOLY HOUR SERVICE

The monthly Holy Hour service will be held in St. Michael's church tomorrow evening.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—After signing a warrant authorizing his own arrest, Chief of Police James Crowley pleaded not guilty in the district court to a charge of "dangerous assault" on former Mayor Frederick P. Garretson and furnished bail of $100 for his appearance at a continued hearing on August 23. Mr. Garretson applied at the district court for the warrant early today.

Mr. Garretson has been active in raising the subscription of $10,000 for the entertainment of the officers and enlisted men of the Atlantic fleet, now in port. Yesterday he called the attention of the police chief to the fact that on one of the streets a gambling device consisting of a revolving wheel of the roulette pattern with an American flag bearing numbers and serving as a "layout" was in operation. The former mayor demanded that the chief have the device removed, on the dual grounds that it was a desecration of the flag and that it was also illegal inasmuch as it was operated for gambling purposes. Chief Crowley ordered the flag removed but, according to Mr. Garretson, did not stop the operation of the wheel. Warm words were exchanged between Messrs. Crowley and Garretson and, it is alleged, the chief placed his shoulder against Mr. Garretson and pushed him out of the way. This push is said to be the ground for the charge of "dangerous assault."

LOAN ORDERS SIGNED

By Mayor Meehan for Various Street Improvements

The city of Lowell has made a temporary loan of $100,000 from William H. Reed & Co., of Boston, in anticipation of taxes. The loan will be due November 10 and the discount will be 4.10 per cent.

SIX WERE INJURED WHO IS PRESIDENT?

The Lives of 26 Persons Were Two Worcester Aldermen Fought in Jeopardy Out the Issue

Motorman Shouted Warning When He Found the Brake Out of Action—Three of Victims Were Taken to the Hospital

BOSTON, Aug. 17.—Because of a defective brake on box car 1144 of the Boston elevated railway company, South Boston division, marked Boylston street transfer station, which was inbound from City Point to the Back Bay, at 5.10 yesterday afternoon, Motorman James W. Gibbons was powerless to hold it in control on the steep grade of East Broadway near Dorchester street, South Boston, and it sped down the hill, striking the rear of an open Kendall square car, also inbound bound, which was standing at the turn into West Broadway at the corner of Dorchester street.

The force of the collision was so great that both cars were driven down Broadway more than 300 feet and stopped below the transfer station on West Broadway.

Motorman Gibbons of the Boylston street transfer station car, notwithstanding that he fully realized that he was in great danger, and that a collision was imminent, bravely stuck to his post and, half stepping out of the front vestibule window, which was open, he yelled and told the people on the open Kendall square car to guard themselves, as he had lost control of the brakes, and nothing could prevent a collision of the cars. Instantly there was a crash. The vestibule of the box car was torn completely away, nothing being left but a portion of the roof and that portion of the window frame on which Gibbons was leaning.

The six passengers in the box car were thrown to the floor, those in the forward part being dashed against the door and then in a heap on the floor. Mrs. Frank Roy of 2 School street, Dorchester, quite a heavy woman, was most severely injured, striking her head against the door and being saved from going through by C. H. Tucker, also of Dorchester, with whom she was traveling.

Twenty Men on Open Car. There were 20 men on the open car which was ahead, and only two of them are known to have been injured. Frank Crawford, 18 years old, of 2 Goldsmith place, Roxbury, and Henry A. Mathony, 31, of 31 Telegraph street, South Boston.

With Motorman Gibbons on the Boylston street transfer station car, was Conductor Rich H. Nagie of 99 H street, South Boston. He was on the rear end and was thrown forward and struck his head and received contusions to the back and head.

Motorman John Axon of the Kendall square car was uninjured. His conductor, John Mooney, living in E street, South Boston, was on the running board of his car when the collision occurred, and thus avoided the serious consequences that might have resulted had he been on the rear end of his own car, where the severity of the collision was greatest.

Motorman Gibbons, as a consequence of his remaining at his post when he could have jumped and saved himself, was wedged between the two cars, in a position bending over that portion of the window frame and rail of his own car which struck the car ahead. The flooring under him was torn away, everything, including the motor box and brake, being thrown into the air and landing on one side of West Broadway.

When the two cars stopped in front of the transfer station, willing hands rushed to the rescue of the imprisoned motorman. He was conscious, but was suffering severely from the pressure on his body. He asked if any one was hurt and then assisted his rescuers in removing the obstructions that penned him in.

When the fragments of the vestibule of the box car had been pulled away Gibbons was extricated and was immediately carried into Bishop's pharmacy, where Proprietor Connell made him comfortable while awaiting the arrival of a physician and also the ambulance which had been telephoned for.

Taken to the Hospitals. Mrs. Roy and Mathony and Tucker were also placed in care of Mr. Connell and everything possible was done for the injured, and in a few minutes there were three ambulances on the scene. Gibbons was taken to the Carney hospital, a few blocks away, and Crawford, as he was removed from the second seat of the open car, was placed in another ambulance and also taken to the Carney hospital. Conductor Nagie of the runaway car was taken to the city hospital in a police ambulance, and after his injuries to his back were attended to he was sent home.

Henry Mathony was taken into Mr. Connell's store and then went to the office of Dr. Redmond at 512 East Broadway, where five stitches were taken in a cut on his right hand. Mr.

Worcester, Aug. 17.—The members of the board of aldermen and a few spectators were treated yesterday afternoon to the unusual spectacle of two members of the board squabbling for the right to preside over a special session called to give a hearing to the Worcester consolidated street railway company on a petition for permission to make changes in its track locations.

An "open house" contest between Alderman Geo. F. Brooks and Alderman Peter F. Sullivan for the title and rights of president pro tem, which has attracted attention since Mayor Leman started for his vacation in Friendship, Me., took a rather warm turn at the session.

The time for calling the meeting to order was 12.15 and as the hands of the aldermanic clock pointed to that hour, both Alderman Brooks and Alderman Sullivan started for the president's chair. Alderman Sullivan walked up the flight of steps and Alderman Brooks walked up the other. They almost walked into each other on the far side of the desk as they sought the place in the president's chair. Then they stopped for a moment to talk it over.

The clerk called the roll and then Alderman Sullivan said he would entertain a motion to dispense with the reading of the records of the previous meeting.

"Mr. Sullivan, I object to you presiding at this meeting. I am president of the board of aldermen," said Alderman Brooks.

Turning to the reporters' table Alderman Sullivan, in a stage whisper, said: "You see, boys, he calls me Mr. Sullivan."

Alderman Brunell jumped to his feet

with a suggestion, "Send for the law department and settle this thing."

So the page was ordered to find the law department. He brought back Assistant City Solicitor Anderson.

As Mr. Anderson took his place in the seat usually filled by City Solicitor Vaughan, Alderman Sullivan, still waving the gavel, said: "The alderman from ward 10 will please state his reasons for doubting my right to serve as president."

Alderman Brooks then went into a review of the case, telling how he was elected president pro tem when President Jeppson went away and that Mr. Sullivan was elected only to serve during a special meeting of the board and he claimed that Mr. Sullivan's right to serve as president ended when the meeting to transact that special business had adjourned.

In other words, he argued that Mr. Sullivan was only a president pro tempore pro tempore, while he had been elected president pro tempore.

Assistant City Solicitor Anderson ruled that there is no such thing as a president pro tempore pro tempore and that Mr. Sullivan was "president pro tempore" until the aldermen took action to deprive him of that title and the right to perform the duties of the office.

The aldermen seemed to be in no disposition to deprive the ward 13 man of his yellow jacket, and although Alderman Brooks said, "I object," the meeting went right on just as though the real president was wielding the gavel.

President Francis H. Dewey of the Consolidated explained what his companions wanted to do in the way of relocating certain of its tracks.

Connell telephoned for a carriage and Mr. Roy and Mr. Tucker were hurried to their homes, where they received medical attendance.

Gibbons' condition was such on arriving at the Carney hospital that, further than a superficial examination, which showed that no bones were broken and no serious external injuries, he was put to bed immediately and watched for several hours until he had recovered from the severe shock. Then it was found that he had received only bruises to his back, face and chest, not any of a serious nature.

At a late hour last night he was resting very comfortably, was conscious and conversed with the doctors. An examination of his right leg, of which he had complained, showed only slight sprains. He is now on the dangerous list and unless something unexpected occurs, his recovery shortly is certain.

Crawford, who was also taken to the Carney hospital, suffered most from his jaw and teeth. He was on the second seat of the open car, and when the crash occurred he was thrown forward and his face struck the seat in front of him and he was thrown into the street. One of the doctors attended to his jaw, his teeth and lip and he was resting quite comfortably last night.

Accident on Severe Grade.

The accident occurred at a time when there was a large crowd of people riding on the cars, and for 20 minutes after the accident there was a blockade of cars all along West and East Broadway and Dorchester street. Inspectors Patrick Banks and John Dickie were early on the scene and did much hustling in getting the cars out of chaos.

The debris was taken from the cars by wrecking cars, and the open car was taken down West Broadway and around by Bay View way to the City Point stables.

The box car, which had rushed down the hill, was surrounded by thousands of people who gazed in amazement at the place where Gibbons had been crushed by his post, and wondered how anyone could have escaped instant death in the midst of such a wreck.

There was nothing in front of the car but a portion of the roof of the vestibule. The door was smashed, many windows broken and the trucks twisted. A wrecking car was soon backed up to it and then it was taken to the City Point barns.

The box car that caused all the trouble has been in the car barns many weeks, and was taken out last night as an extra for a trip for the working people returning to their homes. After leaving the City Point barns no descent of a hill is encountered until this Broadway hill, where the accident happened.

Ascending from I street the top of the hill is reached near G street, and just after passing G street the downward grade is met. At the foot of the hill, just before reaching the crossings at Dorchester street, there is a customary stop made by all cars in order to avoid accidents with cars turning into Dorchester street. After this stop the cars go ahead only on signal from the conductor.

Yesterday afternoon Motorman Gibbons, on reaching the street, tried to put on the brakes. He quickly realized that the brakes were out of order, and this was emphasized when the car took on greater speed and dashed down the hill.

Gibbons yells a warning. Gibbons saw the Kendall square open car ahead of him and knew that he could not avoid bumping. With his hands still on the brakes he leaned forward out of the open car window of the vestibule and yelled for the car ahead to keep on or there would be a collision.

The Kendall square car was at a standstill directly on the curve just before turning into West Broadway. There is a very complicated system of switches at this junction. The Kendall square car stopped in order to allow a Fields corner car to cross from the side track on West Broadway, over Broadway to reach the inward track on Dorchester street. This has been a very common occurrence and necessary when the Fields corner cars cross over to reach that part of Dorchester street leading to Dorchester.

It is said by witnesses that the Fields corner car was just about to leave the Kendall square track in order to allow the Kendall square car to go ahead last there should be a collision there.

The back Bay box car, in charge of Motorman Gibbons, with the full force gained by the speed down Broadway hill, smashed into the rear of the Kendall square car and both cars sped 300 feet along West Broadway.

In the Kendall square open car were about 20 men, many of them employees of the George F. Lawley yacht building concern. They were returning home from their day's work. Crawford was one of these men and he was in the second seat from the front of the car. Most of the other occupants of that car got out of the way after the accident and it is not known that any of them were seriously injured.

Feet Tired—So Tired?

TIZ Makes Sick Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and sore proof.

It's the best remedy you know for everything that gets the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for sweaty, bad-smelling feet, and for corns, blisters and bunions, and for aches and pains in the feet.

For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet; suffered intense pain. Have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ which worked a perfect cure, as it has with a great many of my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used." A. F. Dreitzer, Chicago.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and calluses. You'll feel like a new person.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct if you wish from Walter Luber Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

How about that census report? Isn't it almost time we heard how much beyond the hundred thousand mark Lowell has gone?

The moth pest is to be exterminated by means of a fungus growth which sickens the moths and produces a disease that is contagious and thus spreads pestilence among moths that have not eaten the fungus. The chief difficulty, we surmise, will be to induce the moths to partake of this fatal diet.

Our municipal concerts are very enjoyable and highly appreciated by the public. There are some people, however, who do not seem to have heard of them, and who make no effort to attend. These concerts are given for the benefit of the masses, and the larger the attendance the greater will be the benefits derived from this particular effort to amuse the people.

BALLINGER AND CANNON

Ballinger and Cannon are two public characters who should be sent into retirement. Ballinger is in bad odor and his retention in the cabinet under such conditions reflects upon himself, the cabinet as a body and the president in particular. Cannon on the other hand is a foul mouthed old braggart whose sole ambition is to support all that is most objectionable in the republican party. He is a spoilsman of the worst type. He is wholly indifferent to justice, honor and decency in the exercise of his power as speaker. By his arbitrary rulings he has eliminated the rights of the minority in congress and applied the gag to prevent free discussion. When it has come to pass that no measure unacceptable to Cannon and the republican party can be admitted, it is certainly time to get rid of Cannon and to put an end to Cannonism.

FLAGRANT POLICE INEFFICIENCY

The failure of the police of Quincy to apprehend Restelli who murdered his mother, and a prominent contractor, and wounded several others, is not creditable to the guardians of that city. When a man can commit wholesale murder in broad daylight and make his escape, the city is not properly protected by its police department.

The highwaymen who committed the double murder in Lynn some weeks ago were quickly rounded up, one of them being shot by the police while trying to make his escape. The value of a police department consists largely in its ability to act quickly in emergencies. This is where the Lynn department proved its worth, and where the Quincy department fell down.

Judge Mahoney of Lawrence the other day severely criticized the police of that city for allowing a man to escape who had made a murderous assault upon a citizen. The assault finally gave himself up to the police, and it appeared that he had not made any great effort to avoid arrest. Judge Mahoney said the assault was so brutal that every available man on the force should have been put to work in order to arrest the defendant within an hour after the assault. If bold criminals be allowed to escape through stupidity or carelessness, crime will increase. Lowell can felicitate herself upon the fact that of late every crime committed in our city has been followed by arrest and punishment of the guilty parties.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

The minority of the United States senate committee appointed to investigate the causes of the high cost of living, has made its report, and the reasons which it presents are in the main directly opposed to those set forth by the majority report of the committee.

The tariff, trusts and monopolies, and the increased money supply are the three chief causes assigned for the advance in prices of commodities in the United States as compared with the rest of the world.

Senators Johnson of Alabama, Clark of Arkansas and Smith of South Carolina are the members of the select committee who signed this report. The report as a whole is logical and convincing. It attacks the fifteen reasons set forth by the majority report showing that they are not the real reasons and that most of them have no general effect upon the cost of living.

It is shown that the tariff produces the trusts, and that the trusts under the shelter of high protection stamp out domestic competition. The manufacturers are then enabled to add to the price of the manufactured product the amount of tariff duty imposed or to charge prices even much higher, which is actually done.

Specific instances are quoted in support of the claims made. The sugar trust, the meat trust and a few others are cited as examples of the combines that suppress competition and levy tribute upon the people.

This report has the merit of candor and honesty whereas the other has been condemned as arranged for political effect in defence of the tariff, and in the interests of the republican party. The committee has gone to the root of the matter with clear and convincing arguments and sound logic. It has not the specific data at hand to show to what extent each of the causes assigned is responsible for the high cost of living, but it has given abundant proof that the causes mentioned are the real causes by which fictitious prices have been established so that the people have to pay the most exorbitant rates for practically all the necessities of life.

The remedy, of course, would be a reduction in the tariff, the overthrow of the trusts that now exist under the sanction of law, the restoration of free domestic competition, and to a limited extent also competition with foreign nations in the domestic markets.

The majority report was a piece of political claptrap compiled by Senator Lodge to whitewash the new tariff law and thus save the republican party. The minority report voices public opinion throughout the country and cannot be successfully contradicted.

SEEN AND HEARD

LET US LOVE ONE ANOTHER

Let us love one another, not long may we stay In this bleak world of mourning, so brief is life's day. Some fade ere 'tis noon, and few linger till eve; Oh! these breaks not a heart but leaves some one to grieve; And the fondest, the purest, the truest that met. Have still found the need to forgive and forget; Then oh! though the hopes that we nourish decay, Let us love one another as long as we stay.

There are hearts like the ivy, though all be decayed, which it seems to clasp fondly in sunlight and shade; Yet drop not its leaves, but still gaily they spread, Undimmed midst the blighted, the lonely and dead; And the mistletoe clings to the oak, not in part, But with leaves closed around it, the root in its heart. Exists but to twine it, and drink the same dew, Or to fall with its loved oak and perish there, too.

Thus we'll love one another, midst sorrow the worst, Unaltered and fond as we loved at the first. Though the false wing of pleasure may change and forsake, And the bright urn of wealth into particles break; There are some sweet affections that cling cannot buy, That cling but the closer when sorrow draws nigh, And remain with us yet, though all else pass away; Yes, we'll love one another as long as we stay.

Freedom of the will is a doctrine which children can understand and appreciate. The little girl in this story was not willing to have all her naughty ingenuities ascribed to supernatural sources.

"Perhaps it was," replied the little girl, "but kicking her shins was my own idea."

At least one young man in Lowell is in doubt as to the sincerity of his lady love and an innocent little postal card is the cause of it all. On the slide of the card where the motto "reigned supreme" were the words: "I am having the time of my life." On the opposite side of the card the thinking lady wrote: "I'm awfully lonesome without you, dear." The card was mailed at the beach where the young lady is spending her vacation.

"O, Mrs. Brown, you might be so good as to fill this glass with cold water for me."

"Certainly, sir, with pleasure."

About ten minutes afterward he came down again.

"Mrs. Brown, I am awfully sorry to trouble you, but would you kindly fill this glass again for me?"

"No trouble, sir, I assure you. It is a pleasure."

"Thanks, awfully!"

Again, after several minutes, he descended.

"I am only too pleased to be able to get it for you, sir; but you are not well this morning, perhaps?"

"O, yes, thanks; but the fact of the matter is, my bedroom is on fire!"

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Despite the fact that Jean Hottel, the curator, has denied the report of the theft from the Louvre of the famous painting of "Mona Lisa," Leonardo da Vinci, the Cri de Paris, the paper which first published the report of the alleged robbery, now prints an editorial article in which it demands the appointment of a committee of famous artists to examine the picture. Like all the Louvre masterpieces, the "Mona Lisa" is covered with glass, to protect it from the attack of vandals. The Cri de Paris insists that it is this glass that prevents not only the public but the experts from detecting the substitution of a copy for the original work, which it repeats, has been stolen. According to the Cri de Paris, an English woman copyist made a copy of the picture for an art restorer in the Rue Bonaparte, and "imparted an appearance of antiquity to the copy." The Cri de Paris reiterates emphatically its statement that the original picture by Leonardo da Vinci is now in New York and adds that it is in a position to assert that "the successful substitution has so encouraged the New York dealers that they have formed a ring for the purpose of obtaining and smuggling into New York more of the Louvre's finest art treasures." Which of course makes New York art dealers both wistful and envious.

"When my little daughter was about five years old, she was taken with the measles. A few weeks after the measles were gone, she began to have a severe scalp humor. It itched so that she would scratch the whole day, until the blood came. We had a doctor and tried a good many other remedies, but nothing helped. Her hair all fell out and the scalp itself had an unpleasant odor."

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Today the Lakeview stock company will give the last two presentations of "A Social Outlaw" which in so short a time has proven quite popular. It is a play that is singularly lifelike and of engrossing interest, and those who have seen it are its most enthusiastic admirers.

Commencing Thursday, that is tomorrow, and continuing until Saturday, we will have that famous book play "St. Elmo" on the boards again. When it was seen here two weeks ago, it played not only to the biggest houses of the season, but to one of the largest crowds in the history of the house and will be acted by the same company and every detail will be precisely as before and judging from the call for advance seats "St. Elmo" will be as popular as it was previous to this engagement.

Next week theatrical interest will be stimulated by the company's "Paid in Full." Eugene Walter's masterpiece of contemporaneous American drama, which comes to Lakeview direct from New York, this being its first engagement ever played at a summer park. It will be acted by a brilliant, splendid cast, so that every one of its tremendous entertaining qualities will be brought out to the full and to see this great play by a great cast is a treat that should not be missed by anyone.

THEATRE VOYONS

The story of "The Lady and the Burglar," the feature subject today at the Theatre Voyons is a most interesting and novel one and incidentally it teaches two excellent lessons. The heroine is a society woman married to a great lecturer whose whole enjoyment seems to be study and the result is neglect on his part. A young man tries his best to convince her that she should elope with him but at every step she remains true to her husband and discourages her admirer. At last the suitor plans one more appeal and goes to her home at night thinking her husband away. The same night a burglar breaks into the house and is in concealment when the admiral forces his way into the lady's presence. She tells him to leave and her husband hearing voices comes to her but instead of finding the suitor he finds the burglar with his wife, the suitor having escaped through a window. Earlier in the story the woman has befriended the burglar's child and he repays the kindness by preventing her husband from finding the young man with her. Two excellent comedies and a scenic subject add to the attractiveness of the bill.

AFTER 47 YEARS

Brockton Man Found His Sister

BROCKTON, Aug. 17.—When John Rooney answered the bell at his home, 35 Foster avenue, yesterday afternoon, he found a woman at the door, little like him in suspect who she was. The woman introduced herself as Mrs. William Flynn of Bridgeport, Conn. She made inquiries of him concerning Rooney and they conversed about Rooney's family. Mr. Rooney told the stranger that he had a sister in Ireland.

"No, you haven't," said Mrs. Flynn. "How is that?" asked Mr. Rooney. "Because she is right before you now."

Rooney had not seen his sister in 47 years. He left Ireland in 1863 and has

Lowell Batted After the Game Was Lost

The Whalers came back hard at Lowell yesterday by bawling Yount at will, while until the ninth inning the home team could do nothing with the delivery of McIntyre, a young man who once pitched for Al Wynn for a brief period and who has since improved wonderfully.

McIntyre held the home team down to three hits up to the ninth, and the surprise of the day was the fact that up to the ninth the only man who could do anything with McIntyre was Yount, who made two hits.

In the ninth they got him and made three runs. Fitz getting a home run and Fluharty a three-bagger. Lowell made a few costly errors to help the visitors out.

Umpire Langan ran the game and did a good job.

Game in detail:

First Inning
Neither side scored in the first inning. Walsh hit to Cooney and was put at first and McCrone followed with a foul fly to Boutles. Rising draw, a base on steal and was walked while trying to steal second.

In the latter half of the inning Blakely hit to Cunningham and was out at first. Fitzpatrick popped a fly which McCrone gathered in. Cooney singled, the ball getting by Bauman. Magee closed the inning with a fly to Wilson.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 0.

Second Inning
A little hard luck on Lowell's part in the second inning allowed the Whalers to score two runs. Cunningham opened with a single and McCrone sent the ball to the left field fence for two bases, Cunningham going to third. Bauman hit to Cooney, who held Cunningham on third and threw the runner out at first. Wilson sent a sacrifice fly to Magee and the latter threw home to get Cunningham, but the ball hit in front of the plate and bounding over Huston's head allowed Cunningham and McCrone to score. Pratt fled to Tenney.

In Lowell's half Tenney hit to McIntyre and was out at first, Fluharty fled to McCrone and Boutles fled to Walsh.

Score, Lowell 0; New Bedford 2.

Third Inning
In the third inning McIntyre was retired on strikes. Walsh singled and McCrone fled to Blakely, Blakely threw to first to get Walsh but Tenney fumbled the ball and Walsh went to second, but he died there for rising hit to Fitz and was out at first.

The local team went out in quick order. Huston fouled hit to Pratt, Yount hit to Cunningham and was out at first, while Blakely was third out on a fly to Walsh.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 2.

Fourth Inning
The visitors scored two more runs in the fourth inning. Cunningham started off with a single and went to second on McCrone's sacrifice. Bauman hit to Boutles, who held the ball too long and then threw wide to first, allowing Bauman to reach first. Wilson hit to Cooney, forcing Bauman at second, Cunningham going to third. Wilson then stole second. Pratt hit to the right field fence for two bases, and Cunningham and Wilson scored. McIntyre got a base on ball and on the next hit Pratt attempted to steal third and was thrown out by Huston.

There were just six balls pitched in the latter half of the inning. Fitz fled to Bauman, Cooney sent a grounder to Wilson and was out at first and Magee fled to McCrone.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 4.

Fifth Inning
In the fifth inning Walsh hit to Fitz and was out at first. McCrone fled to Fluharty and Cunningham hit to Yount and was out at first.

In Lowell's half Tenney fled to Rising, Fluharty fled to Walsh and Boutles hit by third base, but failed to reach first, for Wilson made a pretty stop of the ball and threw the runner out.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 4.

Sixth Inning
Walsh fled to Tenney and McCrone hit to Fitz and was out at first. Rising hit to Boutles, but Boutles in throwing to first threw the ball over to the right field fence and Rising went to third, but he stayed there for Cunningham hit to Boutles and was out at first.

Cooney fled to Rising and Magee fled to Bauman. Tenney drew a base on balls, it being the first base on balls that McIntyre gave during the game. Fluharty hit to Wilson forcing Tenney at second.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 6.

Seventh Inning
Two more for New Bedford in the seventh inning. McCrone singled and Bauman followed with a foul fly to Huston. Wilson singled to right field and Fluharty allowed the ball to go through him, Cunningham scoring and Wilson going to third. Pratt hit a Texas leaguer to short left centre field and Wilson scored. McIntyre hit to Cooney, who threw to second, getting Pratt, and Fitz sent the ball to first for a double play.

In the latter half of the inning Huston hit to McIntyre and was out at first. Yount then surprised the fans by getting a single to centre field, the second hit made during the game. Blakely

THE FASTEST MOTORBOAT IN AMERICA, THAT WILL MEET ENGLAND'S BEST

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The English boats are the Pioneer, owned by the Duke of Westminster, the Zigarola, owned by Daniel Hanbury, and the Maple Leaf II, owned by Mackay Edgar. All these boats are capable of thirty-five miles an hour, and it will be necessary for the American team to extend itself to the utmost in order to keep the trophy, which is the blue ribbon of motorboating, in this country. The one American boat that there is anything definite known about is the Dixie II, owned by F. K. Barnham of New York, who she has reportedly made thirty-seven miles an hour in previous races, and it is reported that she is capable of over forty miles when opened up to her limit.

Country are deeply interested in the coming international races for the Harmsworth cup to be held on the bay here Aug. 20. The Harmsworth cup was brought to this country from England in 1907 by the victory of the motorboat Dixie. Three of America's speediest boats have been selected

At Haverhill today.
Burkett returned to the game yesterday and made a little pinch hit in the second game.

What do you know about Yount as a batter? Two singles in one game. Those haymakers swings "off gang agony," but when they land there's something doing.

Fitz's homer hit the top of the fence and bounded the right way. This makes 10 pounds of Bull Durham that Fitz will have smoked up this season.

The games go faster with Langan at the helm.

Yount appears to have a weakness for passionate hostility. It's hardly safe to wear those socks in the same field with a huge bull for they were loud enough to make even a painted wooden bull go batty.

Philadelphia As were pretty good picking yesterday. Eighteen runs and the largest big league score of the season.

The Red Sox are getting help from the critics, likewise John IT.

Only three games away from Division 1.

If Tom Dowd can only get back soon we'll take New Bedford for the pennant.

"Pop" Rising says that New Bedford will save McTigue for Worcester.

Joe Boyle occupied a seat in the bleachers. New Bedford has catchers galore at the present time.

"Who's the ump?" cried a kid when Mr. Langan made his usual remark: "Hank O'Day" promptly returned little Chawlic.

"Send Gray to the bat!" yelled a disgusted fan during the game as McIntyre continued to mow them down. Time was when Jimmie could bat them out when he and Andy were the battus of the old Pawtucket Blues and used to have a scrap with each other over signals about every inning.

Haverhill plays here tomorrow; Fall River, Friday and then for another crack at New Bedford Saturday.

The Lowell-Haverhill game next Wednesday will be played at Spaulding park and will start immediately after the big A. O. H. parade.

William L. McCollum of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., president of the Susquehanna league, yesterday received charges that Floyd Kroh of the Chicago Nationals had pitched for Danville of the Susquehanna league against Bloomsburg Saturday afternoon. He assumed, it is charged, the name of McHale and posed as a pitcher by that name from Colby college, who was being given a trial by Danville. He won his game easily, 5 to 1.

It is charged that the Danville management secured Kroh in Philadelphia, where he was suspended for misbehavior. President McCollum has given the management 24 hours to prove that the strange pitcher was not Kroh.

BOXING GOSSIP
"I have boxed several times with Bill Lang, the Australian heavyweight champion," said Jim Corbett recently, "and you can say for me that he is one of the best pugilists in the world. I'll admit that Al Kaufman is a first class fighter, but I shall not be surprised if Lang defeats him. I think the Australian knows more about ring science and is a trifle quicker than Delaney's pupil."

"Kaufman is on edge and will surprise easterners who saw him put up a poor fight with Ross a year ago," said Billy Delaney. "Kaufman is improving steadily and his experience at Jack Johnson's training camp in June has developed many fine points. Kaufman is only 24 years old and never dissipates. I'll venture to predict that he'll be the champion of the world before the end of next year. They tell me that Lang is a good one. I hope so, for that will enable Kaufman to prove that he is the best white heavyweight in the ring at the present time."

SEVERE DROUGHT FEARED
Because of the fact that Lake Winnepesaukee, which is the principal storage reservoir for the Merrimack river above Lowell, there is a possibility of a severe drought in the river and the Locks and Canals in this city is confronted with a situation which, if it continues, may prove serious in the coming fall.

Lake Winnepesaukee is lower than it has ever been since records have been taken regularly by the Lake company at Lakeport, N. H.

It seems inevitable that unless there is excess of rain from now on, there will be a severe drought in the river on account of the small quantity of water left in the lake.

The conditions are attributed to the two preceding dry years, 1908 and '09, with only a normal amount of snow on the ground in the spring of the present year. An excessive amount of snow had made up the deficiency for the preceding two years.

WILL BE REBUILT
Dunstable Church Will Rise Again

The Dunstable Congregational church, which was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning, will be rebuilt and will be called for just as soon as applications are drawn. Already there is $8000 available for the work. The old church was insured for $4000, and the church had a special building fund of $1000, Sunday the sum of $8000 was raised, making the total $8000.

POLICE BOARD
Granted Several Minor Licenses Last Night

The board of police met in regular session last night, but there was little other than routine business to be transacted.

A taxicab license was granted to Napoleon Blodden, who will operate his machine to and from the Northern station four times a day. Taxi licenses were also granted to the Lowell Taxicab Co. and T. S. Murphy.

The following licenses were acted upon:
Granted: Billiards and pool, Solitos Lemieux, 407 Market street; common victuallers, Otis R. Atherton, 1 Fletcher street; John Economou, 386 Market street; George Picoulas, 436 Market street.

Surrendered and cancelled: Common victuallers, Theodore Saris 158 Market street; Athanasios Metropoulos, Market street.

ST. JOSEPH'S CONVENT
When the school term of St. Joseph's convent in Moody street reopens next month there will have been many changes made in the sisters on the teaching staff. Some of the nuns who have been teaching at the convent for several years have been transferred to Ottawa while others will be sent from that place to fill the vacancies in this city.

Sister St. Pascal, who had charge of the graduating class last term, is one of the seven who will not return to the school, while the others are Sister St. Cyrille, Sisters St. Henry, Elizabeth, St. Saere-Coeur, Agnes, Michel-des-Saints and Honorine. Some of them have gone on account of their health, while others

WON THE TROPHY

Sixth Regiment Team Carried Off Honors at Camp Perry

CAMP PERRY, O., Aug. 17.—The 6th Massachusetts yesterday shot up the camp again in the National Rifle association's regimental match for the championship of the United States. It was the fourth time that the sharpshooters of the 6th have competed for this match and the fourth time that they have won it.

In 1906, 1907 and 1908 they took it and became the permanent owner of the trophy; last year they were not here; yesterday they defeated 33 teams, scoring 531, or 58 points more than their record score of 775, made in 1903. By 10 points they defeated the pick of the U. S. infantry yesterday.

The leaders scored as follows: Sixth Mass. 831, 74th N. Y. 817, brigade infantry No. 2 810, 1st Hawaii infantry No. 1 594, 1st, 3rd, 8th, 15th U. S. cavalry 795, brigade infantry No. 1 796, 2d Conn. 796, 1st District of Columbia 795, 1st squad Georgia cavalry 793.

Top-score honors for the 6th at 600 yards was 49, by Qm. Sergt. Keough, and at the 1000-yard range Lieut. Burns, Lieut. Faber and Capt. Wise made 49 of the possible 50. The 6th Mass. scores follow:

	600 Yds.	1000 Yds.
Private Reid	46	38
Qm. Sergt. Keough	49	47
Lieut. Burns	46	49
Lieut. Faber	46	49
Capt. Wise	47	49
Sergt. Jones	46	47
Totals	280	279
Grand total	781	780

The 6th Massachusetts scored 831 at 600 yards, Corp. Owen Schofield led with 49, and at the 1000 yards Sergt. Woods at Corp. Schofield each got 47.

The long range two match was shot yesterday with 389 men at the bulls. The 1000-yard match record was badly broken when Sergt. S. Clark of the 2d Indiana piled up 19 consecutive bullseyes. Sergt. H. E. Stadie, 3d U.

S. Infantry, was second with 16 bulls, beating the record established by Lieut. Test of Texas last year, when he won with 15 bulls. Lieut. Cabot, 74th New York, and Lieut. M. C. Britton, 3d U. S. cavalry, divided third money with two more possible.

Six 49's were made by F. W. Coleman, 10th U. S. infantry; Col. Henry, Tennessee; Sergt. Elder, 2d West Va.; Ensign Kneer and Lieut. Clark, 74th New York, and Lieut. Rutherford, 5th U. S. infantry. There were 17 49's and 27 47's in the unprecedented record. Capt. R. Hamilton of the 2d Connecticut scored 47.

E. E. Reising, the Connecticut revolver sharp, led yesterday in two of the five new revolver matches which the National rifle association has this year established, the conditions of which correspond to the three stages of the national pistol match. In the line fire match at 25 yards Reising scored 98 of the possible 100, and in the rapid-fire 75-yard race he is sixth with 78; in the time fire, 50 yards, fifth with 80, and in the rapid fire, 15 yards, second with 97.

In the first stage of the president's match, shot by authority of the president of the United States, Sergt. W. A. Fragner of the U. S. marine corps leads the field of 421 with 193 out of a possible 200. Ensign R. C. Giffen, navy, is second at 192; Midshipman H. T. Smith third, 191; Sergt. H. Whitaker, infantry, fourth, 188; B. A. Dixon, infantry, fifth, 188. Private Charles E. Van Amburg of the 2d Mass. ranks 20th, with 184; Sergt. Keough 31st, 181; Corp. P. S. Schofield, 1st, 180.

Two other matches were started yesterday, the Evans' skirmish and the championship company team. The Evans match is of particular interest to the camp on account of its sham battle features, the members of the company teams firing at each other's targets and the men firing "dead" as fast as their targets are hit.

The company team match is for teams of five for the championship of the United States.

GIRL TRIED SUICIDE
Estranged From Her Lover and Was Out of Work

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Marlene Gen-a solution of bichloride of mercury, a beautiful girl of 23, made a double attempt at suicide at 1 o'clock yesterday morning at her home, 512 East 14th street, and is in Bellevue hospital, but about midnight she was recovered. The doctors think she will recover.

The young woman came to this country from Palermo, Italy, two months ago. She is a skilful designer of ladies' cloaks and suits, and her work attracted the attention of a buyer on the other side. A Broadway house offered her such inducements to claim her that she finally decided to accept.

She had been caring for her aged father and mother in Italy, and they were loath to part from her; but she held out to them the alluring prospects on this side, and giving them all her money except $200, came to New York. Her fiancé was so opposed to her coming he grew cold, and his letters became more infrequent.

To add to her troubles the garment worker's strike reduced the demands for designers, and she was told by the firm that persuaded her to come that they could supply her with no regular work till fall. Occasionally she found employment for a day or two at a time, but her melancholy increased as day after day passed without any regular work.

Since she arrived she had made her home with her sister, Mrs. Giacinto Di Bella, on the sixth floor of 512 East 14th street. They all retired early Monday night, but about midnight Marlene stole into her sister's room and bending over kissed her. The latter's husband Thomas was awakened and asked what she meant.

"I have a right to kiss my sister if I want to," she replied.

He told her wife it looked strange, but both were soon asleep again. The girl returned to her room and mixed

MRS. COREY MAY RETURN TO STAGE IN GRAND OPERA

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—According to will appear only in London. The reason for Mrs. Corey's return to the stage is unknown, but it is presumed the glare of the footlights has proved too strong a temptation, and, even though she does not don the lighter garb of the ballet, she will find pleasure in displaying her ability in a heavier role. A definite date has not been set for the former actress' reappearance.

BOARD OF CHARITY

More Discussion Relative to the Missing Trip Book—The Board Does Not Accept Mr. Mayberry's Statement

At a meeting of the board of charities held last night it was voted to change the name of the "city hospital and almshouse" to "Chelmsford street hospital." The city council had been asked to act in this matter but there was nothing doing and the board decided to take the initiative. Chairman McCarty said that the change of name would not cost the city anything and it would help to remove the stigma of pauperism so much abhorred by the inmates. He said that the names of other institutions of a similar nature throughout the country had been changed for similar reasons.

The Mayberry trip book was discussed pro and con and the board members did not hesitate to say what they thought of Mr. Mayberry's answer to a letter sent him by the board and requesting information as to the whereabouts of the book. Mr. Mayberry was superintendent of the board of charities in 1909 and when he got through something was said about a trip book for which the city settled and which had been used but very little. The board instructed its clerk to communicate with Mr. Mayberry relative to the book. That was some weeks ago and Mr. Mayberry did not make answer until within a few days. In his reply he accused the board of "throwing insinuations in his direction. As to the trip book he said he left it in the drawer of the desk at city hall, and that he was not responsible for its subsequent disappearance.

If Mr. Mayberry left the trip book there, then it was up to somebody else and the board made a general inquiry. Clerk Gallagher was the man who most frequently used the book where Mr. Mayberry said he left the trip book and Mr. Gallagher said he didn't find the book. Supt. Conley didn't see it, and there was nobody in the office that had seen it.

The board after hearing from Supt. Conley and Clerk Gallagher voted it be entered in the records of the meeting that the board did not believe the statement of Mr. Mayberry to be correct.

The meeting was called to order at 8.35, with all members present. Clerk Gallagher outlined the history of a poor woman who wanted to have three of her children placed in St. Peter's orphanage, and the board decided to place them there.

The letter from Solomon S. Mayberry, former superintendent of the department, relative to the missing trip book, was read.

Mr. Conley asked Supt. Conley if he had seen the trip book. Mr. Conley said he had not seen it.

Clerk Gallagher was asked what he knew about the book. He said he had occasion to go to the desk several times a day and that he had not seen the book. Mr. Gallagher said that after receiving his instructions from the board to communicate with Mr. Mayberry relative to the book he called Mr. Mayberry by telephone.

"Mr. Mayberry," said Mr. Gallagher, "told me that the mayor had the book."

"I asked him what mayor the present or the past mayor. After hesitating a few moments he told me he did not know what had become of the book."

"I asked him if I would make that report and he said he supposed I would have to."

"Later in the day he called me by telephone and told me he had left the trip book in the desk. I went immediately to the desk. The book was not there."

At this point Mr. Conley moved that Mr. Mayberry's letter be placed on file.

"In justice to the clerk here," said Mr. Burns, "I think we ought to address a letter to Mr. Mayberry telling him that we do not believe his statement in regard to the trip book."

The chairman suggested that, perhaps it would be as well to place the letter on file and enter on the records of the meeting the fact that the board did not believe Mr. Mayberry's statement to be correct. Mr. Burns made the chairman's suggestion into a motion and it was unanimously voted.

Dr. McCarty, chairman, said it seemed rather remarkable to him that a man carrying on the business that was represented in the position of superintendent of the charitable department should be so careless with valuable property as Mr. Mayberry had been and he hoped it would be a lesson for the present superintendent.

Mr. Howe, referring to the matter, said: "I don't believe the letter was written by Mr. Mayberry, but was written for him. The language and the phraseology does not sound like Solomon S. Mayberry. I believe it to be the work of some collector, who have been misrepresenting the policies of this department and trying to embarrass this board. I would accept Mr. Mayberry's statement if he did not reflect on clerks and others in this office, but in view of such reflection I must and do protest."

The Chelmsford Street Hospital.

Mr. Ricard took up the question of the change of the name of the city hospital to "The Chelmsford Street Hospital." As far back as April Mr. Howe had an ordinance introduced in the city council for the change of name. The matter was referred to the committee on ordinance and legislation and that was the last it was heard from it.

"I don't think," said Dr. McCarty, "that anything startling will happen if we take it upon ourselves to change the name. The names of other institutions throughout the state have been changed, for men have come to realize that it is their duty to remove as far as possible the stigma of pauperism. The name change will do no harm and I am sure it will do some good. I would suggest that we instruct Supt. Conley to remove the present sign from the institution and have it repainted and re-lettered and made to read 'Chelmsford Street Hospital.' We have done what we can to get the sanction of the city council in the matter and now let us take the step and see what will happen."

Mr. Burns made a motion incorporating the suggestions of the chairman and it was voted unanimously to change the name to "Chelmsford Street Hospital."

Supt. Conley was asked relative to the crops at the farm and he said they were exceptionally good and that the purchasing agent was looking up some cows and a horse for the farm. Mr. Conley told of visits he had made to Boston and other places where persons from this city are being cared for and he gave quite an exhaustive report relative to their physical condition and how they were being cared for.

Relative to the price for care at the Chelmsford Street hospital Mr. Howe said: "I understand it has been the custom in the past to charge $30.00 per week for certain persons residing at the Chelmsford Street hospital. Now the price for the past year was but $2.12 per week, and I don't see why we should charge $30.00 a week as it provides a hardship upon some people. We are not maintaining a municipal hospital or a Hotel de Ville for the purpose of enriching the city treasury, and when we vote that certain ones shall enter the institution, I think the expense should be reduced to the actual cost."

It was voted that the superintendent be given jurisdiction in the matter.

At this point the meeting adjourned.

EFFORTS FAILED

The Abbe Managed to Keep the Lead

BUFFALO, Aug. 17.—Contrary to expectations, the small fields at Fort Erie track supplied some thrilling finishes at the opening of Buffalo's grand circuit meeting yesterday.

Direct Tone upset calculations in the 217 trot and the tactics employed by Cox and Murphy in an effort to defeat The Abbe in the Maple Leaf $5000 215 pace left the first two heats to whirlwind battles from the half mile pole home.

The Abbe was top horse in the small field at 100 to 40 and the field end was persistently played by the Murphy following, for they believed if left to a brush May Day could nip the Chimes horses at the wire. Going away Murphy tried to take May Day in behind Geers, but the man from Memphis was wise and forced May Day to set the pace.

Down to the half they landed in 1.05 1/2 where Murphy and Cox set sail and they had The Abbe to a drive at the wire in a nose and nose finish, stepping the last half in 1.01 1/2.

Using the same methods in the second heat, they rushed home the final half in 1.02 and this time Branham Baughman beat May Day for the place by a head and neck.

May Day went to a break 50 yards from the wire in the final heat and with Branham Baughman at his wheel The Abbe marched a mile in 2.05 1/2, landing May Day outside the banner.

The 217 trot had Velozora as favorite against the field in 50 to 50 for some time, when a strong play on Capt. Cate his Cleveland showing made him the choice. Capt. Cate went to the front at the word and showed the way to the stretch, where Orion at the rail and Direct Tone on the outside raced to his head and the Directum Kelly horse got the award in a very close three-horse finish.

Thereafter the good looking gelding by Directum Kelly was always in the lead and unbeatable, while the little old fashioned New Hampshire mare, Velozora, landed the place and second money in two smashing drives with Orion and Pearl Pauline.

Walter Hal, a 3-to-1 choice, over his field in the 2.07 pace, won with something to spare. Big Boy being the only horse in the lot to give him any semblance of an argument. The summary:

HIT BIG BEAR

Animal Tossed on Hood of Auto

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 17.—After touring through the wilds of Maine for two weeks without seeing or hearing anything startling, a New York party had an experience early yesterday morning that fairly made their hair stand on end. It was a collision with a bear.

The party, composed of Edward L. Hopkins and wife of New York, John P. Fassett of New York, and Miss Marion Gordon of Philadelphia, were returning in a touring car from northern Maine. Monday night they stayed at a farmhouse in Milo, and early this morning they resumed their journey toward Bangor. About 9 o'clock, while in the town of Lagrange, 28 miles north of Bangor, the car was going at the rate of 35 miles an hour down a steep hill, at the foot of which the road, thickly bordered with bushes, turns sharply to the right.

Just as the car reached the turn, Mr. Hopkins, who was driving, was startled to see a huge bear break out of the bushes a little way ahead and start directly across the highway. There was no time to slow down and Hopkins had his choice of two things—ditching the car with the risk of smashing it, or injuring all hands or striking the bear. He decided to take a chance with the bear, and an instant later while the women shrieked in terror the big animal hit him squarely amidships. Mr. Hopkins had expected that the force of the impact would toss the bear to one side, but something quite different happened. The bear, a 400-pounder, gave one loud grunt and stopped over onto the hood of the car, growling and scratching and in that manner carried along for quite a distance until the car struck a stump in the road and gave a jump that bounced the bear off. The animal fell under the right wheel, thus turning the car into the ditch.

The occupants were not at all injured and the car only slightly damaged, was soon righted with a jack. Meanwhile the bear, which had been dazed by the blow, had got upon its feet.

LEBLANC WON RACE

Thousands Stayed up All Night to See Finish of Contest

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Half of Paris forsook their beds last night and remained in the streets until morning to watch the conclusion of the great cross country aviation race which was won by Leblanc in a Bleriot monoplane. Aubrun, also in a Bleriot, took second prize, finishing a short twenty minutes behind the winner, although his total time in completing the course was somewhat longer.

Leblanc's flight from Amiens, some sixty miles, was made in the same superb style as the previous laps in the race. He left Amiens at 5.03 and descended at Issy in the suburbs of Paris one hour and 28 minutes later, making the total time for the 48.5 miles of the entire flight 11 hours, 55 minutes and 59 seconds, an average of nearly forty miles an hour as the crow flies, without making any allowance for detours or for the time spent in battling with the storm in the light from Mexico to Douai last Friday.

Aubrun, whose time from Amiens was one hour and 51 minutes, completed the circuit in 12 hours, 27 minutes and 14 seconds. None of the other competitors completed the entire course though Legagneux, who was forced to retire in the early stages of the race finished with Leblanc and Aubrun.

There was a moment of tumultuous cheering as Leblanc appeared above Issy in the early dawn and from the height of nearly a quarter of a mile plashed down toward the earth and swooped across the line like a giant hawk, alighting with the ease and grace of a big bird. The authorities in anticipation of the excitement of the enormous crowds had cordoned the alighting place at Issy with hundreds of police, backed by a regiment of stal-

BOUT HELD UP

Kaufman and Lang Did Not Meet

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Three thousand eight fans who had assembled at the Fairmont A. C. here to see Al Kaufman and Bill Lang, the big Australian, box 10 rounds last night, were disappointed, as the club management announced that the bout was off.

John Murray Smith, the young president of the board of directors, who is acting as mayor during Mayor Gaynor's illness, had notified the club that he would not permit the bout to be held. The police had surrounded the place, and although four preliminaries were held unmolested, the orders from the acting mayor were so strict that the main contest was abandoned.

Kaufman was already stripped for battle and in the ring when the announcement was made. Lang stood near him, gurbed in a bathrobe. Notwithstanding his disappointment, the big crowd was good-natured, and while there were a few hoots, every one filed out in an orderly manner. Announcement was made that all money paid for seats would be refunded.

Spectators had come from Philadelphia, Boston and Baltimore to see the bout, and in the crowd were seen the faces of Jim Corbett, Kid McCoy, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and Charley White.

Hugh McIntosh, the Australian promoter, who was on hand, said that in all probability Lang and Kaufman would be matched to fight six rounds at the American league park in Philadelphia two weeks hence.

Acting Mayor Mitchell did not notify the police of his intention in advance, but instead paid $1 for a room opposite the club entrance, and ensconced himself there to observe developments. Inspector Hussey learned of his presence, called on him, and promptly summoned the reserves of three precincts. After they appeared nobody was allowed to enter the club, and word was sent in that the bout must be called off.

FIGHT IS PROMISED

Roosevelt to Urge a Progressive Candidate and Platform

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—There was marked calm today over the troubled waters of the republican political seas following the storm yesterday when the "Old Guard" in the republican state committee voted down Theodore Roosevelt's name for temporary chairman of the coming state convention. No one was prepared to say how things would shape themselves in the day's preliminary to the state convention where the delegates, after all, will finally determine who shall be the temporary presiding officer.

New York County Chairman Griscom, who presented Col. Roosevelt's name to the committee, says the fight will be carried to the primaries and to the convention. State Chairman Woodruff blames Griscom for all the present trouble, it is reported, saying that Griscom should not have brought Col. Roosevelt's name in the matter.

Meanwhile, the state committeemen who voted for Col. Roosevelt are asking today what made the colonel laugh so loudly when he talked with Mr. Griscom after the committee meeting yesterday.

That Col. Roosevelt intends as a delegate to the state convention from Nassau county to urge a progressive platform and candidate for governor is clearly indicated, politicians say this morning in that portion of the colonel's statement issued last night which says that a speech by him "would be of such character that it might help if the convention nominated the right kind of men on a clean cut, progressive platform, but that it would hurt if neither the right kind of man were nominated nor the right kind of a platform adopted."

LOWELL HUSTLER

Ralph Wilson Wins Success in Montana

Ralph Wilson, son of Wesley A. Wilson of the police department, is visiting his parents after an absence of three years in the mining district of Montana. Ralph is a graduate of the Lowell high school, and after graduating took a course in mining engineering at the Lowell Textile school. He then went to Montana and entered the employ of the Consolidated Coal and Coke Mining Co. Starting at the bottom of the ladder, and by giving close attention to the business of the company he advanced rapidly and now occupies the position of assistant superintendent of the mines.

He has been given a leave of absence for a few weeks, and will return to Montana in October. Mr. Wilson states that the western country is a great place for the young man who is willing to hustle and is not afraid of work. Judging from some of the stories he tells, Montana must be an interesting place to live. We should also judge that it would be the last place in the world for a dude or a loafer. The hustler has many chances to make money in the mines.

POSTMASTER GENERAL HITCHCOCK

EVERETT CHILD

Declared to be America's Prettiest

EVERETT, Aug. 17.—Milliecent Agathe Gowen, the 8 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gowen of 148 Main street, is pronounced by artists and sculptors from various parts of the country to be "the prettiest child in America."

Her photograph won first prize at the recent photographic convention and attracted attention in art circles to her beauty and symmetrical physique.

She has been photographed and posed for artists hundreds of times since her first picture attracted the notice of a traveling salesman. He suggested to his firm that her picture be used with a baking powder ad. as an "eye-catcher." She was then 3 years old.

One of her striking characteristics is her ability to control her eyes and her facial expression when posing before the camera or for artists or sculptors. She has a particularly sunny disposition.

Milliecent resembles her mother, who is a English birth, both in her clear blue eyes and fair hair and pinkish white complexion. She curled up on her mother's lap, while her beauty of face and figure was being related, quite unconscious of the attention she has attracted, and munched a big red apple, smiling sweetly at the reporter between bites.

The child has a brother 5 years old, who has handsome brown eyes and a well shaped head and body. The girl is attending the public schools and is in the fourth grade, being exceptionally bright. As a reader she excels all children in the vicinity. She is a graceful dancer.

In unaffected manner the girl plays with her schoolmates like any other normal child of her age. Her family doctor and other medical men who have examined her pronounce her the ideal of a beautiful and healthy child.

Artists tell her mother that the loveliness of Milliecent rivals that of little Mildred Anne Devereux, who many say is the prettiest child in Europe. Milliecent's photographs show all the moods from grave to gay, her eyes in some views having the witchery of a little flirt; in others all the sorrows of a Madonna are expressed; in still others the carefree expression of childhood.

She has posed for long and short hours at intervals during the past year in studios for pictures in every sort of position. It is the intention of Mr. Gowen and his wife to give the little girl a good education in the hope that her good looks may be matched by her intellectual powers.

Her mother, Mrs. Rose Gowen, is an artist and many water colors, oil paintings and hand painted china pieces she has done during her home life. She has painted Milliecent several times. Before marriage Mrs. Gowen taught painting in this city.

governed in his travels by conditions of political interest when he reaches the Pacific coast. For many years Mr. Hitchcock has made it a rule to spend part of his summer vacation in the west. He will combine pleasure and politics this year and when he returns to Washington in September will be able to tell the president at first hand regarding conditions in the western states. The postmaster general is advised that in many of the states where the republicans were torn apart a few months ago there is now a better feeling and that the republican party is again demonstrating its ability to "get itself together" for the biennial November struggle.

MEN OF THE FLEET

Were Royally Entertained by Newport People Today

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—Through a lane of American flags more than 3500 enlisted men of the Atlantic battleship fleet marched for a mile and a half today as the guests of the citizens of Newport and at the end of the march they were served with one of the clamorous that have made Rhode Island famous. Launches, longboats, gigs and dories—all laden, almost to the water's edge with men—began putting off from the ships at 10.30 and half an hour later all of the men had been landed at the various wharves along the waterfront in the rear of Thames street and thence by way of Broadway to the circus grounds where the bake was served.

Nearly every building along the route was decorated in hunting and the marchers passed through an unbroken line of American flags.

At the circus grounds the detail from each ship was assigned to a separate dining tent. As the head of the line reached the grounds the bands were massed and the men marched to their dining tents singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

The bake was one of the biggest bakes ever attempted in this city, a lane of 250 ovens and waiters being sent to serve it. Besides the clams and the "dixies" of dressing, fish, potatoes, green corn, lobsters and fritters, the men were provided with assorted fruits, ice cream, cigars, bottled beer, lemonade and some soda water. Each man was given a souvenir menu on which were found the words of a popular among the sailors and during the dinner the songs of the men provided a feature that attracted thousands of residents to the vicinity of the bake. The sailors sang lustily, the volume and melody they produced testifying to the musical training at the various naval training stations in the country.

Among the guests were Rear-Admiral Schroeder, the commanding officer of the fleet, his aides, several of the officers, secretary of the navy, George Von L. Meyer, and several persons prominent in the official and industrial life of Newport.

Earlier in the day, Acting Mayor Shepley, accompanied by Senator Wetmore, Congressman Sheffield and the members of the reception committee, visited Admiral Schroeder on board the flagship Connecticut and extended to him, his officers and the enlisted men the freedom of the city. Later the admiral, accompanied by his aides, came on shore and escorted by the members of the reception committee called upon Acting Mayor Shepley at city hall.

The fleet in port this week is the largest that ever came into Narragansett bay and includes in addition to the 12 battleships six auxiliary vessels and the despatch boat Dolphin.
